WALKER NAMED 5 BILLION FUND SPENDING CHIEF

Chosen to Pass on Works Projects.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today selected Frank Walker, former treasurer of the Democratic party, as his chief adviser on the spending of the 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief fund.

Walker, the President announced, will replace Donald R. Richberg as director of the National Emergency council, known as the supercabinet, and in this position will receive all applications from cities, counties, states, and other sources for slices of the work relief easy money.

Besides being what the White House termed the "reception committee" for applications, Walker will have the power to analyze them and recommend to Mr. Roosevelt which shall be approved. His recommendations will be submitted to an "allotment board," which is yet to be organized, but which the President himself will head. Walker will begin work tomorrow.

Eclipses Hopkins, Ickes.

Walker, who in addition to collecting the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1932 served as director of the National Emergency council for a short time in 1933-'34, thus emerged as the most important figure in the spending of the 4 billion 880 million dollars, eclipsing Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes. These two New Dealers, together with others, may get positions on the allotment board.

Charges that the President is playing politics, with an eye to the 1936 election, redoubled after it was learned that Walker, who knows who "kicked in" for Roosevelt in 1932, will become the official with the power of recommending work relief projects to the President.

Walker Heads New Bureau.

In addition to replacing Richberg, who will now devote his full time to the chairmanship of the NRA, as director of the emergency council, Walker also will head a new "division of applications and information" in the council, the President announced. It is to this division that the would be borrowers of easy money must formally submit their applications.

Walker, once he gets an application, will have it analyzed by the appropriate government agency, such as the bureau of roads, the army engineers, or the public works administration, Mr. Roosevelt explained. Walker also will group the project with others from the same geographical region to make sure that it is necessary and appriate to care for the unemployed in that area.

Once these studies are completed, according to the White House explanation, Walker will send the application, with his recommendation for action, to the allotment board headed by the President.

Roosevelt Explains Procedure.

Mr. Roosevelt's formal statement explaining Walker appointment and the procedure to be adopted said:

"The President announced today the organization of a new division of the National Emergency council. This is the first of a series of announcements to be made in relation to provisions for administering the four billion dollar work relief appropriation.

"This new division of applications and information will act as a clearing house with the general objective of providing for the public and for officials of the federal, state, and local governmental agencies, as well as for civic organizations, a central place for their general convenience. Here will be received all suggested plans for the useful expenditure of work relief funds, no matter what the source of these suggestions may be.

Division to Check Plans.

"In this division these plans will be carefully sorted and checked, and where engineering or other study is necessary such study will be obtained from the regular government departments best qualified for the work. A preliminary comparison of the usefulness of all of these plans will be made by the division and the plans themselves then will be segregated to conform with the relief areas, which, in turn, will be based on the number of unemployed persons within a proper geographical area.

"As fast as these plans are cleared through this division they will be submitted to a works allotment board, the details of which will be announced in a few days. It is worth noting that a very large number of projects already have been studied and reported on by the various gov-

Legally Dead 3 Times, But Isn't Even Sick

If Mr. Fred Sauter, a painter living at 5325 Blackstone avenue, were a devotee of Mark Twain, undoubtedly he would have asserted yesterday in the words of that writer:

"The report of my death was greatly exaggerated."

Three times Mr. Sauter has been pronounced dead in court adjudications. One insurance company, the Metropolitan of New York, paid a $1,000 policy on Mr. Sauter's life, as the result of a court finding that he was dead. This finding was based on the fact that he had been missing from Memphis, Tenn., for seven years, and seven years' absence raises a legal presumption of death.

The First Move.

To start at the beginning, Mr. Sauter said he moved his business from Memphis ten years ago, and, when his wife refused to follow him to Birmingham, Ala., he obtained a divorce. Shortly thereafter he came to Chicago, and that's where every one lost track of him.

His wife, Mrs. Sophia S. Sauter, died in Memphis and the estate went to two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Ryan and Mrs. Frieda Reiff. They sued to collect on Sauter's insurance and collected on the Metropolitan policy. Juries also returned verdicts for the sisters on two other $1,000 policies, one in the Massachusetts Life company and the other in the New York Life company.

Two Cases Still Pending.

Attorneys for these concerns still are battling these verdicts in the higher courts. A few days ago a Massachusetts company representative found Sauter alive and well here, though minus a leg, lost a few months ago in an accident.

Sauter told the insurance man he had no intention of disappearing, and he knew nothing about the efforts to collect on his insurance.

DOG SAVES BOY FROM POND, BUT MASTER DROWNS

Hamden, Conn., April 23.—(AP)—A 10 year old boy was saved from drowning here today by an Airedale dog, but the animal's master, Robert Weiss, 7, drowned when the crude boat in which the two boys were floating capsized.

The dog, Topsy, was left on shore when the two boys put out. When the craft overturned 20 feet from shore, Topsy plunged in and swam toward it.

Her master had disappeared beneath the surface of the pond when Topsy reached the spot. She seized Anthony Raccula by the clothing and swam ashore with him.

HOUSES SHAKEN IN CAPE COD TEMBLOR; FELT FOR 15 MILES

Provincetown, Mass., April 23.—(AP)—An earthquake rocked this town on the tip of Cape Cod tonight, shaking houses, rattling dishes, and terrifying the inhabitants.

The quake, which was felt for miles along the narrow tip of the cape, occurred at 7:24 p. m., Chicago time, according to records of the Harvard university seismograph station at Harvard, Mass.

Until the university records established that the shock was an earthquake, residents of the town believed there had been a tremendous explosion. The shock was felt as far distant as Wellfleet, 15 miles away. The quake also was felt in Gloucester on the north shore of Massachusetts.

MOSCOW OPENS ITS NEW SUBWAY; STALIN TRIES IT

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, April 23.—An event to which all Moscow has been looking forward eagerly for two years is now occurring here. "The subway that Moscow built"—for nearly every able bodied man and woman in the city dug in it at one time or another—is now open to the public.

One hundred and fifty thousand persons a day are being admitted for free rides before the subway is put into regular commercial operation next month. Long queues of workers from various factories, armed with passes, stand at each station until far into the night.

Last night Dictator Stalin entered the tube for the first time. He was accompanied by Premier Molotoff and other officials. They inspected the escalators—the first ever installed in Russia—and made a round trip in one of the new four car trains.

COAT OF GARBAGE FOR DROUTH AREA IS LATEST IDEA

Cleveland, O., April 23.—(AP)—The newest idea for saving thousands of acres of western land from a continuance of devastating dust storms calls for a kind of heroic treatment.

Stephen A. Sted of Cleveland, in a letter to Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, recommends that garbage be laid 10 inches deep all over the drouth-stricken area.

Sted, vice president of Railway Warehouses, Inc., believes the government could obtain enough garbage for the purpose by condemnation, said he sent a copy of his letter to President Roosevelt. He was not prepared, he said, to estimate how many carloads of garbage would be required.

Relief Halted in 2 Counties; Funds at End

Two widely separated counties, La Salle and Alexander, yesterday became the first to stop relief operations because of the deadlock between federal officials and the state legislature, which left the Illinois emergency relief commission $1,500,000 short for the present month. Unless action is taken at Springfield relief will be cut off in Cook county tomorrow night for the same reason.

About 26,500 persons in the two counties were thrown upon their own resources by the action taken yesterday by local relief administrators, who were told by IERC headquarters here that there were no more funds. It was the first time the IERC has been forced to halt relief operations since its establishment more than three years ago.

Have Small Reserves.

Both counties had small reserve funds they were holding back for emergency items, such as medical care and milk for infants and children. Some of the relief clients had just received checks for their employment on work projects, which could be made to last for another week, while others on direct relief had supplies or partially used food orders to enable them to carry on temporarily.

In Alexander county, at the southern tip of the state, 2,920 families, comprising 12,000 persons, or about 40 per cent of the population, are on relief. IERC headquarters was notified yesterday that the shortage there was $8,400 on its total April requirement of $67,953. More than a third of the relief clients are colored people living in Cairo.

In La Salle county there are 3,611 families, or approximately 14,500 persons, on the relief rolls. A shortage of about $13,000 in the month's total needs of $102,346 made it necessary to cut off relief last night, according to Mrs. Dortha Jensen, the county relief administrator.

Stretch Out Funds.

How many other counties will have to discontinue regular relief activities before the end of the month if the present shortage is not remedied was not known at relief headquarters here. However, eight counties reported suspension of work relief assignments in order to stretch out funds a little longer on a direct relief basis. These are Franklin, Cass, Greene, Mercer, Stephenson, Adams, Logan, and Williamson.

The federal government has already given Illinois the full amount it requested for April. However, that amount was based on the expectation that the state would contribute $3,000,000 toward this month's needs. The IERC has received only $1,500,000 in state funds for April thus far.

WAR BABIES OF FRANCE ARE IN THE ARMY NOW

120,000 Conscripts Called to Colors.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 23.—Amid scenes not witnessed since the war, the first contingent of this year's conscripts—many of them "war babies"—was called to the colors today.

Over all of France, farewells by 120,000 conscripts to mothers, sweethearts and a few wives took place with unusual solemnity. The focus of attention, however, was the east station of Paris, the classic point of departure of French troops for the eastern frontier, known to all American veterans as the place where they entrained for Chalons-sur-Marne, the Argonne forest and other points where the action was hottest.

Observers noted that all the young conscripts took a long look at the gigantic paintings in the main hall of the east station done by the American, Maurice Herter, and presented to the French government eight years ago. They depict mobilization scenes of 1914 and the departure of troops for battle.

Avoid Gravity of Situation.

Conversations purposely avoided the gravity of the present situation induced by Germany's rearming. They were confined to jokes concerning the eighteen months this contingent must do instead of one year, and to congratulations that this contingent escaped the two year service which must be done by the following contingent.

The press and public were heartened because the whole operation came off in good order without trouble from extremists. Further confidence was raised by the public declaration of Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staf, that the morale of the French army has never been better.

The return of self-confidence in France is marked by a stiffening of opposition to the conclusion of the Russian alliance treaty. It is believed a pact will be signed shortly, but it will be simply a declaration of mutual good will.

Report Reds Ruined Pact.

A reliable source asserted today that the real cause of the breakdown of the Franco-Russian negotiations was on the Russian side. The Russians wanted to tack on a rider which would bring the French to their aid if they intervened in Memel or in the Baltic states, and the French flatly refused.

The determination of the French not to be caught napping is shown by the wholesale transfer of troops from the Italian frontier to the northeast, an operation made possible by improved relations with Italy.

Today the second and fifth batteries of the 157th artillery left their Nice barracks for permanent garrison duty in Thionville in former German Lorraine. Authorities admit that transfers will continue until three-fourths of the present Alpine forces are manning fortifications along the Rhine and German border.

The whole details of German armament will be published tomorrow in the Paris weekly Marianne, which claims to have proof that Germany possesses 124 commercial air fields, 109 admitted to be military ones, and 25 nominally belonging to sports organizations.

Predicts Another Hitler Note.

BERLIN, April 23.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's next move on the chessboard of European diplomacy tonight was known only to himself.

A spokesman at the foreign office—the same spokesman who predicted Hitler's brief note last week, sternly rejecting the league of nations' condemnation of Germany's rearmament—said "an additional reply" is likely. This further statement, he indicated, would "pick the Geneva resolution to pieces in detail and restate our position."

This official, however, admitted he based his belief merely on probabilities, asserting no one in Berlin knew what the reichsfuehrer is working out at his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden.

Advices from Munich said Hitler conferred with Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath there today. Later this was denied, the propaganda ministry declaring Hitler has not left Berchtesgaden since Friday.

At the foreign office meanwhile it was learned Undersecretary Bernard W. von Buelow has been putting out feelers as to how Prince Ernst von Starhemberg's recent visit to Rome may be reconciled with the oft proclaimed idea of nonintervention in Austria. The Austrian vice chancellor and Fascist leader conferred with Premier Mussolini last week.

Wallace Says Mae Did Have Husband; Him!

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Executing one of those fancy pirouettes that have made him a force to be reckoned with in vaudeville circles, Frank Wallace, the Brooklyn hoofer, leaped today into the limelight which his putative marriage to Mae West has kindled during the last 48 hours.

While Mae denies it on the coast, Frank affirms it in New York at the Hotel Whitney. His memories of Miss West, he disclosed today, are filled with warmth and affection. He revealed a sort of childhood pact that they entered into whereby, whichever of the two got ahead first, he or she would help the other, come what may, and neither rain nor sleet nor storm nor gloom of night would stay them from this appointed purpose.

Doesn't Work That Way.

This hasn't worked out altogether, Wallace said today, since he has not received much, if any, help from his former wife since she made the grade. However, he bears her no ill will, he said, and if he had the dough in his pocket he would be sending her flowers every day. He made it clear, however, that he hasn't the dough.

Wallace described his first meeting with Mae years ago in Brooklyn when her mother brought her backstage where he was rehersing and asked him if he couldn't do something for her little girl, then 16. He took her on as a partner and they hoofed together all over the country and in Milwaukee they decided, he said, to make the partnership personal. They got married.

Manager Tears His Hair.

While Wallace was disclosing this aspect of his early life with the blonde dynamo of the films, his manager, Jack Cornell, a booking agent, was tearing his hair in a small office in the Strand building.

Cornell entered into a discussion with his partner regarding the theatrical business in which no sums less than five figures were mentioned. He alternated between publicly referring to his client as a fine dancer and privately describing him as a heel.

"He talks too much," said Cornell, "but he's all through now. I'm not going to let him talk any more.

"Whaddaya think—a guy comes in yesterday and says he's got $75 which he will give to me for a single appearance by Wallace. I laughed at him. 'Who do you think you are?' I says. 'Wallace is a great man. We won't take less than $500 for a personal appearance.'"

At this point his partner, who shall remain anonymous, chimed in:

"At least $500," he said.

Mae Waxes Wroth.

Hollywood, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—When long distance speculation about Mae West's marital status was followed by Hoofer Frank Wallace's declaration that he really did become her husband in 1911, the West end of the Wallace-West hubbub showed signs of soreness today.

"Let him show a marriage license or divorce papers," Mae rapped. "Drag out the papers; they'll show for themselves. A Russian named Wallace, eh? They'll be showing me a kosher delicatessen run by Mickey O'Hara next.

"This Russian sounds like he's full of vodka, or else it's a publicity stunt, but a publicity stunt for Mr. Wallace, not for Mae West. If I married him and I'm divorced, I certainly would know it, because I'd be drawing alimony. I'm not one to run away from money, you know."

VIGILANTES JOIN POLICE SEARCH IN ROGERS PARK

Excited Crowds Race After Sirens.

Alarmed by the activities of an apparently demented incendiary, who is believed to have set more than 25 fires in the last week, the quiet community of Rogers Park was in a state of excitement last night.

Parties of citizen-vigilantes and extra squads of police patroled the streets seeking the arsonist, whose deeds were climaxed early yesterday with ten fires, in one of which an elderly woman lost her life and her granddaughter was seriously burned.

With police and firemen on the alert, crowds of aroused citizens hurried to every fire, no matter how trivial, in the hope that the arsonist might be caught. They went afoot, on roller skates and bicycles, and in automobiles, but their hope was not realized.

Crowds at Fire Stations.

Throngs of men and women and small boys surrounded the fire stations, eager to be first to respond to the next alarm.

The Rogers Park police station was deluged with calls from nervous housewives, fearful of retiring with the incendiary at large. Lights burned late in apartment buildings, as householders remained on the alert.

Wearing their regulation caps, fifty American Legionnaires, members of the Rogers Park post, joined the force of policemen and vigilantes. Capt. Harding stationed most of the volunteers along Devon and Howard avenues, a policeman and a Legionnaire alternating every two blocks through the business district. Others patroled in pairs through the darkened residential neighborhood during the early morning hours, the time when the firebug was most active.

Guard Apartment Buildings.

The police and vigilante forces directed their watchfulness chiefly to apartment buildings on which the incendiary has concentrated the larger share of his activities.

In only one instance, that of a small blaze in the vestibule of an apartment building at 7420 North Ashland avenue, early in the morning of April 17, was a description obtained of the man believed to be the incendiary.

He was described by Mrs. Alice Heffron, who saw him flee from the building, as being about 30 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall, thin, with a light mustache, gray topcoat, and gray felt hat.

Six Quizzed and Freed.

Throughout yesterday the search for this man was pressed without success. Six suspects were taken to the Rogers Park station for questioning by Capt. Harding, Supervising Captain Thomas Condon, Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan, Chief Frank Brahand of the Twenty-seventh fire battalion, and Deputy State Fire Marshal George Scrivener. All were released.

As news of the crazed firebug's activities spread additional calls were made to the police station, reporting other small fires during the last week which were extinguished without the aid of firemen.

From the similarity of method in which the fires were started Capt. Harding declared he was convinced all were the work of the same man. In most cases papers, vestibule curtains, or doormats were stuffed under stairway carpets and ignited.

Grandmother Is a Victim.

The woman killed early yesterday was Mrs. Julia Goldberg, 72 years old. She was sleeping in her second floor apartment at 7030 Sheridan road with her granddaughter, Miss Valerie Winnick, 20 years old.

At the bottom of a wooden staircase at the rear of the apartment building the firebug laid his tinder and ignited it. The stairwell acted as a flue and the flames shot upward. In a few minutes they were sweeping the rear of Mrs. Goldberg's flat.

She was overcome by smoke and was dead when firemen broke in the front door and carried her and Miss Winnick outside. The young woman was taken to the Rogers Park hospital with burns on her face, arms, chest, and legs.

Park Engineer Tries Rescue.

In the apartment above, Michael J. Curtin, an engineer for the Chicago park district, and his wife, Alys, narrowly escaped. Remembering the elderly woman on the second floor, Curtin said he wrapped a towel around his face and tried to fight his way through the smoke to Mrs. Goldberg's flat.

Unable to reach the second floor, he returned, only to find the front exit of his apartment obscured by smoke. He and his wife aroused a neighbor across the hall and succeeded in escaping through the rear door of the other apartment.

Other residents of the building escaped or were led to safety by firemen. The damage to the building was estimated at $5,000.

Alarms Pour In on Firemen.

The first fire alarm of the morning in the Rogers Park district was sounded at 3:42 a. m. for a building at 1545 Schreiber avenue. At 4:16 the next alarm came from 1307 Morse avenue. From then on firemen scarcely had a chance to catch their breath. Alarms were reported in the following order:

1309 Morse avenue, at 4:36 a. m.; 1119 Loyola avenue, 4:38; then the fatal fire at 7030 Sheridan road, at 4:40; 6930 Sheridan road, 4:48; 6320 Lakewood avenue, 5:20; 6527 Lakewood avenue, 5:57, which a janitor extinguished; 1254 Loyola avenue, at 6:10, which burned itself out; and 1603 Fargo avenue, a few minutes later.

Three fires before midnight Monday were also blamed on the incendiary. They were in a waste basket at 1258 Albion avenue, where a woman reported hearing some one run down the stairs just before the blaze was noticed; at 6115 North Paulina avenue, and at 1927 Morse avenue.

Other Blazes Laid to Firebug.

An examination of reports at the 27th battalion headquarters by Capt. Harding and other investigators revealed that three blazes on April 17 could also probably be traced to the firebug. These were the fire in the vestibule at 7420 North Ashland avenue, apparently the only time the arsonist was seen, and fires at 6702 Greenview avenue and 1557 North Shore avenue.

On April 19 damage of $25,000 was done to the Rogers Park Baptist church at 1900 Greenleaf avenue. The Rev. John W. Moffatt declared he believed the fire to be of incendiary origin, and an investigation by fire officials indicated that this was probable.

There were four minor blazes in the early morning hours of April 20, at 1329 Hood avenue, 6657 Newgard avenue, 7000 Glenwood avenue, and 6805 Sheridan road. Last Sunday firemen found vestibules afire in buildings at 1625 Morse avenue, 1342 Lunt avenue, and at Balmoral avenue and Broadway.

Residents Extinguish Blazes.

Capt. Harding declared there were probably a score more fires set in apartment buildings, which were discovered almost immediately by residents and extinguished.

Meanwhile the records of all suspects questioned in recent arson cases by Fire Attorney Sheehan and his assistants were being examined. A few were brought in for questioning, but proved themselves innocent.

"The firebug is still at large," said Capt. Harding. "I am placing thirty more patrolmen in the district, and they have been instructed not to relax their vigil for an instant. Because of the rapidity with which the fires were spread, the maniac apparently is operating in an automobile. My men have been ordered to scrutinize closely all lone drivers in the early morning hours."

PASSING AUTOIST CHASES AND GETS HIT-RUN DRIVER

Attempting to escape after his truck caused injury to another motorist, Bernard Pallarch, 46 years old, 3611 Pine Grove avenue, was captured after a three mile chase yesterday.

His captor was Fred Walters, manager of the Northwestern Radio laboratories, 4433 North Lowell avenue. Walters was driving past 2052 Clybourn avenue when he saw Pallarch's truck strike the automobile of Ralph Grosh, 49 years old, 4027 Gladys avenue, just as Grosh was alighting from it. Grosh incurred head injuries that necessitated treatment at the North Avenue hospital.

When Pallarch failed to stop after the accident, Walters pursued him, overtaking him at 1054 Center street, where Pallarch's truck struck another parked vehicle. Walters took his prisoner to the Hudson avenue police station.

LOCATIONS OF NORTH SIDE FIRES

The fires set yesterday are indicated by black dots; other fires within the last few days and believed of the same origin are indicated by crosses. Numbers indicate location.

BLOCK DEBATE ON DRIVER'S LICENSE LAW FOR STATE

Devine Refuses to Call It in House.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Proponents of the drivers' license and financial responsibility bills lobbied the general assembly today without making any progress toward passage of these trafic safety measures.

On the floor of the house, Speaker John Devine [Dem., Dixon] in the face of a gallery of advocates of the drivers' license, refused to call the bill and announced that he would not do so tomorrow either. In the past, he has opposed a drivers' license.

"I should not be accused of trying to bury this measure," the speaker told a reporter. "No member of this house has a right without consulting me to promise groups of people that a hearing on his bill will be held on any certain date. I'm not calling up the drivers' license today or tomorrow because there's more important and urgent legislation on the docket."

O'Grady Invites Crowd.

Representative Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], author of the drivers' license, had invited to Springfield members of civic groups from all parts of the state. From Chicago came George Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee; Hugh Johnson of the Chicago Motor club, Sidney Williams of the National Safety council, George Travers of the Chicago Safety council, and others. A similar delegation was here from Peoria.

"The bill would pass the critical second reading today if the speaker would only call it," O'Grady said in the chambers.

The visitors spent a warm and humid afternoon with the house judiciary committee waiting to be heard on the financial responsibility bill, a companion to the drivers' license. This measure would revoke the drivers' license of a motorist assessed in a civil suit for damages until the judgment were paid and an insurance policy posted to protect the public against financial losses from future accidents the defendant might cause.

Promise Hearing Today.

The committee spent all afternoon hearing debates on a proposed new criminal code by the chairman, Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], promised a hearing on the financial responsibility bill tomorrow.

The house did advance from second to third reading some bills of importance to automobile operation in Illinois. One of these, H. B. 739, gives the state and the counties right to condemn right of way within municipalities for extensions of highways into or through cities and villages. Director Robert Kingery of the department of public works said the passage of this measure was essential to a successful prosecution of the 30 million dollar road construction that the state will soon undertake under the 5 billion dollar federal relief appropriation.

Also advanced from second to third reading were bills giving the Illinois Commerce commission additional authority in carrying out the railroad grade crossing elimination program to be financed with "easy money."

RALPH GALLET, RESORT OWNER, KILLED IN AUTO

Ralph Gallet, 48 years old, of the Croydon hotel, resort proprietor and sports enthusiast, was killed and four others were injured yesterday afternoon in an automobile collision at Crawford avenue and Dempster street, Niles Center. Gallet, who was preparing to open the Lighthouse, a roadhouse at Dempster street and Waukegan road, Morton Grove, had been looking at the place with three of his friends.

Driving east in Dempster street, Gallet's car collided at Crawford avenue with another driven by Frank Zintek, 3417 Melrose street. The others who were riding with Gallet are John Brown, 43 years old, 2234 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn; Felix Benedetti, 48 years old, 2140 South Wabash avenue, and Thomas Chalaire, 43 years old, 2110 Lincoln avenue. Gallet's friends and Zintek were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

Police held Zintek, who said Gallet drove through a stop light and struck Zintek's machine.

Long Operator of Stable.

Gallet, well known to night life in Chicago, once owned a part interest in the Frolics café. His plan was to make the new Lighthouse an exact reproduction of the Cocoanut Grove, famous Los Angeles night spot. Work on the reconstruction has been in progress for some time. The place is to be called the Cocoanut Grove.

Gallet raced horses on Chicago tracks for a number of years and, with several of his friends, put over a betting coup with a horse named Lieut. Russell, which won several races at long prices. Another Gallet horse, Big Star, which established a track record at Sportsman Park in 1932, was burned to death in December of that year in a barn fire on the Samuel Insull estate, four miles south of Libertyville. The barn had been rented to Gallet.

Injury List Reaches 4,500.

The death of Gallet and one other fatality yesterday brought the 1935 Cook county automobile toll to 287. At 4 p. m., yesterday, 232 persons had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 4,500 injured. The other death yesterday:

Anna Mae Kouki, 2 years old, 2451 South Clifton Park avenue, in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred on Monday when she was struck by a truck while playing near her home. The driver, William Oldham, 31 years old, 7933 Ingleside avenue, was not held.

Thomas Reilly, 66 years old, 5218 South Green street, a city inspector, and his daughter, Virginia, 18 years old, were seriously injured yesterday when their automobile collided with a truck at Halsted street and Canalport avenue. The truck speeded away.

Mrs. Madeline Conaghan, 34 years old, 210 East Pearson street, wife of Attorney Paul Conaghan, sustained serious injuries late last night in a freak accident. Returning from Evanston with another couple, Conaghan noticed the right front door of the car blow open at Wilson avenue and the outer drive. As both he and his wife reached to shut it Conaghan applied the brakes suddenly, throwing his wife through the open door to the pavement. She was taken to the Passavant hospital.

CONTINUE PROBE IN DEATH IN FALL OFF AUTOMOBILE

An inquest into the death of Ivor R. Jones, 54 years old, 5200 Sheridan road, was continued yesterday until April 30 to allow police time for investigation. Jones fell to his death from the running board of an automobile Monday night at 6821 Stony Island avenue.

The license of the automobile was traced to Mrs. Grace Fink, 37 years old, of Kankakee. She named as her companions Monday night her sister, Mrs. Anna Ironside, 40 years old, and the latter's daughter, Ruth Stevens, both of 1526 East Marquette road, and James Lamb, 3719 West 64th street.

Police held Lamb and the women, who denied knowing of Jones' fall.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 20; recovered, 18; stripped, 2. [From police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Monday.]

John Gaddy, 29 years old, member of a gang of automobile thieves, was sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Harry B. Miller shortly after a jury had returned a guilty verdict.

Roger Forsythe, 30 years old, another member of the gang, was also found guilty, but his sentence was delayed pending a decision on a motion for a new trial on April 30. Judge Miller indicated that he might be lenient with Forsythe, who aided the state during the trial.

The prosecution termed the gang's method of operation the "cleverest yet discovered." Obtaining engine numbers of cars for sale in second hand lots in Tennessee and Georgia, the gang members then returned to Chicago and obtained licenses for these numbers.

Then, after stealing an automobile to fit the general description of the southern car, the engine number would be changed and the car equipped with apparently legal license plates. The specific charge in the case was the theft of the car of Charles Shyer, 4170 Drexel boulevard, on Jan. 17.

The state brought out the original engine number on the car with acid treatment, and Shyer identified a radio in the car. Another member of the gang, Ray Howe, 38 years old, testified for the state and was granted a separate trial.

UNEASY SENATE TAKES UP STATE RELIEF PROGRAM

Horner Forwards Curt Notice from U. S.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—An uneasy democracy today resumed consideration of the perplexing problem of providing 3 million dollars monthly for relief. The question came before the state senate this evening, just one week before the day set by Relief Administrator Hopkins as the deadline for Illinois to act.

Gov. Horner sent a special message to the assembly which quoted an "official notification" sent by Howard O. Hunter, Hopkins' field representative in this region. The notification read:

"For and on behalf of Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, you are hereby advised that grants of federal relief funds to Illinois after May 1 will be contingent upon the adoption by the Illinois legislature of appropriate legislation to provide state funds for relief in the amount of 3 million dollars a month."

Called Plea for Support.

Transmission of this message was regarded as a plea for immediate support of the bills the governor, and Mayor Kelly of Chicago have endorsed.

They would increase the sales tax to 3 per cent and add the public utilities to other businesses now taxable. These measures, which the governor calls "feasible and least burdensome," failed of passage in the house two weeks ago, but are still pending in the senate.

"I do not insist that you adopt one plan or another," Mr. Horner told the legislature. "If you do not agree that the bills presented furnish the best method of raising additional moneys for unemployment relief, I shall willingly accept any better one that can be devised. I shall willingly accept any adequate plan which commends itself to the discretion and judgment of the general assembly.

"It would be a happy prospect if we could furnish our share for the relief of the needy in Illinois without imposing additional taxation, but that is not possible. The state has a balanced budget, but it has no present income which will supply the necessary amount or any considerable portion of it."

Pats IERC on Back.

The governor then eulogized the work of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which he called a "monumental task performed . . . without compensation or reward, except that satisfaction which comes from great humanitarian service well carried out."

Apparently construing the edict sent by Hunter as a warning that relief would be discontinued in the state unless action is taken within one week, the governor declared that "it is unthinkable that the state of Illinois should abandon to starvation and misery its men, and women, and children who are unable to provide for themselves. I prefer not to base my plea on the calamitous consequences which will result if you fail to do your duty.

"But I would be faithless to the office I hold," he continued, "if I did not voice to you solemn warnings that we are face to face with tragic events, the magnitude of which no one can predict.

Democratic senators will caucus tomorrow morning before the relief bills are considered.

CLIPPER LANDS IN U. S., 20 HOURS OUT OF HAWAII

Fights Wind All but 200 Miles of Way.

Alameda, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—The experimental transoceanic airplane, Pan-American Clipper, landed here at 4:58 p. m. Chicago time today, thus completing the first aerial round trip between here and Hawaii.

The return trip from Honolulu took 2 hours and 14 minutes longer than did the flight out, today's journey being impeded by head and cross winds for some 2,200 of the 2,400 miles.

Since no effort was made to break a speed record on this aerial exploration the return trip speed of 19 hours and 59 minutes was not considered disheartening. The flight down to Hawaii took only 17 hours and 45 minutes, a new record for the westbound crossing.

Roars In Over Hills.

The Clipper roared down to her air base here from the hills south of San Francisco. More than 6,000 persons were on hand to cheer the ship's return. It had been anticipated she would enter the harbor through the Golden Gate, but watchers in that vicinity were disappointed.

Because of the head winds she was forced to fight nearly the whole of the return journey, the giant craft made little more than 100 miles an hour "ground speed" much of the time.

At 3 p. m. it was reported from the plane the Clipper was flying 117 miles an hour at an altitude of 600 feet against a 24 mile an hour cross wind.

An hour later the ship had struck a 12 mile tail wind, increasing its speed to 124 miles an hour.

Throughout the night the ship battled adverse winds which cut its speed down to 85 miles an hour for a while. Head winds of near gale force were encountered, some of them with a velocity of 36 miles an hour.

The Clipper took off for the long flight home at 7:59 p. m., Chicago time, after a short run across the smooth waters of Pearl harbor. It carried 3,000 gallons of gasoline, more than sufficient for the trip.

At an altitude of 7,500 feet the four motored seaplane swept over the Pacific ocean and a thousand feet above the clouds hour after hour.

Beams Guide Her Home.

Radio stations here and in Honolulu provided beams to guide the craft as it roared through the night. An improved radio compass, the challenge of science to hazards of ocean flying, kept the plane on its course.

The plane may remain here for about a week before making another Hawaiian flight in preparation for inauguration this summer of a commercial air service to the orient via other Pacific islands and Maila. Canton, China, is the far eastern terminal of the proposed route.

Resolution Asks Probe Into Manufacturers' 'Lobbying'

Springfeld, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—A resolution to investigate alleged lobbying by representatives of the Illinois Manufacturers' association was introduced in the state senate tonight by Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago]. The resolution did not explain the source of the senator's umbrage. It would create a committee of five, with the power of subpena, to look into the alleged lobbying.

BILL TO MODIFY SKARDA ACT PUT BEFORE HOUSE

Mayor Kelly's Home Rule Plan Is Advanced.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Upon the urging of Chicago real estate organizations, Representative Edward Skarda [Dem., Chicago] today introduced a bill in the house which would modify the Skarda act under which county collectors have been appointed receivers of properties so they could collect delinquent taxes.

Under the original Skarda act, a large number of properties in Cook county were placed in receivership under the county collector. Its proponents claimed that the act resulted in the payment of large tax amounts, but charges also have been made that some abuses crept in through the sale of supplies to the properties.

Provides for Bond.

The new Skarda bill provides that when the county collector applies for appointment as receiver the court, in lieu, can permit the party in possession of the property to retain his possession. Such permission would be conditioned upon a bond equal in amount to a month's income from the property and guarantees that some of the income would be applied to tax payments.

Applications also could be made under the new Skrada bill to remove the county collector from receiverships that he now holds, restoring the property to the possession of the party from whom it was taken. Bonds and guarantees would have to be given as in the other cases.

Home Rule Bill Advanced.

The house advanced to second reading Mayor Kelly's home rule for Chicag bill that has been passed by the senate. The small loans bill, also passed by the senate, was referred to the industrial affairs committee. The bill of Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] making it a misdemeanor to disseminate false advertising also was advanced.

Five justices of the state Supreme court appeared before the house judiciary committee during the afternoon in opposition to several sections of the proposed revision of the criminal code. Those who spoke were Chief Justice Norman L. Jones and Justices Clyde E. Stone, Warren H. Orr, Lott R. Herrick, and Paul Farthing.

Chief Justice Jones opposed the section on reconsideration of verdicts. "This would permit a judge, if he thought the jury had misapplied or misunderstood the law, to ask the jury to reconsider its verdict," he said. "Most juries would reverse their verdict, making it in effect the verdict of judge and not of the jury."

Cites Danger of Guesswork.

Justice Jones also said he doubted if it would be wise, as proposed, to make the penalty fit the persons instead of the crime. He said the provision would allow leeway for guessing.

Provisions regarding bail and the abolition of the grand jury also came in for criticism from the justices. They objected also to powers that would give the ordinary citizen authority to make arrests even though not seeing the commission of a crime.

Two more senate bills were passed by the house in its late afternoon session and are ready for the governor's approval. One gives the Chicago board of education authority to supply luncheons at a reasonable charge to students and the other was Mayor Kelly's refunding bill. Both had been introduced by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago].

"Aliens" Run N. Y. Relief; Swarm in for Good Jobs

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—A parade of professional social service workers passed in review before the Stryker committee investigating the spending of relief funds. They came here from Europe, Chicago, St. Louis, Columbus, and points east and west to "accept" well paid jobs through social service employment agencies. The monthly sum spent on relief is $18,500,000. They, for the most part, told Lloyd Paul Stryker, counsel to the committee, meeting at the city hall, they were members of the American Association of Social Service Workers and the joint vocational service. Still others testified that Miss Marjorie Saxon, formerly in charge of personnel for the bureau, had invited them to come.

Ald. Edward J. Sullivan, Greenwich Village Democrat, declared:

"We'll at least make the city safe for civil service employés who live in New York City."

His proposal to make city employés reside in New York was reintroduced.

Expert from Ohio.

The first witness was Miss M. Chaterine Brown, a precinct case supervisor in Brooklyn, $2,500 a year. She was unfamiliar with Brooklyn streets, having arrived in New York on Jan. 5 from Columbus, O. Her family resides in the state of Washington.

After social work in Columbus and Cleveland, she quit a $2,200 job to take one here.

After four weeks' training here at full pay, she later was put in charge of "seventy-five or eighty" case investigators. Too much time was spent making reports, she admitted.

Wilford R. Humphries, who has spent the last three years in Europe, was the next witness. He is administrative supervisor of precinct 41 in the Bronx. He had studied unemployment relief in England, Germany, Russia, Greece, and Spain.

Humphries had been a resident of New York for "many years," but never voted here. He's paid $2,252 a year.

Arrives from Chicago.

Miss Lee Rabinovitz testified that she came here last Feb. 21 after ten years' residence in Chicago. She is a case supervisor in Brooklyn and is paid at the rate of $2,500 a year. She went to work on March 18 and came here from Chicago to answer to an "offer" by the joint vocational service, of which she is a member.

The committee and Mr. Stryker had great difficulty in hearing Miss Marjorie Earp, formerly of St. Louis, who gave up a $2,400 job in the middle west when invited to take one here as a case supervisor in Manhattan for $2,600.

DR. ELIOT PORTER IS DIVORCED BY WIFE IN NEVADA

Reno, Nev., April 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marian Brown Porter, known in Chicago and Boston society, was granted a divorce today from Dr. Eliot Furness Porter. She charged desertion.

Their marriage on June 7, 1927, in Kenilworth, Ill., was a social event. Following a honeymoon in Europe they went to Boston to live. They have two children. Terms of a property settlement and custody agreement were not disclosed.

Mrs. Porter lost two sisters and two brothers in a series of tragedies that beset her family. A brother, Lieut. Malcolm Cotton Brown, 20, was killed in 1918 in an airplane crash at Gloucester, England. Her sister, Mrs. Meredith B. Skelton, 26, was fatally scalded in a London hotel bathroom in 1925, while on her honeymoon.

Mrs. Skelton's husband, Ralph Fisher Skelton, Chicago artist, was lost in 1930 while flying his plane from Detroit to Chicago. A brother and sister, Gordon Brown, 23, and Mrs. Barbara Bowes, 27, were killed in 1932 near Chicago in a plane crash while Brown was taking Mrs. Bowes up for her first air ride.

2 MUST OCCUPY CELLS, BUT WHO IS WHO? WHERE?

Who is the youth sentenced to the state penitentiary for robbery on Aug. 25, 1934, under the name of William Buras, 18 years old, 1306 Holt street? The state's attorney intends to find out.

Yesterday the real Buras appeared before Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boys' court. He and two companions, Anthony Horak, 20 years old, 822 North Wood street, and William Kopacz, 19 years old, 1252 Holt street, were charged with malicious mischief for breaking into an electrical shop.

Examining the records, Judge Hayes remarked that Buras was supposed to be in prison. But Buras proved he was in a Civilian Conservation corps camp on the date the other "Buras" was sent to prison. Judge Hayes ordered an investigation made, and then sentenced Buras and the other two youths to eight months in the Bridewell.

CHICAGO'S BILL ON REGISTRATION BACK FOR STUDY

House Elections Committee Has It Again.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Chicago's bill for permanent registration of voters to eliminate frauds and save tax payers $600,000 to $1,000,000 a year, got over one hurdle late today. It was reported back to the house elections committee by the subcommittee, in whose charge it has been nestling while proponents of the measure have been voicing suspicions that the chloroform bottle was to be uncorked. The bill goes back to full committee without any recommendations, the subcommittee having voted down a motion to recommend its passage.

When the full elections committee will begin to act is uncertain. Michael F. Hennebry [Dem., Wilmington] its chairman, says it may take the bill up this week or may defer action until next week. He advised members of the Illinois League of Women Voters that no hearing will be held tomorrow or Thursday.

See Change in Tactics.

Indications were at hand that the tactics of opponents of the bill have been changed. The countermove now is for a state-wide permanent registration bill. Late in the day a bill was introduced in the house for the establishment in each county of a board of election commissioners and for permanent registration in every county. It was prepared by the legislative reference bureau. A somewhat similar measure two years ago perished because of rural opposition.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep.], sponsor of the original permanent registration bill, which applies only to Chicago and other cities having election boards, holds that the state-wide bill is an effort to ditch his bill.

"Judging from the opposition two years ago," he said, "I think that rural opposition to registration in the rural precincts is such that the new bill cannot pass. It is used as a device to sidetrack my bill. We are not fooled by this subterfuge."

Frauds Told at Hearing.

A hearing in which the opportunities for fraud and the voting of "floaters" and "peripatetic electors" under the present system, were recounted, preceded the action of the subcommittee.

Frank Ryan [Dem.], chairman of the subcommittee, threw the hearing open to advocates of the bill. By the time the arguments began to clarify it appeared in legislative parlance that the bill was too hot to hold, if there were any intention of holding it. And at the end without a dissenting vote the subcommittee blew upon its metaphorical fingers and dropped the measure back into the lap of the elections committee. Now the lines are set for a hot battle.

As one member put it in a statehouse colloquialism, the subcommittee did not care to be "left holding the sack."

Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of Chicago gave the arguments of the Illinois League of Women Voters. She headed a delegation which included Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, Lake Forest, president; Mrs. Ralph B. Treadway, Glen Ellyn, chairman legislative committee; Mrs. David Shillinglaw, Chicago; Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Winnetka, vice president; Mrs. William Gourley, Lake Forest; Mrs. W. M. Bryant, Oak Park.

Evanston Given as Example.

The ease with which election frauds may be perpetrated in such communities as Evanston, which delights to term itself "Athens of the West," was put in object lesson form. On invitation of Chairman Ryan, Curtis McDougal of the Evanston News-Index appeared and recounted a newspaper stunt of April 2. In this a reporter for the News-Index appeared in 19 different election precints in Evanston and was given 19 ballots, which he marked "Compliments of the News-Index," thus spoiling them, and then dropped them into the box.

He cast 19 ballots without voting, and the camera man had pictures of two vacant lots which he gave among his places of residence.

"Chicago has had a reputation for rotten voting," said Chairman Ryan, "but if this can be done in saintly Evanston, home of the W. C. T. U., where is it any better than Chicago? Will this bill prevent any such possible fraud in Evanston—it does not apply to that city."

"Argument for This Bill."

"Look at it the other way," said Richard J. Lyons [Rep.], "If that can happen in classic, highbrow Evanston, what can happen in densely populated districts in Chicago. It is an argument for this bill, especially if Evanston, in case it wants to purge any such posibility for election fraud, can vote to come under the election board and enjoy this permanent registration."

"This bill is not wanted in areas where gangs of gorillas roam through the precincts on election day."

The question of a statewide bill was interjected.

"Many other communities, not touched by this registration bill, suffer from like opportunities for vote fraud," said Chairman Ryan.

"We are anxious to eradicate election fraud wherever found," said Mr. Schnackenberg, "and two years ago I introduced a bill of statewide extent. But it met with opposition from men from rural areas where everybody knows every other voter, and they called it an unnecessary expense. The election commission act has been on the books forty years and any city that wants to can adopt it and get the advantage of this permanent registration.

"I ask this subcommittee either to kill this bill or to report it out—you fellows have never before been afraid to vote."

"The bill," said Mrs. Ramsey, "is the result of ten years' study. It contains nothing which has not been found workable in other states, Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and others. It will reduce fraud, effect economy, and give convenience to the voter. All we ask is fair consideration."

Victor Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor said his organization endorsed the views of the women's voters league and L. A. Dumond of the Chicago Association of Commerce was on hand ready to put in a good word.

An imposing list of indorsements by civic organizations was ready for the record. A motion to report the bill out with a favorable recommendation lost, and on motion of John R. McSweeney [Dem.], the bill was reported back to full elections committee without recommendation.

LARGEST NAVY BILL IN 15 YEARS BEGINS IN HOUSE

To Reopen Station at Great Lakes, Ill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—The largest naval appropriations bill in fifteen years—containing proposed expenditures of 457 millions of dollars—was started on its legislative journey through the house today.

This naval bill added to the war department appropriations of 400 millions and other measures yet to be enacted, is expected to push Uncle Sam's budget for national defense above the billion dollar mark for the next year.

Following Other Nations.

"It is the kind of navy other countries have compelled us to build," said Representative Glover H. Cary [Dem., Ky.], chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that toiled over the bill. "Great Britain and Japan really have shaped our naval policy."

Before the committee brought out the bill a favorable vote was taken on a $250,000 appropriation for the reopening of the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill. In connection with that item the committee report stated:

"We have an investment at Great Lakes of approximately $26,000,000. In the event of an emergency that station will be needed."

Treaty Navy by 1942.

The naval appropriations bill in its entirety reflects the government's policy to attain a navy of treaty proportions in 1942. After that the annual cost of maintaining the navy at this strength would be 555 million dollars.

In the increased appropriations the amounts for expansion of the navy afloat and in the air include:

New ships, $95,480,000.
Additional aircraft [273], $12,500,000.
Ordnance for aircraft, $1,200,000.
Additional enlisted men, $5,463,000.
Additional pilots, $3,198,000.
Additional midshipmen, $531,000.

Under the present building program the keels have been laid for two aircraft carriers, 10 cruisers, 44 destroyers and 10 submarines. The 1936 budget provides for an increase of 24 more vessels of various types.

In addition 36 destroyers and 21 submarines may be laid down before Dec. 31, 1936.

In commenting on the increases the committee pointed out that from and including 1922, the year of the Washington naval treaty, to and including 1930, the year of the London treaty, Great Britain laid down 86 vessels, Japan laid down 125, and the United States started only 21 vessels.

The house will discuss the bill tomorrow and probably will pass it Thursday or Friday.

Asks Air Base Ring.

One of the developments in the billion dollar national defense budget was a favorable vote by the military affairs committee of the house on the Wilcox bill providing for a ring of air corps bases about the United States and possessions. The plan would cost 110 million dollars.

The bases would be located in areas as follows: Atlantic northeast, Atlantic southeast and Caribbean, southeastern states, Pacific northwest, Alaska, Rocky mountain area, and intermediate stations.

OUTPUT CONTROL, PRICE FIXING ARE SCRAPPED BY NRA

Pegging to Be Used Only in "Emergencies."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—A policy of eliminating production control from codes under all circumstances and of avoiding price fixing, except in emergencies, was announced today by the NRA, with the declaration that the recovery administration will aim at "an economy, not of scarcity, but of plenty."

At the same time NRA announced that it has appointed C. H. Crawford, an NRA deputy admistrator, as special administrator for the lumber industry which is meeting in Chicago this week to extricate itself from problems arising out of the defunct price and production control sections of its code.

Regarded as Mere Rephrasing.

NRA's new general price policy, long awaited, was virtually a rephrasing of previous announcements that the NRA now opposes production control and will not allow price control except in "a few industries in which competition has proved unusually disorderly."

This policy will not be put into effect, however, until after congress passes the new NRA law. If anything in the new law should prevent application of the policy announced today, the announcement will become a mere scrap of paper. As it stands, it merely indicates to congress and the country what NRA will do if let alone, W. A. Harriman, NRA administrative officer, said.

Outright price fixing has been attempted by NRA in the lumber, retail tire, insecticide, retail cigaret, and half a dozen other codes. In many instances it has already been dropped, but any existing price fixing arrangements would be called up for scrutiny if the announced policy goes through.

NRA still stands by its far more prevalent device of calling for open price posting even though NRA critics have charged repeatedly that this results in collusion and price fixing by industries.

In summing up its general proposed policy against outright price fixing and production control the NRA said:

"Whatever the necessity for variation in detail, the general objectives of price policy are definite. It must promote fairness between the parties to an industry and make its contribution to the betterment of the standard of living. A control of production is inevitable under any industrial system. A long experience has led us to leave that problem to the open market. In a few industries, in which competition has proved unusually disorderly, it may be necessary to intervene to bring production into line with demand; but such intervention should avoid 'restriction of output' and should aim at the kind of equation between production and consumption as the market is supposed to effect. The strategy of policy must find expression in a multitude of decisions. But its end is single—an economy, not of scarcity, but of plenty."

Begin Picking Jury

Selection of a jury to try the $50,000 alienation of affections suit of William Mytar, 25 years old, a Springfield civil engineer, against C. W. and Grace Townley, 1619 Wilson avenue, parents of his divorced wife, began yesterday before Judge Herbert F. Anderson of Charleston, sitting in the Circuit court here.

Lawyers for both sides questioned prospective jurors closely to discern prejudice against alienation suits because of the publicity such cases have received recently. An Illinois bill limiting actions of this type awaits only Gov. Henry Horner's signature to become a law.

Attorney Ernest Loewy for the plaintiff said Mytar married Marjorie Grace Townley, 24 year old daughter of the defendants, in an elopement to Danville in May, 1930, while both were students at the University of Chicago. Attorney Loewy said Mrs. Mytar's parents induced her to leave her husband and to file in March, 1932, a bill for divorce which later was granted.

2,300 JOBLESS AS CAR FACTORY SHUTS IN STRIKE

Toledo Plant Closes After 600 Walk Out.

Toledo, O., April 23.—[Special.]—More than 2,300 employés of the Chevrolet Motor company were thrown out of work today when the concern closed its Toledo branch factory following a strike of its workmen called by the United Automobile Workers' Federal union.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, with which the striking union is affiliated, said in Washington, D. C., that there is "grave danger" the strike may spread to other automobile factories.

After approximately 600 men on the morning shift at the plant walked out, officials of the company sent the remaining 500 of the shift home and promptly locked the gates.

Union Spurns Compromise.

The exact number of men on strike was undetermined, but James Rowland, chairman of the union's strike committee, said that 90 per cent of the workers are union members.

The strike was called, it was said, after the company refused to grant the union's demand for a closed shop and several other requests. The company, however, offered compromises on several points and said it would grant a 5 per cent general wage increase.

In addition to the closed shop, employés had asked a five day work week, with 7½ hours straight work each day; a 70 cent hourly minimum wage, and the general increase of 5 per cent.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, said in New York that the corporation would not sign an agreement for a closed shop.

Sloan Cites Plans for Vote.

"The strike was called," Sloan said, "in the face of the fact that in accordance with the procedure laid down by the national automobile labor board, appointed by the President of the United States, an election to determine accredited representatives of the workers in the Toledo plant was to be held tomorrow and all arrangements had been made for that purpose. The strike probably will frustrate that election."

Company officials late today demanded a vote by the workers on the company's entire list of counter proposals. The union scheduled a meeting for tonight, but gave no indication whether a vote would be taken.

National Board Eyes Strike.

Included in the company's counter proposals were the recognition of seniority rights, no discrimination against union officials, and a willingness to meet with duly accredited representatives of its employés on questions and grievances.

Richard L. Byrd, member of the national automobile labor board, said in Detroit that the board has not been asked to intercede in the dispute, but that it is closely watching the matter.

Following the walkout and the closing of the plant, company officials posted a circular which set forth the proposals that had been made by the concern.

"This is the first strike in the 20 years of this plant under Chevrolet management," the statement read. "The strike has thrown 2,340 men out of work and deprived them and Toledo of a daily pay roll of about $15,000, at an average rate of 69.6 cents an hour."

The strike committee said there would be no violence during the strike. The shutdown was orderly and only approximately 100 union men were stationed on a picket line, a union representative said.

EMPLOYES ELECTION CALLED OFF AFTER APPELLATE RULING

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—[Special.]—The election among the 4,000 employés of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel corporation, which was to have been held today by order of the National Industrial Relations board, was called off when the Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati granted the company's appeal from the order.

The petition for an election was made by the Kelsey-Hayes local of the United Automobile Workers' Federal Labor union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Rockwell T. Gust, attorney for the company, pointed out to the court that the relations board had no jurisdiction to order elections for employés engaged in intrastate rather than interstate manufacturing. He also contended that there was no pending labor difficulty or point at issue.

SENATE CLEARS STAGE TO PASS BANKHEAD BILL

Measure Is Attacked as Boosting Debt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—After hearing warnings from Democrats that the billion dollar Bankhead farm home bill is unconstitutional and "dangerously socialistic," and will increase the direct and contingent national debt to 55 billion dollars, the senate today demonstrated by two test votes that it will pass the measure.

A motion of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] to send the bill back to the agriculture committee, was voted down, 42 to 38, and an amendment of Senator Josiah W. Bailey [Dem., N. C.] to take out the billion dollar bond provision was defeated 45 to 29. The bill came close to a final vote several times, but Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson obtained a recess with the apparent object of forestalling the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill.

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] based his objections to the federal landlord measure on the ground that the credit of the United States could not withstand it.

Vast Obligations Cited.

"My objection is that we are starting on a course which leads us not only into a billion dollars of expense but into 10 or 15 billion dollars of expense," he said. "The obligations of the government roughly are as follows:

"Twenty eight and a half billion dollars of conceded federal obligations which are direct.

"We have just authorized five billion dollars to be expended for relief purposes, an amount which can only be raised by added indebtedness; it is a potential indebtedness.

"We have, roughly, five billion dollars of unexpended appropriations which can only be provided and used by increasing the indebtedness.

"We have a direct obligation of bonus certificates due in 1945, but notwithstanding a direct obligation of not less than 2 billion dollars.

"So we are confronted with direct obligations of over 40 billion dollars and in addition to that, we have indirect and contingent obligations running into at least five billion dollars. Yet we propose now to start upon a course which will involve not less than 10 billion dollars."

Senator Adams based his estimate that the Bankhead bill would ultimately cost the government 10 billion dollars on the fact that there are 3,000,000 tenant farmers and share croppers said to be in need of relief, so that it would cost 6 billion dollars at $2,000 each for the government to purchase farms and equipment for all of them. The other four billion would be required to purchase farms for the farm laborers, he said.

"Under this bill," the senator asserted, "you are not only taking care of the tenants, but you are bringing within it some millions of farm laborers who are just as much entitled to help. Once we start upon the program of providing every man who wants a farm with a farm at government expense, there is no limit to the obligations the government will incur.

"In my judgment, we will destroy the financial credit of our country by measures such as this, and if we do that we will destroy the tenant, we will destroy the farm owner, we will destroy the home owner and we will destroy the country."

King Also Attacks Bill.

Senator William H. King of Utah, another Democrat, called the Bankhead bill the "most dangerously Socialistic" measure ever to come to the senate in his time.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] called the attention of his colleagues to the fact that under section 8, article 1, of the constitution, the federal government could not acquire a single foot of land in any state, even by the right of eminent domain, without consent to the state legislature.

These warnings, however, had no more effect than Senator Bailey's remark that the program had never been submitted to the bureau of the budget. The attitude of proponents of the bill was most succinctly and frankly stated by Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.].

"I don't care anything about what the director of the budget thinks," said Senator Connally. "The senate and the house are perfectly capable of passing legislation they think is desirable without asking the budget director about it."

HOUSE MILITARY GROUP ASKS DERN FOR FOULOIS REPORT

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The house military committee decided today to give the war department until May 1 to report on its investigation of charges of "gross misconduct and inefficiency" made against Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps.

The charges were made by the committee which seeks to oust Foulois from his command. Chairman McSwain [Dem., S. C.] was instructed to inform Secretary Dern that unless a report was submitted by May 1 the committee would summon Maj. Gen. John F. Preston, inspector general, to explain the delay.

After the committee had recommended Foulois' dismissal last June Dern promised the inspector general would look into the charges. A few days ago the secretary said he had not completed the inquiry.

TAXES TO CLIMB IF BONUS WINS, SENATORS TOLD

Inheritance Boost Studied, Morgenthau Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—The secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, today told the senate finance committee that the Harrison soldiers bonus plan, or any plan to advance the date of payment of the adjusted service certificates, would have to be accompanied by increased taxation.

SECRETARY HENRY MORGENTHAU.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

In response to an inquiry from Senator Robert La Follett [Radical, Wis.], the secretary said the treasury was already considering a plan to increase the inheritance taxes at a rate to bring in from 200 to 600 million dollars additional revenue.

Mr. Morgenthau's statement was regarded as significant since it was the first intimation, from an administration source, as to the form of increased taxation that would be attempted first. President Roosevelt has frequently warned that any appropriations or authorizations outside the budget must be met by additional taxation, but nothing has been said about the kind.

Levy Up to 60 Per Cent.

The inheritance tax rates are already graduated from 1 per cent to 60 per cent, beginning at $10,000 on net estates, and these would have to be drastically increased to produce from 200 to 600 million dollars in additional revenue.

Mr. Morgenthau said the treasury was not attempting to analyze the merits of the Harrison plan to pay the bonus in bonds, but that it was deeply concerned with the problem of finance.

"All of the financial plans made by the treasury for the coming year have been based on adherence to the President's budget," he said. "Moreover, the credit of the United States government depends very largely, in my opinion, upon scrupulous adherence to the President's program.

"I don't think we can continue to enjoy the present favorable rates and favorable market for the sale of government securities if new expenditures are incurred which go far beyond the limits of those which have already been outlined.

Fears "Grave Injustice."

"A material decline in the market price of government securities, which would be very likely to result from large expenditures outside the budget, would work a grave injustice upon all purchasers of government securities and would tend to slow up the whole recovery program."

The secretary concluded by saying that congress should accompany any plan for an increased or earlier settlement of the bonus by revenue provisions covering the additional expenditures.

INDEPENDENT SESSION OF G. O. P. IN CHICAGO FAVORED BY BORAH

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, said today he favored an independent meeting of Republicans in Chicago in the next few months to reorganize with new principles and leaders.

He said he had written many state leaders suggesting this step, in response to inquiries as to what should be done to revitalize the G. O. P., and the replies were favorable. He said he believes the regional meetings, proposed to stir up party activity before the 1936 convention, have too much of a Hoover and old guard tinge.

Borah said the meeting he had in mind would be asked to adopt a new set of principles based on an "America first" doctrine and to select new leaders throughout the nation, with especial attention to younger elements.

The Idahoan would include in the new principles of the party plans embracing a foreign policy of no entanglements, monopoly elimination, increased tarif protection for agriculture, and abandonment of production control measures of the NRA and AAA.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other Oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!

The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

Germ Processed Oil cuts down costly starting wear, which other oils fail to do. It is the only oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. It has a lower rate of consumption and gives longer mileage, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say, "O.K.—Drain"—and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

"We applied at a Conoco station and they had the Conoco Travel Bureau at Denver send a complete plan of our trip, free of charge."

"The individually marked state road maps kept us on the best roads. Every detour and road condition was marked."

"The travel booklets told about scenic and historic points, and hotel and camp directories helped us choose places to stay."

"Friendly Conoco service made it a grand trip, too. You can apply at any Conoco station for this free travel service."

TIMID CONGRESS HAS ABDICATED, SAYS VANDERLIP

Leaders Admit Fearing Lash, Banker Asserts.

Frank A. Vanderlip, retired New York banker, told the American Scandinavian Foundation at the Palmer house last night that congress "has abdicated."

"I have been in Washington a great deal recently," he said, "and have talked with many senators and many congressmen. Last week I spent an entire day before a committee there and I tell you that congress has abdicated.

"When one of the most important of these men tells me: 'It doesn't matter what I think, I am under the lash,' I say congress has ceased to have enough men with the courage to think and to fulfill their obligations."

A Dinner for Diplomat.

Mr. Vanderlip spoke at a dinner in honor of Wollmar Bostrom, Swedish minister to the United States. Mr. Bostrom, too, talked, devoting himself chiefly to the interest of his country in international peace.

Mr. Vanderlip centered his criticism of congress around the pending banking bill, which he termed one of the most monumental pies of legislation ever considered in Washington. More particularly he condemned the second section of that measure increasing the powers of the federal reserve board. He also criticized the bankers for not opposing this proposal more vigorously.

"I believe," he said, "that in the present situation the bankers lack the courage to speak truly what is in their minds."

On Managing the Currency.

Urging a stabilization of price levels through managing currency, he protested against giving powers in this field to "a real political body."

"Whether you like it or not," he continued, "you are going to have a managed currency if this bill passes, yet it contains no statement of the objective sought. I believe, and I believe profoundly, that congress should set up a price index level and should establish an objective of always keeping prices near that level."

Immediately before he entered the hotel ballroom where the dinner was held Mr. Vanderlip accepted service of a summons in a case resulting from the failure of the First State Bank of Chicago Heights. At one time he owned $7,000 worth of the bank's stock but he sold it ten years before the institution closed its doors. A pending suit in the Circuit court seeks to enforce against him as well as all others who ever were stockholders the double liability provision of the banking law. Mr. Vanderlip denied reports that he evaded service during a previous visit to Chicago.

QUINTS EXAMINED BY AN OUTSIDER; PA DISSATISFIED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALLANDER, Ont., April 23.—Although Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto child specialist, today found the Dionne quintuplets in "excellent" general condition, their father, Oliva Dionne, was not satisfied and said he wanted the girls examined by doctors of his own choosing.

Dr. Brown was summoned to examine the youngsters by their regular attendant, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, after Dionne wired Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario that he wanted an outside physician summoned. The girls have had colds, but Dr. Brown said they soon will be normal. Marie, smallest of the five, was unable to accompany her sisters on an airing today, but she is expected to be in first class condition soon.

Dr. Dafoe said Dionne wanted Dr. G. W. Smith and Dr. J. Y. Joyal of North Bay to visit the children.

"I told him I would not object later, but pointed out that the children will be recovered within a day or so," Dr. Dafoe said.

Cousin Has Twins.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Sixty per cent short of the record of his famous relative in Canada, Frank Dionne, cousin of Ovila Dionne, today became the father of twins here. The skimping old bird arrived at 4.30 a. m., with a 7 pound boy. Half an hour later he brought a girl, 6½ pounds.

Householder Shot Twice as He Faces Intruder

John Brunner, 57 years old, 5037 South Wells street, was perhaps fatally injured last night by a colored prowler whom he surprised entering his home. Brunner, a painter for the Rock Island railroad, who lives with his son, Fritz, and daughter, Emma, was alone when he heard a noise in the bathroom, he told Lieut. Michael Golden of the Stockyards police. He found a colored man entering through the bathroom window. The man fired two shots which struck Brunner in the chest.

SEIZE DE GRASSE IN WEST ON MAIL ROBBERY CHARGE

Rocco J. De Grasse, former Melrose Park gang lord and ally of Al Capone, who was indicted March 1 for possessing securities stolen in the $250,000 daylight robbery of a postal messenger at Clark and Adams street on Dec. 6, 1932, was seized yesterday in Portland, Ore., according to dispatches. Detectives arrested him as he was sleeping in an apartment in one of the better residential districts, surrounded by loaded firearms.

De Grasse, according to reports, denied any knowledge of the robbery, but readily admitted possessing $25,000 worth of the stolen securities, which he said were "given" him. De Grasse said he immediately disposed of them, however. He told detectives he had lived in Portland for a year after jumping a small bond at New Orleans, La., where he was arrested for gambling.

$10,000 Blaze in Loop Building Ties Up Trafic

Dense clouds of smoke from flames which attacked the old Yukon building, a two story brick structure on the southwest corner of Van Buren and Clark streets early today drew a crowd of several hundred, tied up surface trafic, and slowed down elevated trains on Van Buren street. The fire was confined to the basement and damage was estimated at $10,000. Because the smoke kept his men from reaching the fire, Arthur Mullaney, first deputy fire marshal, sounded a 3-11 alarm. The fire is believed to have started below the Germania restaurant.

$65,000 JEWELRY HIDDEN BY JAILED SOCIETY WOMAN

CANNES, France, April 23.—(AP)—Police today announced they had found jewelry worth 1,000,000 francs [about $65,000] in a strong box hidden in the hotel room of a London society woman, Mrs. John Circuitt.

The search was conducted with Mrs. Circuitt in jail, where she had been placed on a charge of stealing a $2,000 vanity case from Mrs. Harold Laurence of New York.

The police said the jewelry they found included a brooch worth 30,000 francs [about $1,950] belonging to another English woman, Mrs. Scott Cullingham, a friend of Mrs. Circuitt.

The New York woman reported to police that her vanity case disappeared while she was attending a party.

MAGAZINE BOY, 9, 'JAILED' 4 HOURS AS SHOP CLOSES

For four hours last night David Tarrallo, 9 years old, 221 South Racine avenue, had the run of the offices, shops, and garage of the General Tire company, 1111 Jackson boulevard, because he was locked in while selling magazines. Employés failed to notice the child when they closed the shop for the night. Neighborhood boys gathered outside the window to watch young Tarrallo while Des Plaines street police sought officials of the establishment. At 10 o'clock Clarence Moss, 2658 North McLean avenue, the watchman, appeared and released the boy.

SKIN TROUBLES THAT HAD DEFIED TREATMENT

completely cleared up when treated this way

A new food supplies "Protective Substances" needed to overcome that great cause of many skin troubles . . . CONSTIPATION!

DISTRESSING SKIN TROUBLES overcome—and general health greatly improved—simply by adding one food to the diet—American hospitals are reporting this result in hundreds of their cases!

The commonest cause of many skin troubles, such as pimples and boils, is constipation. Constipation, it has now been found, can be completely corrected by supplying certain "protective substances" in the diet.

Even fruits and vegetables do not supply enough of all these substances. But one food supplies them in abundance . . . the new Fleischmann's Yeast!

Helps to keep the skin clear

This new Fleischmann's Yeast builds up a more active condition of your intestinal tract, increasing the flow of stomach juices and strengthening digestive nerves and muscles.

Then your whole digestive tract works better. Bowels become "regular." Your skin clears up amazingly because bowel poisons no longer flood your system.

Eat the new Fleischmann's Yeast regularly. Don't stop after a few days.

In a prominent American Skin Clinic, patients got these results:

In a leading American private clinic and two prominent American hospitals, the new Fleischmann's Yeast gave satisfactory improvement in 77%, 83% and 89%, respectively, of skin cases. Typical cases from actual records are:—

CASE OF L. T. WOMAN. AGE 27 . . . Very bad acne vulgaris. Was nervous, shy, shunned company. Evacuations irregular. Her improvement under treatment with the new Fleischmann's Yeast was little short of miraculous. Her skin trouble is practically gone. (Skin specialist's comment.) Her nervous condition greatly improved.

CASE OF W. D. YOUTH. AGE 18 . . . Had very bad case of pimples. Complexion sallow. Complained of stomach disturbances, belching, gas . . . After treatment, his bowels moved more often and easily. He no longer complained of indigestion. His skin condition improved.

CASE OF Q. W. WOMAN. AGE 23 . . . Obstinately constipated since childhood. Anemic, underweight, severe acne (pimples) for many years. After treatment (6 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day), bowels moved better and more often. Patient made almost complete skin recovery.

Famous skin specialists found the new fresh yeast astonishingly effective.

"Best corrective for most skin troubles," says Dr. Hufnagel

"I used the new fresh yeast in three clinics," writes Dr. Léon Hufnagel (at left), French skin specialist, "with very successful—in some cases remarkable—results." He is clinic head in Rothschild Foundation Hospital, Paris.

THIS IS THE WAY YOU SHOULD EAT IT:

Eat 3 (or more) cakes of the new Fleischmann's Yeast daily—one-half hour before meals—on an empty stomach.

Eat it just plain or in water, milk or fruit juice—or on crackers.

Discontinue laxatives gradually (not all at once). As the yeast strengthens your bowels, you can stop using cathartics altogether. At grocers, soda fountains and restaurants. Fleischmann's Yeast is a food, you know.

THE NEW FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST can give complete bowel regularity . . . help clear your skin and keep it clear.

Copyright, 1935, Standard Brands Inc.

TO THE MEDICAL PROFESSION:
After one month's feeding of the new Fleischmann's Yeast, patients' elimination was speeded up 48%—as shown by their "charcoal time."
This new Fleischmann's Yeast is not only the richest vitamin-carrying food (supplying Vitamins A, B, G, D); it is extremely rich in a substance resembling a digestive hormone which stimulates digestive activity.
Being fresh, this new fresh yeast releases its properties to the body in their most active form.
Skin disorders often come chiefly from constipation. To make sure of the cause in your case, see a doctor.

RACINE AWAITS MAYOR'S ACTION IN CASE STRIKE

Promise to Maintain Order Quiets City.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., April 23.—[Special.]—Residents of Racine today were waiting for Mayor William J. Swoboda to keep his promise to maintain order in the J. I. Case company strike—a promise which a group of irate citizens last night forced from him under threat of taking the law into their own hands.

Although the city was quiet outwardly, an undercurrent of suspense pervaded the atmosphere as the effect of the blunt demands on the mayor was awaited.

The first effect of the mayor's decision that it would be better to accede to the demands of his people was the withdrawal of picket lines which have been stretched across public streets around the Case plant. Only a nominal force of pickets was on duty at the entrances of the plant and no violence was offered those who entered.

Committee Awaits Action.

The committee of professional and business men who warned the mayor that the very existence of the city was threatened by continual labor disturbance waited in a loose committee organization to see if Swoboda kept his promise to order Chief of Police Grover Lutter to use his own judgment in keeping the peace.

The police chief publicly had told the committee he had been formally ordered by the mayor not to interfere with the strikers.

The sudden uprising of the citizens resulted from a realization that the J. I. Case company, the largest in the city, with a history of more than 90 years' continuous operation here, was moving its sales force to its plant at Rockford, Ill.; that the Andis Clipper company, which also is strikebound, is withdrawing from the city, and that numerous manufacturers report they are losing orders because their customers fear that labor difficulties will interfere with deliveries.

Fails to Protect Men.

The fault found with Mayor Swoboda is expressed in the charge that he has failed to protect men in their right to work as vigorously as he has protected strikers in their right to picket. The Case company has not tried to operate since the strike was declared March 13, so there has been no resistance offered the pickets and no actual violence. The company asserts customers who have driven to Racine from other states with their own trucks to buy tractors have been prevented from entering the company salesrooms.

Racine for more than a year has been stirred not only by strikes but also by communist agitation.

QUESTION A NEW SUSPECT IN HUNT FOR MISSING BOY

Another suspect in the disappearance of Richard Max Perrot, 4 years old, 4110 North Maplewood avenue, was in custody of the North Damen avenue police. He is Joseph Tempenski, 33 years old, 3134 North Lawndale avenue, who was arrested by the Irving Park police.

Under questioning Tempenski said he "once took a boy for a walk." He denied knowing anything of the Perrot child, who disappeared while playing near his home April 4. Police believe he either drowned or was the victim of a moron.

Miss Margaret Octon, 4157 North Central Park avenue, viewed Tempenski, and said he "greatly resembled" the man with whom she saw a small boy the day Richard was reported missing. Miss Octon said he was wearing the same kind of clothes as the "tall, thin" man who was seen with the boy. Police also learned Tempenski has a brother living near the Perrot home.

COURT ENJOINS PWA-COUNTY UTILITY PROJECT

Protects Existing Electric Plant in South.

Greenville, S. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Federal Judge H. H. Watkins virtually ruled today that public works administration funds may not be used to establish competition for existing public utilities engaged in intrastate business.

The judge enjoined Greenwood county, this state, and Secretary Harold L. Ickes, as PWA administrator, from constructing a hydro-electric power project on the Saluda river. The county had proposed to borrow 3 million dollars from the PWA for that project.

Calls Proposal Invalid.

Judge Watkins asserted the proposal was unconstitutional and that the proposed contract was not in accordance with the statute creating the PWA.

The court also declared the government agency had no power to establish a purely proprietary enterprise in competition with an existing utility which was charging rates held, by proper authorities, to be reasonable.

Judge Raps NRA.

Albany, Ga., April 23.—[Special.]—Judge Bascom S. Deaver in the United States District court today signed a temporary injunction in a suit attacking the validity of the NRA. Federal Attorney T. Hoyt Davis has described this case as "the first genuine test of the recovery act in Georgia."

The suit was filed by Simon Schwob, doing business as the Standard Tailoring company of Columbus, manufacturers of men's clothing. Replying to charges of violations of wage and working hour provisions of the men's clothing code, Schwob asked an injunction against the Fourth regional compliance council and various others.

Judge Deaver issued the temporary injunction Schwob sought. A hearing was set for Saturday.

CUMMINGS INSISTS ON ANOTHER TRIAL FOR SAMUEL INSULL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings is still determined to push the federal government's bankruptcy case against Samuel Insull, it was learned today.

This fact was disclosed after Cummings had conferred with Dwight Green, district attorney from Chicago. Green, it is reported, has opposed trying the bankruptcy case, but, if this is true, he failed today to convert the attorney general to his view.

District Attorney Green was still here tonight and probably will see the attorney general again tomorrow. Indications are, however, that discussions now concern only the mode of trying Insull since the fundamental decision to bring the case to trial has already been made.

Behind the justice department's insistence that Green try the final case against Insull is believed to be Cummings' desire to avoid any possible criticism for laxness.

THE LARGEST FLEET OF AIR-CONDITIONED TRAINS IN THE WORLD

316,151,000 GAL. OF CITY WATER WASTED DAILY

Cash Loss to Chicago Runs Into Millions.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Chicago pumps out of Lake Michigan every day, for its citizens to use or waste, about a billion gallons of water.

Estimates of how much they use and how much they waste vary, according to what definition is placed upon waste. The most accurate basis for such estimates is comprehensive survey made in 1928 by city engineers. It was figured yesterday on the basis of that survey, that in 1928 the waste and leakage alone amounted to 261,954,000 gallons a day, more than a quarter of the total pumped.

This estimate appears, if anything, to be too conservative for the present time. The average water pressure in the city is now thirty-five pounds to the square inch, whereas it was only about twenty-nine pounds in 1928. Assuming that the same plumbing leaks and same wasteful practices prevail now as did in 1928, the loss today, as computed by engineers, due to the higher pressure, would be 316,151,000 gallons a day.

Cost Is Enormous.

Even on the basis of the 1928 losses the cost to the city is enormous. Valued at 3.57 cents a thousand gallons, which is the figure the water department uses for the actual cost of pumping, and is little more than half the rate charged consumers, the wasted water represents $3,413,392 a year.

In their 1928 survey the city's engineers went over the books of the department and found that the consumption of water in homes and apartment buildings which were metered averaged 107,768,905 gallons a day. The persons using this metered water numbered 988,706, and their per capita daily consumption was 109 gallons.

In the other homes of the city, housing 2,195,994 persons, an average of 501,317,000 gallons was used daily. The latter figure was an estimate, but an accurate one, arrived at by deducting from the total pumpage all the water sold on metered service for domestic, industrial, or commercial use, that lost through underground leakage in the city's own mains, and the amount required for free or public use.

Leads to Great Waste.

The per capita use of water in unmetered homes was 228.3 gallons a day. Obviously the people who bought their water on a frontage basis and faced no financial penalties for misusing the service actually needed no more water than those who paid by the gallon on metered service and got along on 109 gallons each per day.

It was thought fair, therefore, in estimating the domestic waste and leakage, to charge to that account all consumption over 109 gallons a day per person by the occupants of unmetered homes. This gave the estimate of 261,954,0000 gallons as the domestic leakage and waste at that time.

An entirely different situation prevails with regard to this waste than to loss through leakage in the city's mains. This was estimated at 109,000,000 gallons a day last year, and the city has a force of engineer detectives engaged in seeking out these leaks and repairing them. Until last year nothing was done to stop domestic waste.

Find 830,772 Leaks.

Last January, as a civil works project, the city instituted an inspection of all the domestic plumbing in the city by union plumbers. They found 830,772 leaks. Originally it was planned to repair all of these, the majority of which were in fixtures such as faucets and closet tanks.

The project was halted, however, when only 54,815 of the leaks had been stopped. It was estimated that by these repairs a loss of water amounting to 13,400,000 gallons a day was stopped.

On the same basis the loss from all of the leaks discovered was 203,124,754 gallons a day. This estimate does not take into account the deliberate waste of water through fixtures which are in good repair, and which engineers have reason to believe may be as much as the loss through leakage.

"CLEAN CREEKS," COOK COUNTY TO ASK OF STATE

Stream Pollution Held Health Menace.

Immediate enforcement in the Chicago area by the state sanitary water board of laws prohibiting the pollution of streams is to be urged in a resolution on which the county board will act today.

The resolution, drawn by Clayton F. Smith, names 21 cities and towns that are allegedly polluting the 75 miles of streams flowing through the forest preserves. It suggests that the municipalities named apply for Public Works administration funds to build sewage disposal plants that will correct the trouble.

Ninety per cent of the rivers and other streams in the forest preserves are now "grossly polluted" by sewage run off from villages and institutions, the resolution points out. It declares that this constitutes "a real menace to the millions of persons using the forest preserves annually," and further charges that the pollution greatly limits the recreational value of the preserves.

District Lacks Power.

While the forest preserve district is responsible for the health and safety of its visitors, the resolution points out, its power to halt the pollution of streams is not great. This duty devolves upon the state sanitary water board, and, in Cook county, upon the sanitary district.

If the resolution is adopted, the sanitary district will be asked to seek sufficient PWA funds to complete its work of constructing intercepting sewers and sewage disposal plants in the parts of the Chicago watershed for which the district is responsible. The resolution commends the district for its temporary work along this line.

These Towns Accused.

The cities and towns accused of polluting streams in forest preserves are: Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Crete, Deerfield, Elmhurst, Flossmoor, Glenwood, Gurnee, Hazel Crest, Highland Park, Highwood, Itasca, Lansing, Libertyville, Matteson, Steger, South Chicago Heights, Thornton, Tinley Park, Villa Park, and Wheeling.

Chicago Heights, Smith said, is to be commended for having already asked for PWA funds to correct its pollution of Thorn creek.

"There is no type of public benefit," Smith said, "more beneficial than the cleaning up of our streams. We must insist on immediate action. It is a shame that the present conditions have been permitted to exist."

The 1935 international commercial schools' contest to determine champion typists, shorthand writers, bookkeepers, and dictation and calculating machine operators will be held at the Hotel Sherman on June 27 and 28, it was announced yesterday. Contests were held at A Century of Progress in 1933 and 1934.

Fear It's 'Judgment Day' as Water Tower Topples

Gordo, Ala., April 23.—(AP)—This town's new 100 foot water tower toppled today with its 68,000 gallon capacity splashing the neighborhood. Many colored residents shouted in fear "Judgment day has come," and many prayed until their more sophisticated friends convinced them "de Lawd ain't comin' in no water tank."

WHERE HAS THE RELIEF MONEY GONE?

John Stelle, the state treasurer, has issued a statement calling upon Gov. Horner to investigate the administration of relief in Illinois. Mr. Stelle and the state auditor, Edward J. Barrett, are ex-officio members of the Illinois Relief commission. At a recent meeting of the commission they expressed dissatisfaction with the decentralized disbursing system now in use and asked to be relieved of responsibility for the relief funds unless they were given supervision of a centralized bureau. The commission voted to retain the present system. Mr. Stelle has now appealed to the governor from this decision.

Regardless of the merits of the controversy within the commission, there is urgent need for a searching investigation of relief in Illinois, but it is doubtful if Mr. Horner is in a position to make it. The nonpolitical members of the commission are his appointees, while Mr. Barrett and Mr. Stelle are his political associates. He is therefore committed to both sides in the controversy and an investigation by him would, in all probability, be dominated by his desire to restore peace.

What the people of Illinois want is an investigation of relief which will disclose whether there has been either extravagance or corruption or both. The relief industry is in many respects the largest one in Illinois. It distributes 12 million dollars a month, is a heavy purchaser of supplies, and has a pay roll of some 9,000 persons engaged in the distribution. Its money supports more than 300,000 families, a total of more than a million individuals.

The relief administration was an improvisation. Its expenditures have mounted at a dizzy rate. The possibility that some part of the money has been used improperly for political or private profit is manifest. The likelihood that the distribution of other people's money has been too free-handed is inherent in human nature.

The relief administrators themselves should welcome an investigation under oath. The taxpayers demand it. So vast an expenditure of public funds requires the protection of thorough inquiry and publicity. No whitewashing expedition will meet the need.

HALITOSIS VS. B. O.

Honest Harold Ickes says Huey Long has halitosis of the intellect. If he means that Huey's best friends won't tell him, the diagnosis is not correct. It may be halitosis to Honest Harold, but it's Fleurs d'Amour to Huey's admirers, every man of whom intends to be a king. In short, they like it and the more of it he wafts in their direction the happier they grow.

The Hon. Huey's retort, now entered in the state papers of the republic, is to the general effect that Honest Harold has B. O. It may be hoped that the incident is now closed. A contest between polecats, with or without halitosis, is the kind of sporting event which prudent citizens avoid if possible.

THE RISING TIDE OF AMERICANISM.

Under influences violently critical of American institutions, principles and conditions, a minority of youth in some of our colleges has been induced to assume an insulting and deliberately provocative attitude toward the loyalties and convictions of the normal majority of students. Demonstrations of hostility and contempt for patriotism and faith in Americanism have resulted naturally in disturbances and even rioting from time to time in recent years. The depression years have given material for the exaggerations and distortions of radical agitators and of political and economic quacks, and much has been patiently endured by Americans, whose principles, though condemned by advocates of revolution, included freedom of utterance no matter how foolish, false and mischievous.

But this patience has been put to a long and increasingly violent strain and it is wearing thin. Men like Mr. Walgreen are asking whether it is not time to inquire seriously into the sources of this insolence and violence. Loyal youth have been sneered at and flaunted until they struck back. They have begun to form counter-organizations and demonstrations. Collisions have occurred and eggs and fists have filled the air. The belief that there is subversive teaching in the schools and in higher institutions of learning has been gaining ground and legislatures are taking note, as in the proposals for requiring oaths of allegiance from teachers.

These developments are evidence of a rising tide of Americanism, expressing an inevitable indignation to a long course of radical insult and injury, a persistent distortion of American conditions and a deliberate effort to exploit the inexperience and adventurousness of youth.

Every loyal American respects freedom of thought and speech as a precious part of the American heritage, and regrets the violence which the radical foments but demands protection from. Every loyalist deplores violence, but he is beginning to understand where it is coming from and he does not propose to submit to it, while unscrupulous and ruthless enemies of all he honors and cherishes abuse the freedom they propose to destroy.

BUROCRATIC RAILWAYS.

Senator Wheeler, chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce, has finally completed and introduced his long heralded government ownership of railways bill. Without bothering with such an unimportant detail as the necessity for such a measure, other than that the worthy senator is personally convinced that such a step is inevitable, he proceeds to advocate the incorporation of a government owned "United States Railways."

This federal dummy is to acquire the securities of the railways by the exchange of debentures on or before Jan. 1, 1936, at present market values, either through consolidation or condemnation under the power of eminent domain. As a sop to private security holders it is provided that an estimate will also be prepared to show the value of the railway properties on the basis of 1930 earnings. "Rain checks" for the difference between present values and such estimates will accompany the transfer of securities, such rain checks to acquire value if and when the railways, under government management, are restored to a condition of affluence. The remainder of the bill, which outlines the operating conditions, has all the earmarks of having been inspired by the Canadian act that created their national railway system.

A senator is presumed to have at least average intelligence, so how one can, in good faith, suggest such a measure is one of the vagaries of political life. The gentleman from Montana has records at nis hand—records that will disclose that in every important country that has adopted government operation of railways the result has been the transfer of a taxpaying industry to the status of a subsidized football of politics, to say nothing of higher transportation rates and fares for badly depreciated service. He does not need to go beyond our own wartime experience for convincing proof of the fallacy of his scheme. The government then tried the same experiment, but after eighteen months of trial which is still a nightmare to shippers and travelers was glad to restore the properties to their original owners in such a down at the heel condition as to require a 40 per cent increase in freight rates to provide the necessary funds for rehabilitation. Then the operators proceeded to write off the deficit from operation—2 billion dollars.

Permit us to propose a test of the honesty behind the measure. Let the bill be immediately amended to provide that those who appear before the senate committee in favor of the bill, as well as the senators who may vote for its passage, formally agree to accept investor "rain checks" in lieu of salaries for the future.

FOR FRIENDS OF THE TABLE.

American university scientists and students are collecting marine algæ off the coasts of Japan, Australia, and New Zealand, investigating the food possibility of sea vegetation such as seaweed, which has already been brought into limited use and is valued for certain chemical properties such as iodine.

There is no reason to believe that all the food possibilities of land and sea products have been exhausted. The diversification of the items of the human diet has been slow rather than rapid. The curiosity to know what human first had the audacity to taste an oyster is of long standing. When the world was being rounded out by discoveries nearly every new land found added something to the civilized table and often standard crop failures would spread the use of a new food, as when wheat losses in Europe caused the potato to be used as a substitute.

Old-timers can remember when the tomato was viewed with suspicion and even thought to be poisonous. The Chinese, probably because of necessity, have been inventive in the use of food materials strange to the occidental, although many of them immediately please the western taste. It is said that many appetizing pork dishes were devised by the southern colored people because at hog killing time the choicer portions of the carcass went to the big house and the colored folk used their native genius in making delicacies out of the less desirable.

Although the human being has been rather traditional and conventional in making up his diet, there have always been adventurous fellows to bite into anything they could find, and now that science is in charge, seeking the elements that properly balance the diet and nutritive values in unused material, it is probable that new items will continue to enrich the world's supply of food.

Editorial of the Day

ATTORNEYS, TAKE NOTE!

[Detroit Free Press.]

The United States Supreme court read federal prosecuting officers a lecture Monday, which may well be taken to heart by state and county prosecuting officers and other members of the bar.

Alluding to United States attorneys, Justice Sutherland remarked, with great directness, that they are servants of the law, whose twofold aim is that guilt shall not escape nor innocence suffer. They may strike hard blows in their efforts to convict the guilty but "they are not at liberty to strike foul ones." Their object should be to see justice done; not primarily to win cases.

County prosecutors are elective officers, a great many of whom look upon their offices as stepping stones to an elective bench, and in their lust for elevation try to establish imposing records of convictions, whether rightly or wrongly obtained.

And to a type of criminal lawyer an impressive list of acquittals, whether rightly or wrongly secured, appears to be an equally useful asset.

Yet both prosecutor and counsel for the defense are officers of the court, sworn to exert themselves to see that justice is done, a status which in Great Britain and the dominions they are not permitted to forget.

A good deal of the disrepute into which the courts of many of our states have fallen is due to the fact that their officers are unfamiliar with the dictum that it is better that 99 guilty men escape than that one innocent man should be punished.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"BABSON SAYS NATION Going Deeper into Hole, $6,500 Every Minute."—Headline. Why wouldn't that be better than counting sheep to put a fellow to sleep? You toss around and finally wake up at night with the old grunt: "Doggone it, I can't sleep." All right, have the clock handy and give it a dirty look. Then turn away from it and say: "I can't look at that clock again until this country's $58,500 deeper in the red." Then finally you take a look and say, "Missed it; it's only $42,750 more in the hole than it was. I only kept turned away from it six and a half minutes. Now this time I won't look at the clock until we're stuck $71,500 more that I'll have to help pay." Bet you that clock won't tick off more than $32,500 before you'll be asleep.

And the thing might be grand in cooking eggs. One gets tired of saying he wants his eggs boiled a minute or three minutes or hard boiled, so here's a chance to change it. When the wife at the house or the waitress at the restaurant says, "How do you want your eggs?" you answer lightly, "Oh, about $6,500 worth," or "Give 'em $19,500," or for hard boiled, "Make it $39,000"; you'll find it's lots of fun.

But horrors! after you've played golf for four hours and a half and you count the thing up you find that while you've been whanging that funny little white pill around the pasture the country has gone $1,755,000 deeper in debt. And you'll have to help pay it. And even while you were figuring this thing out it's worse by $13,000 and it'll take you an hour and a half to get dressed and drop in at Joe's for a cocktail and get home. That'll be—oh, there's no end of the thing.

MOON SONNETS.

III.

I am the Earth's subservient satellite,
Appointed to attend her august throne
And watch beside her altar. I, alone,
Like Vestal virgin, keep her fires alight
In chaste and lonely vigils through the night,
But have no warmth, no brightness of my own.
Yet have I no transgressions to atone,
Nor any hurts to heal, nor wrongs to right.

The Earth has joyous life, the Earth has scars,
Which I so vaguely envy and regret;
Which I, the Moon, remote among the stars,
Look down upon aloofly, calmly; yet,
As long nights link themselves in endless years,
I sometimes crave her recompense of tears.

EOLUS.

IN WASHINGTON they can't make up their minds these days whether to take the little ones to the movies to see Mickey Mouse or up to the capitol to see Hooey Long. And as for the little ones themselves, I'll bet if they are taken to the movies they'd stub their toes against the ground in sullen protest and say: "I wanta see Hooey Long, he's so funny!"

THE ONLY WAY.

I am right dead against the Soviet's idea of standing people up against a stone wall in front of a firing squad because somebody might think I would look cute up there by that stone wall. However, there are people—if there's just somebody that's got to decorate the scenery in front of the firing squads—that really shouldn't be overlooked. Those are the people who tear the pages of a book apart with big, coarse forefingers. Paper cutters were invented a long time ago and are for sale everywhere from a dime up. Or you could probably buy the made in Japan kind at two for a nickel. If you buy the made in Japan things. A lot of people do. Anyhow, paper cutters are very easy to get hold of, or a table knife is a very good substitute, or a common card will serve the purpose, or the big blade of a pocket knife. And yet there are people who insist on separating the pages of a book that has uncut leaves with their big, coarse forefingers. Or some use very stubby thumbs. Of course, the pages are badly mutilated, but that means nothing to these people. They divide two pages of a book with their big, fat forefingers or their stubby thumbs and regard the jagged, torn pages with great complacency. There ought to be a law about this sort of thing, but there isn't. And even a law wouldn't stop people like that. And it's no use writing to your congressman about this. I shouldn't wonder if some of the congressmen opened books that way. They sound like it. No, there's only one way—the stone wall and the firing squad. And after I finished off that lot I'd send out and round up the people who borrow books and never bring them back. Step this way, please. Right over there in front of that nice stone wall! So you open book leaves with your big, fat forefingers or your pudgy thumbs, do you? Squad, ready!—FIRE!

TWO ARMY AVIATORS have just gone up 28,000 feet in the stratosphere. The headlines declare they went away up there in the interests of science. Maybe. But if I were an aviator I know why I would go up 28,000 feet in the stratosphere right now: to get away from housecleaning. Only I would keep going until I got to 60,000 feet and then I'd stay there until I was sure there was no soap on the top step and that I wouldn't put my foot into a wash bucket when I went out at midnight to raid the ice box.

THE LIGHT OF DAY.

How strange the light of day which shines upon the evil and the dull leaving shaded corners to the noble and the bountiful.

But thinking on it I prefer having the false exposed to view so I, perchance if in the mood, can readily support the true.

X-RAYS IN TREATMENT.

WITHIN a few months after its discovery by Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, in 1895, X-rays were used in the treatment of disease. Experiment and investigation have expanded their usefulness until, at the present time, the X-ray has become an important factor in the control of many diseases.

Contrary to the usual conception, X-rays are not electricity. Neither are they a form of light. They are produced by the passage of high voltage electricity through an X-ray [vacuum] tube. The waves travel in straight lines in all directions and have the velocity of light.

Roughly, X-ray therapy can be divided into superficial and deep, depending on the voltage or power employed. For superficial application up to approximately 180,000 volts are used. Beyond that figure the rays produced are applicable to deeper structures. With the perfection of apparatus the voltage used has been increased by leaps and bounds and as much as 1,000,000 volts have been employed.

Practically all of the various skin diseases have been satisfactorily treated. Here the longer rays, produced by low voltage, are needed. To treat diseases of the internal organs the more penetrating the rays are required, which are produced by high voltage aided by filtration.

A factor which aids in securing penetration is the use of filters—that is, the X-rays are passed through various thicknesses of metal, such as aluminum, copper, and tin. By this means the longer rays, which are so important in the treatment of skin diseases, are filtered out and only the shorter waves which penetrate deeply into the tissues are permitted to pass.

It is in the field of cancer that X-ray treatment is a particularly valuable agent and, for the best results, there should be close correlation between surgery, X-ray, and radium. In many cases, such as in breast cancer, surgery should be preceded and followed by X-ray treatment. By giving the treatment over different areas, always pointing toward the cancer, larger doses can be given without damage to the skin. Even in the hopeless cases of cancer the X-rays will frequently provide relief from pain. The exact effect upon cancer is not known definitly. In some way, which probably depends upon a chemical or physical effect, the cancer cells are destroyed. It is known that young cells are more susceptible than older ones and, since cancer cells are rapid growing, the young cells are destroyed while normal tissue remains unharmed.

The X-rays are of great value in those cases attended with excessive menstrual bleeding at or near the change of life, when surgery is deemed inadvisable. Undue hemorrhage in this period of life should always be investigated and a physician consulted, as it may be due to cancer. The treatment by X-rays is given to the ovaries and will result in sterilization. The usual procedure is two to four treatments given at monthly intervals until the excessive bleeding has stopped.

Treatment by means of X-rays becomes a dangerous weapon in the hands of the untrained and inexperienced. If not properly given it may result in permanent injury to normal tissues. Like any other form of treatment it should be given in known doses, and measured amounts can be administered with modern apparatus. In the earlier days of this form of treatment it was felt that massive quantities should be given in as short a time as possible, but experience has shown that shorter exposures given over a longer interval produce the best results.

There is some danger that X-rays may be considered of value in all diseases. While the applications of these powerful waves of force are numerous, the curative qualities are relatively limited, when one considers the entire field of medicine. Each year, however, brings some new knowledge, making treatment safer and more effective.

MORTGAGE PROBLEM.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please tell me the legal difference between a "trustee" for the holder of a mortgage note and [2] the "agent for the legal noteholder." Five years ago I signed a mortgage for $2,000 to mature in 1935. On the 11th I signed notes for an extension for another five years [3] and gave the "agent for the legal noteholder" $800 toward liquidating the loan. I supposed he would indorse the principal note to that effect, but he said the principal note was locked up in his vault and, as the legal holder of the note has the other key and lives out of town, he [the agent] did not have access to the note. So all I have to show for it is a receipt like an ordinary rent receipt, which reads: "Received of A eight hundred dollars, being payment on loan as per endorsement on principal note of this date." M. L. B.

1. As a substitute for the old fashioned mortgage, it is common in this locality to deed the real estate to a third party as trustee who holds the title as security for the notes. This trustee has substantially no functions to perform in the ordinary case. He merely executes a release when the debt has been paid.

2. This term would imply an active agent representing the interests of the noteholders. There is not much object in trying to define either term without knowing the context in which you find the term.

3. In general, a person who is indebted on a note should make no payment without seeing that the note is canceled if the payment is in full or that the payment is endorsed if it is in part.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, April 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man died intestate, leaving a son [minor] sole heir. His estate consists principally of real estate located in Illinois and Michigan. His residence was in Illinois where he passed away. 1. In probate proceedings in Illinois, must property located in Michigan be probated with property in Illinois? 2. How soon after death should estate be filed for probate [in Michigan]? 4. Should property in Illinois be filed in Michigan probate proceedings? 5. Will it be necessary for heir to appear in Michigan court? 6. Is there a penalty if probate is not begun before one year after death [Michigan]? 7. If the son's [heir] name is junior to the father's name [senior] and the property in Michigan is clear, is it necessary to probate to change title to read C. B. J. Jr. instead of C. B. J. Sr.?

1. It is not legally required, but the simplest way to handle the matter is to inventory the foreign real estate in the Illinois proceedings and then record exemplified copies in the foreign states.

2. See 1.

3. Depends on facts that are not before us. In some cases, probate can be entirely dispensed with.

4. No.

5. No.

6. No.

7. The purpose of probate is to establish the facts as to heirship and to take care of the claims of creditors. The similarity of names of the parties would have nothing to do with it.

CONTRACT BY MINOR.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A signed a note for a loan for B. A was under 21 at the time, but said he was 21. 1. Can A be made to pay the note? He has since become of age, but in no way has he ratified the contract [2], such as signing new papers or paying any money. A judgment was taken out on B. 3. Would such a judgment hold against A? 4. Could a garnishment be made on A, who is holding a $15 a week job and supporting his mother? 5. This company made a garnishment on A during the time he was under 21, tied up his pay check, and later collected it. 6. Can this money be made to be returned if A was not of age and not responsible for the note? 7. Is A responsible? 8. Can he collect this money which he lost? H. C. L.

1. Not unless he has expressly or impliedly ratified the contract since becoming of age.

2. Other forms of ratification would be possible.

3. A judgment against B is not a judgment against A, if that is what you mean to ask.

4. Garnishment would not be in order in any event until judgment has been secured against A.

5. We assume that what you mean is that they served a garnishee demand notice. The employer should have ignored it.

6. Yes.

7. See preceding answers.

8. The chances of collecting depend upon the assets and income of the other party.

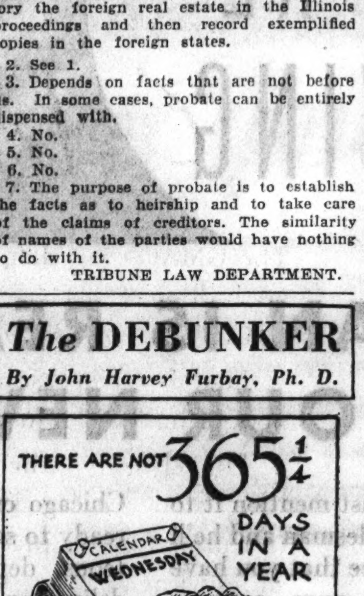
FAMILY EXPENSES.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a married man employed, and my wife on several occasions has contracted some debts without my consent or knowledge of same, but which I had to pay as we live together. What step is proper for me in order to stop same and to keep me from being forced to pay when I do not sign or know anything about them? O. M. C.

Under Illinois statutes, both spouses are liable for expenses of the family. We see no way for you to avoid such liabilities if the purchases are reasonable. Her authority to bind you beyond this limit would depend on whether you have authorized her to act as your agent or held out as having such authority. We cannot advise further without having your facts more clearly before us. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



It is generally stated that there are 365¼ days in a year [365 days usually, with one more added in leap year]. This is not true, for if an extra day were added every four years in leap year we would soon be following an erroneous calendar. The solar year [year by the sun] is 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 45.5 seconds. This lacks 11 minutes and 14.5 seconds of being 365¼ days. Therefore, one day is omitted at certain intervals to counterbalance this discrepancy. The last day to be omitted was in 1900, and the next to be omitted will be in 2100. Three days are left out during each 400 year period.

THE MENACE OF SYPHILIS.

Chicago, April 16.—Your editorial, "The Menace of Syphilis," following Dr. Irving Cutter's valuable recent discussion of the same subject, calls most timely attention to a grave health problem. As you rightly point out, the need of education to reduce the further spread of the disease is great, but for those who already have it, and for those who in default or in spite of education will contract it in the future, the urgent need is for medical treatment which will cure the disease, or at least will render the sufferers noninfectious to others. Dr. Albert Keidel of Johns Hopkins university, one of the leading specialists in this field, stated in an address three years ago:

"If it were possible promptly to arrive at a diagnosis in all patients with infectious syphilis and immediately to institute proper treatment, syphilis would become an almost negligible public health factor. The knowledge of how to accomplish this feat, and the weapons with which to do it, are already at hand. Obviously, however, they are not being successfully applied. I believe that one of the chief reasons for failure is to be found in the high cost of medical care of syphilis."

The treatment of syphilis must be continued for several years, most of the intensive treatment being in the first year. Continuity of treatment is essential to secure results. The estimated cost of adequate treatment for the first year at minimum rates in private medical practice is about $300, with much higher figures in many instances. Such a cost is entirely beyond the means of a large proportion of our employed population. Reduction in the cost of treatment should not be made at the expense of the physician, expecting him to bear the whole load of what is a public problem. Clinics in which physicians are properly compensated for work and which furnish service to the patient at cost, or, when required, at public expense, are necessary to a solution of the problem.

SOUR.

Chicago, April 16.—Man comes into this world without his consent and leaves it against his will. When he is little the big girls kiss him, and when he is big the little girls kiss him. If he is active in politics it is for graft, if he is not interested in politics he is no good to his country. If he makes a lot of money he is dishonest, if he remains poor he is a bad manager. If he needs credit he can't get it, if he is prosperous every one wants to do something for him. If he is religious he is a hypocrite, if he doesn't go to church he is a hardened sinner. If he gives to charity it is for show, if he doesn't give to charity he is a stingy cuss. If he is affectionate he is a soft specimen, if he doesn't care for any one he is cold-hearted. If he dies young there was a great future before him, if he lives to a ripe old age he missed his calling. If he saves money he's a tightwad, if he spends it he is called a spendthrift. If he has money he is a grafter, if he hasn't got it he's a bum. So what's the use? GEORGE N. HART.

WATER.

Chicago, April 18.—The article headed "Unfiltered Lake Water Is Called a Health Hazard," by your writer Virginia Gardner, in your paper of April 18, smacks of propaganda, the object of which is evidently to frighten the populace into supporting the filtration idea to the tune of $20,000,000. The least you could have done was to state accurate and true facts. You have made quite a fuss about bugs in the water. It would be of interest if you had named them. As an amateur microscopist who has used tap water to obtain specimens for about 10 years, I will say that I have never seen or heard of a bug from a drinking water faucet. Copepoda and clodocera are the largest specimens found, but these are not bugs, and these are found sparingly after gallons of water have passed through a filter. As to the dangerous effects of drinking a few of these small organisms in the water, it would be interesting if you would mention authentic cases showing the detrimental effect that occurred from drinking some of these.

Instead of urging filtration plants along our shore line, to do unnecessary filtration for the amount of water used for drinking purposes, a campaign to get at the really objectionable lake pollution source would be more helpful. By prohibiting the dumping of waste into the lake, such as at the World's Fair grounds and in the Calumet district, the problem would be solved.

Every year, at about this time, south winds blow phenol tainted water to our cribs. Immediately there is an investigation and the papers show a group of politicians generally riding on a tug investigating sources of pollution that have long been known. For those interested United States Public Health Bulletin, No. 170 contains an impartial report on the pollution of Lake Michigan in the Calumet district.

It seems that industrialists in the Calumet district pacify our investigating politicians very easily, as we never hear any more of the investigation after the winds change and the phenol taint is out of the public's mouth. Probably an editorial on what the industrialists do to make politicians forget water for at least a year would be interesting. N. B.

BIG GAME IN LINCOLN PARK.

Chicago, April 18.—In North Dakota where I was born and raised I got to be quite a duck hunter and thought that was one of the best sports ever. But the last few years here in Chicago have taught me what really big game hunting is like.

Over in Lincoln park last week I saw some fine hunting; it's good all in through there. One fellow scared up an old man who was half way across the drive; he didn't get him, just dusted him off. The fellow coming on the other side of the drive got him. There was good team work there. But nothing to brag about; after all old men and children are easy. It takes a mighty good hunter to hook a middle-aged one on his bumper. They'll twist and turn, and just when you think you've got one he's away. But that's where the sport comes in.

I haven't a car yet, but I've already sold my shotgun and I'm saving up my money. I'm going to get in on this.

DETECTIVE CHIEF ADMITS STOLEN GEM CONSPIRACY

Miami Beach Prosecutors in Reward Deal.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—A conspiracy to obtain leniency for two confessed robbers and split a $15,000 reward among officials, attorneys and a private detective in the $185,000 Bell jewel theft was confessed today by Eugene Bryant. Bryant is chief of detectives of Miami Beach, Fla. The confession was reported here from high federal sources.

Noel Scaffa, a private detective, was a party to a conference at which the split was agreed on, but took no money for himself, Bryant's confession said, according to the reports. Scaffa got a $2,500 retainer from the insurance company responsible for the gems.

Scaffa Before Grand Jury.

Word of the confession reached New York while Scaffa was making his second long appearance before the federal grand jury in connection with the case.

Bryant and others involved will be brought here, it was understood. The jewels, stolen in Miami, were brought to New York and then returned to Miami, it was charged. This brings the case into New York federal jurisdiction under the law passed last winter, making transportation of stolen jewels across state lines a federal offense.

The conference, according to the confession as reported here, took place among Chief of Detectives Bryant, County Solicitor Fred Pine of Dade county, Fla.; Scaffa and Benjamin Cohen, attorney for Nicholas Montone and Charles Cali, who were charged with robbing Mrs. Margaret Hawkesworth Bell of the $185,000 in jewels.

Conference in Cell.

This conference, according to the Bryant confession, was preceded by a meeting between Scaffa and Montone in the latter's cell, at the conclusion of which Scaffa said the $15,000 reward would be paid when the jewelry was returned.

It was agreed, Bryant said, that an armed robbery charge against Montone would be nol prossed and a similar charge against Cali reduced to unarmed robbery, which would mean a much lighter sentence.

In exchange, Bryant confessed, he was to receive $3,500 of the reward; Cohen $3,500, of which he was to retain $2,000 as counsel fees and split the rest between Pine and Assistant County Solicitor Jack Kehoe; Clarence Harrington, Scaffa's Miami agent, $1,000, and the remaining $7,000 was to be split among unnamed peace officers to be selected by Bryant.

These unnamed officers, Bryant said, were not parties to the conspiracy.

Earlier Charges Restored.

The charge against Montone was nol prossed and the charge against Cali reduced, but the federal department of justice bureau of investigation got interested in the case and was able to bring pressure to have the original charges restored. Montone and Cali went to trial yesterday.

Bryant at first claimed credit for recovering the jewels. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the bureau of investigation, charged yesterday that Scaffa gave Bryant a lock box key and told him where to go to get the jewels. This, Bryant admitted today, was true.

Scaffa has figured in many investigations over jewel recoveries. He has recovered millions of dollars' worth of stolen gems after police were unable to find a trace of them.

U. S. HEIRESS TO REBUILD HOME AFTER TAJ MAHAL

CALCUTTA, April 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell, the American tobacco heiress, plans to rebuild a wing of her Florida mansion after the style of the famous Taj Mahal, the three century old marble mausoleum at Agra.

The glories of the ancient memorial to a mogul emperor's wife so impressed Mrs. Cromwell that she ordered a well known architect of Delhi to prepare the plans for the remodeling. She especially wants tessellated windows and doors. Their construction, of Indian marble, has already begun and they will be transported to America.

Mrs. Cromwell and her husband, John H. R. Cromwell, came to this "city of palaces" today after several months of a leisurely honeymoon tour of northern India.

Ed Nelson, world war veteran, was the chief witness yesterday in Judge John C. Lewe's court where William A. Schlupp, former county supervisor of war veterans' relief, and his assistant, Paul Gutzmer, are on trial charged with conspiracy to defraud the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. He testified that he performed some carpenter work on Schlupp's home and was paid in relief coal and food.

The state expects to conclude its case today. The indictment charges that the two men converted to their own use $195 in relief disbursement orders. Assistant State's Attorney James M. Brown said the amount involved exceeded $500.

Miss Hazel Lyons, 5025 Winthrop avenue, assistant superintendent of the IERC, earlier in the day told the jury of the investigation into Schlupp's administration of relief.

Austria to Build Barracks in Six Frontier Towns

VIENNA, April 23.—(AP)—The home town of Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany and five other Austrian cities will get new military barracks this year in line with the government's rearmament program. That town is on the Czechoslovakian line. Hitler was born at Braunau.

DICTATOR OF CHINA DECREES ALL YOUTH MUST TRAIN FOR WAR

NANKING, China, April 23.—(AP)—All male high school and college students were ordered today to undergo at least a year's period of intensive military training.

Dictator Chiang Kai-Shek issued the order as part of a program designed to construct a modern, efficient war machine. At the expiration of a decade, the general expects that China will have become a first rate military power. He seeks 100,000 trained reservists each year.

Military training already is in effect in 26 per cent of the country's colleges and high schools. In the lower grades the pupils by government order will be given Boy Scout training. The program also involves instruction in war methods for the entire civilian population.

'ZION PROTOCOLS' SUIT REVIVED BY JEWISH LEADERS

BERNE, Switzerland, April 23.—(AP)—The hearing of the libel suit brought by Jewish leaders against the publishers of the so-called "protocols of Zion" is to be resumed April 29. At that time experts will make their report and judgment is expected about May 4.

Jewish leaders began a lawsuit in Berne last October in an effort to prove to the world that documents known as "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion," depicting Jewry as seeking world hegemony, are forged and false.

The union of Jewish communities in Switzerland and the Jewish community of Berne lodged a civil complaint against leaders of the Swiss Nazis and others, demanding confiscation of a pamphlet in which the "protocols" were published, claiming the publication violated the Swiss law prohibiting the printing of literature "calculated to excite vile instincts or to cause brutal offense."

RULINGS TODAY ON PARISH MOVE FOR ACQUITTALS

Boy Wizard Is Expected to Relate Career.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes will rule this morning on the defense motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for Frank P. Parish and three other former officials of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company who are on trial charged with using the mails to defraud the public of $35,000,000 in the collapse of the company. If these motions are overruled, Parish, once known as the "boy wizard of finance," will take the stand as the first defense witness.

Arguments on the motions for not guilty verdicts began yesterday afternoon after the close of the government's case and the exclusion of the jury. Attorney John J. Healy, representing the defendant James McManmon, of Tulsa, Okla., asserted that his client was associated with Missouri-Kansas for only a year in 1929 and 1930 and was not guilty of any criminal intent in his participation in the company's management.

Counsel to Present Arguments.

John Northup, counsel for Defendant Ralph G. Crandall, a Chicago attorney, will present his argument this morning, then Dupuy Warrick of Kansas City, Mo., representing the Defendants Parish and Samuel Maddin, will speak on a similar motion.

Parish, if he goes on the stand, will recount, according to indications, his entire spectacular business career.

The blond Parish, 38 years old but youthful looking, is expected to relate his meteoric rise to fortune when 18 years old, his subsequent bankruptcy, and his organization of Missouri-Kansas in 1928. The company went into receivership in 1932.

The last prosecution witness was Roy E. North, a postal inspector. Over the objections of the defense he was permitted to tell of his search for Parish in 1933 after the latter had gone into "voluntary exile." Parish failed to appear when the case was orginally set for trial on Feb. 21, 1933, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. North said he prepared "wanted" circulars, bearing Parish's picture, which were sent to postoffices throughout the country. Parish surrendered voluntarily in November, 1933.

Two Others Take Stand.

Earlier witnesses yesterday were Ralph B. Innis, former director of public relations for Missouri-Kansas, and R. O. Peterson, a certified public accountant who made an audit of the books of the Mo-Kans Finance company, an affiliate of the pipe line concern. Their testimony was intended to support the government's allegations that the finance company was wholly owned by Parish and that through it in 1930 he took "secret profits" totaling $197,000 on Missouri-Kansas stock while the Missouri-Kansas company was on the verge of collapse.

The prosecution required 18 court days to present its evidence. The defense is expected to conclude on Friday.

U.S. TRAINS GUNS ON M'LAUGHLIN AND SIX IN KIDNAPING TRIAL

Minneapolis, Minn., April 23.—[Special.]—After further connecting Arthur [Doc] Barker to the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping through more fingerprint testimony, the government late today shifted its attack in an effort to implicate seven of the ten defendants as handlers of the $200,000 ransom money.

The seven alleged to have been "money changers" are John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, Chicago politician; William Vidler, James Wilson, and Philip Delaney also of Chicago; Oliver Berg, life termer in Joliet prison; Jess Doyle, Kansas Cty, and Mrs. Edna Murray.

In the course of this attack, government witnesses disclosed that 60,000 copies of serial numbers on the 25,000 bills making up the ransom money, were distributed through department of justice bureaus. These went to banks, police departments, sherifs and other organizations throughout the country.

Werner Hanni, former chief of the St. Paul department of justice office, testified to getting from the American National bank of St. Paul, the original list of the serial numbers. These had been copied by clerks from the ransom bills before the money was withdrawn from the bank.

$20,000 "LOVE" SUIT THROWN OUT BY JUDGE

On instruction of Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh, a jury yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant in the $20,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Jacob Soldrowski, 59 years old, 1517 West 17th street, a butcher, against Fred Miller, 52 years old, 1513 West 14th place, unmarried, lieutenant in the fire department. The directed verdict came at the close of the plaintiff's case, in which he testified that Lieut. Miller enjoyed the affections of Mrs. Soldrowski from 1927 to 1930. Soldrowski and his wife are living together.

10 More German Pastors Jailed for Attacking Nazis

SACHSENBERG, Germany, April 23.—(AP)—Ten leading confessional synod ministers were arrested today for signing a letter to Martin Mutschmann, governor of Saxony, attacking Nazi church activities. The arrests brought to 14 the number of dissident pastors headed for concentration camps.

BRITAIN PRINTS BILLION STAMPS TO MARK JUBILEE

Offered at Four Prices in New Colors.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 23.—One billion special stamps, designs of which were chosen personally by King George, himself an ardent philatelist, are being issued by the British postoffice to commemorate the king's silver jubilee.

The announcement, which will delight the hearts of collectors, was made tonight by Sir Kingsley Wood, postmaster general, who said the new stamps will be sold for two months beginning May 7.

Designed by Barnett Freedman, a well known artist, the jubilee stamps will be double the size of the ordinary issue. There are four denominations—half penny, penny, three half penny and two pence half penny—with colors of green, red, brown and blue in striking contrasts of light and shade.

Have Crown and Laurel.

The central feature of each is the king's head, which is the same as that used on all British stamps since 1912. On the left is a panel containing the crown, on the right another on which is a laurel wreath.

Meanwhile, preparations for the official celebrations are progressing rapidly. London is being transformed into a vast stage for the jubilee show, which is attracting thousands of visitors, including many Americans.

On the jubilee morning, May 6, no less than five processions, including the king and queen, members of the royal family and empire premiers, will proceed to St. Paul's cathedral for a thanksgiving service. As a precautionary measure the air ministry tonight banned all flying over London within five miles of St. Paul's during the twenty-four hours ending at midnight on May 6.

Plan Chain of Beacon Fires.

Britons throughout the country are busy building beacons for the most spectacular of all the celebrations—a chain of fires which will encircle the three kingdoms on jubilee night. Arrangements have been completed for building 1,750 or 2,000 beacons which are expected to be lighted.

According to the latest reports from shipping companies, about 14,000 passengers throughout the world will land in Great Britain in the next fortnight. During the various celebrations, extending through the summer, it is calculated that 20,000 Canadians, 10,000 Australians and 5,000 South Africans will visit the country.

London Borough Balks at Cost.

LONDON, April 23.—(AP)—One of London's borough councils voted tonight, 40 to 5, against participating in the king's jubilee celebrations after its mayor had refused for a second time to join other mayors in meeting the king on May 18.

"It is time all this pomp and show was cut out," said Mayor Wightman of Bermondsey. "To spend £300 ($1,500) in public money so the mayors can meet the king for five minutes is a disgrace."

Sari Fedak, Stage Star, Cleared of Perjury Charge

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Sari Fedak, Hungarian stage actress, tonight was acquitted by a Superior court jury on a charge she gave perjured testimony during the recent trial of a $250,000 breach of promise suit against Ernst Vajda, wealthy motion picture playwright. The jury deliberated less than three hours. The prosecution attempted to prove Miss Fedak made false statements in a deposition in which she declared Vajda told her at a dinner party that he was divorcing his wife and planned to marry Vilma Aknay, another Hungarian actress, who brought the $250,000 suit.

Chicagoans Sail June 25 for South Seas Vacation

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

By the grapevine method Mrs. William P. Conger and her daughter, Cornelia, have heard about New Zealand's majesty, its haunting beauty, and its endless variety. As a result they have chosen the British island dominion in the far off Pacific for their summer vacation.

On June 25 they will board the Monterey in San Francisco, steam over to Honolulu where they will spend several days, move on by easy stages to Samoa and Fiji of extraordinary contrasts, and then to New Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, who came home from the south seas a fortnight ago, have prompted the trip. Mrs. Conger and her daughter had thought about such a holiday for some time but it was not until they heard the glamorous experiences of the Hibbards that they made their plans definite.

Wonderland of South Seas.

It's impossible to define New Zealand's charm but no one has ever forgotten it once he has been there. Many have called the islands the wonderland of the south seas. Perhaps it's because they combine the attractions of so many other countries. Jungles that suggest South America. A countryside that brings memories of old England. Trees almost as old as the giant Sequoias of California. The great cone of Mount Egmont seen from afar that copies Fujiyama's design. A climate that offers gradations all the way from that of the Pyrenees to that of the Riviera.

The dominion of New Zealand has numerous small islands besides the three main islands, North, South, and Stewart. The date, even the approximate date of man's arrival on its shores, remains uncertain. All that can be safely said is that by the 14th century A. D., Polynesian canoe men had reached its northern limits in successive voyages.

In 1779 Cook, in the bark Endeavour, gained comparatively full knowledge of the coasts which he circumnavigated, visited again and again, and mapped with fair accuracy. After him came other navigators, French, Spanish, Russian, and American, then sealers, whalers, and trading schooners, and finally missionaries.

Leave Ship at Auckland.

The Congers will dock at Auckland, for this is the key city that unlocks New Zealand's manifold wonders. Combining old world atmosphere with a pioneer ruggedness, it suggests London's Oxford street or again San Francisco's Market street.

Always on friendly terms with the Maoris, the native race, Auckland's residents and those of Wellington encourage visitors to go inland and visit their villages. And in such a visit there is a glimpse of the distant past, for the Maoris are descendants of the Polynesians who came in their big canoes from the south Pacific isles.

They still live in queer little houses that sit on poles and have carvings on the sides, just like their early forbears did. They dance the poi and the wild haka. The women wash the family clothes in a hot spring and prepare dinner by throwing water on the stones of a little oven. Great clouds of steam rise up and cook the food.

If the Congers are anything like Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard they will come home confirmed fishermen. There's scarcely ever been a visitor who could resist New Zealand's underwater denizens and many of them have had to be prepared for the shock of taking on a fly rainbow trout weighing up to twenty pounds. In the coastal waters black marlin from 400 to 1,000 pounds are not unusual.

On an earlier sailing of the Matson's Monterey Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood is going as far as Honolulu where she will visit her brother and sister-in-law, the junior John Coonleys. The Coonleys went to the island city to live a few months ago and have written enchanting reports home ever since.

Mrs. Underwood is embarking May 1 and later Mr. Underwood, their daughter, Nancy, and the senior Mrs. Coonley expect to follow.

Three days in Honolulu are included in the itinerary of Mrs. Claude G. Burnham of Kenilworth who is one of the few Chicagoans going to Japan to join the official party of the Garden Club of America. Mrs. Burnham is taking her son, David, with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett W. Cooke of Glencoe, who are leaving Chicago today to sail Saturday on the Europa of the North German Lloyd-Hamburg American Line, will spend six weeks in England and France.

JAPAN PLANS BIG NAVY PROGRAM TO KEEP UP WITH U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 23.—Anticipating the failure of the next arms conference, Japanese navy officials, it is understood, are planing to carry out a gigantic expansion program, particularly as regards capital ships.

The newspapers Asahi and Kokumin predicted today that the navy will shortly announce a new replenishment program. The Kokumin declared that the political unrest in Europe caused by Germany's rearmament will inevitably cause the failure of the next naval conference.

"The chief motive of the navy in constructing new capital ships," the Kokumin said, "is the fact that the navy has authoritatively learned that after the expiration of the Washington pact the United States has decided to construct capital ships ahead of other countries."

Chicago Group Returns After Long Sea Cruise

When the Canadian Pacific's Empress of Australia docks today in New York, fifteen Chicagoans will disembark after a three and a half months' cruise to Africa and South America. MORE CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT
Southern California
(WHICH YOU CAN EASILY VISIT WITHIN A 2-WEEKS VACATION AND AN ORDINARY BUDGET)

Reno, Nevada (200 miles inland) is farther west than Los Angeles (on the Pacific).

The first cross-country air flight (New York to Pasadena, 1911) took 49 days. Modern transportation has brought Southern California so near that vacationists from all parts of the country can have a choice of transportation methods and still have 10 to 12 days actually here out of a 2-weeks vacation.

Los Angeles, largest U. S. city in area (450.7 sq. mi.), fifth largest in population (1,238,048), has been called "the newest city in the world" but was actually founded before George Washington became president. Missions and other relics of early days still stand in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Beverly Hills, Glendale, Pomona and other nearby cities.

Although white men had explored California for more than 300 years, it was not until 1902 that they discovered the giant redwood tree, "General Sherman" (known since as the world's oldest and largest living thing), growing in nearby Sequoia National Park. What may prove to be an even larger tree was discovered only within the last six months.

One of the first men to propose a transcontinental railroad to California was adjudged insane without further evidence and dismissed by the college at which he was a professor. Now there are numerous through trunk lines to the Pacific Coast—many 100% air-conditioned trains.

Los Angeles is as far south as Atlanta, Ga., yet its summer temperature averages only 69.4° and there is a real glacier within a day's drive.

The movies chose Hollywood because the sun shines 355 days out of 365, and because they have found virtually every type of world scenery within 200 miles, a discovery as important to vacationists as to the studios.

$108,400, richest single purse in racing history, went to the winner of the Santa Anita Handicap this year. Practically every other sport is also featured in this area.

First gold discovered in California was found in Los Angeles County. In gold rush times, potatoes sold as high as $1.50 a pound, eggs $1.50 apiece. Today, living costs are 18% under the U. S. average—probably less than at home.

Although California's birth rate is the second lowest in the U. S., the population of Los Angeles has, with one exception, doubled every ten years since 1870.

A Southern California vacation plans itself when you have the interesting FREE 48-page guidebook issued by the All-Year Club of Southern California. Contains answers to all your questions, tells what to see and do, itemizes all costs, with more than 60 photographs, maps, etc. No obligation—it's a free service provided by a non-profit community organization serving visitors.

BRITAIN PLANS NEAR EAST CANAL AS RIVAL TO SUEZ

Seeks to End Domination by France.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 23.—France is trying to tie up Great Britain in a new diplomatic tangle in eastern Europe, Great Britain is trying to work itself out of the worst of its French tangles—the French owned, French administered, and French built Suez canal—the main road of the British empire. It was opened in 1868.

Following a secret survey four years ago of the Sinai peninsula, another British mission is preparing to go to the near east to report on the cost and time required for cutting a British canal from El Arish, on the Mediterranean, to the Gulf of Akaba on the Red sea. Akaba is now used as a British naval base.

Shipowners Demand Canal.

A threat to build such a canal was first uttered in 1883 owing to French diplomatic pressure, which then used the canal as a political lever, and also because of the heavy dues.

Now pressure is coming chiefly from the Liverpool Shipowners' association. The reasons advanced are as follows:

Fifty per cent of the shipping that passes through the Suez canal is British. It grows in volume every year, despite trade crises and world depression. More and more tonnage, registered not in the United Kingdom alone, but in Australia, New Zealand, India, and the Pacific Islands, use the only waterway that links the near east with the west.

But Great Britain only holds 46 per cent of the total shares in the canal. The concession expires in 1968. The shares were bought by the earl of Beaconfield in 1876 from the bankrupt Khedive Ismail, father of the present king of Egypt, for $19,883,900. But the khedive's affairs were so involved and his debt to France so urgent that Disraeli, without consulting the cabinet, consented that the British share should be 46 per cent, not on the net profits of the canal, but only on 71 per cent of these profits. The main holdings are French.

British Are Indignant.

Despite this fact, Great Britain has made an annual average profit of $10,000,000. In other words, it has cleared through Disraeli's shrewd and high handed action no less than $590,000,000 in fifty-nine years.

But it has been tied more or less to the diplomatic chariot wheels of France all the time. Still worse, a few weeks ago great indignation was expressed when the French run company charged a British coaling vessel of 2,900 tons $6,130 for traveling 100 miles through its waterway. It did this by using the "Suez canal measurement," which rated that vessel at 3,700 tons, owing to the long dead khedive having consented to this unique measuring system long before the Disraili deal had been dreamt of in Paris or Cairo.

According to the British case, the canal has paid in profit during the present century a dividend varying from 25 per cent during the war to 44 per cent in boom years. It has, however, paid its shareholders in the last thirty years dividends of $300,000,000. British shipowners have paid the major dues. French shareholders have reaped the golden harvest.

Plan Broad Waterway.

Now Britain, basing its arguments on these figures, desires to build a new canal. The old one cost $150,000,000, in days when Egyptian labor was 12 per cent cheaper and machinery 5 per cent less competent. The idea is that the new canal should be a broad waterway. The present canal does not permit a tanker to pass a 10,000 ton ship without the liner tying up. It causes endless delays. Shipping is held up at Port Said and Suez waiting for big vessels to come through, and again owing to the late Khedive Ismail, the dues are payable at these ports, not to Great Britain, the protector of Egypt, or to the Egyptian government, but to the French company.

This company is French not only in name. Every official is a Frenchman. There is not a single pilot licensed to steer a vessel through the ever shifting sandbanks of Suez who is not a true son of Gaul. All the electrical signaling devices are in French hands and their secrets are known to Frenchmen alone. These Frenchmen are under the French minister in Cairo, and ignore both the British residency and the writ of the king of Egypt.

During the whole period of its holding the Suez canal shares, Great Britain has never dared once to bring a case against the French company. It is explicitly written in the original contract of De Lesseps [builder of the canal] that only a French court at Paris can settle such a dispute. No British firm of shipowners has tried the experiment yet.

PERSIAN QUAKES KILL HUNDREDS, DESTROY TOWNS

12 Days of Tremors Bring Panic.

TEHERAN, Persia, April 23.—(AP)—A series of earth shocks which have rocked northern Persia since April 12 continued tonight after killing an undetermined number of persons and doing unestimated damage.

Reports from Mazanderan province said 483 persons died in that division alone. Lack of communication facilities prevented any accurate survey of the devastated regions.

[Dispatches from Teheran published in Paris said 600 persons were reported killed and thousands injured in the quakes, which destroyed the towns of Dodangueh, Tchadangueh, and Lezard-Jarib, and caused widespread panic. The Paris advices said the quakes were impeding rescue efforts, rocking buildings as rescuers penetrated them in search of victims.]

Heaviest Damage at Suleda.

The Persian press reported that the heaviest damage was done at Suleda, where many buildings were destroyed and most of the populace left homeless.

Quakes felt there were both violent and of exceptionally long duration, these reports said.

Tremors were felt at Amul, Banbul, and Khori. A textile plant at Zibav was destroyed.

The undersecretary of domestic affairs left Teheran to take charge of relief activities.

Thirst and Flood In Formosa.

TAIHOKU, Formosa, April 23.—(AP)—Relief agencies today rushed supplies of food, water, and medicine to earthquake survivors in distant sections of this island.

While the scarcity of water in one part of the island added to the terror of the populace, people in another section were imperiled by flood possibilities. Tropical heat brought suffering to many whose homes were destroyed in the series of shocks which cost at least 3,152 lives and left more than 10,000 injured.

Pipe lines lay in ruins and reservoir waters were poured to waste by the quakes. Hasty repairs of railway lines enabled relief workers and physicians to get to the interior.

2,000 Square Miles Laid Waste.

Surveys showed that 2,000 square miles inhabited by 250,000 persons were laid in waste.

The Tansu river was close to the flood stage. Heavy tropical rains have been falling in recent weeks.

The Japanese destroyer Shimakaze reached Byoritsu with a cargo of supplies.

RESISTS OFFICER; FINED.

Charged with resisting an officer when he was arrested in a tavern at 1114 North Lincoln street Saturday, William Dombrowski, 33 years old, who lives over the tavern, was fined $200 by Judge Samuel Heller in the Racine avenue court yesterday.

PARAGUAY GIVES UP TOWN BEFORE BOLIVIAN ATTACK

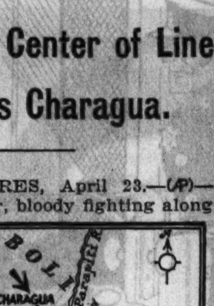
BUENOS AIRES, April 23.—(AP)—A week of bitter, bloody fighting along the 120-mile Chaco front, in which both Bolivia and Paraguay lost heavily, tonight saw Paraguay's invasion of Bolivia temporarily halted.



Hurling nine regiments numbering 8,000 men into the Paraguayan center, Gen. Enrique Penaranda, Bolivian commander, threatened the enemy's communications and forced evacuation of Charagua, important Santa Cruz province town which Paraguay captured April 16.

Launch Counter Offensive.

Paraguay, admitting Charagua had been abandoned for tactical reasons, asserted its counter-offensive launched in the central sector about Boyuibe inflicted heavy losses on the Bolivian forces concentrated there.

Charagua, despite its communications facilities and strategic advantages, was abandoned to shorten the battle line and permit concentration of effectives at Boyuibe to resist the Bolivian drive, the war ministry at Asuncion announced.

The central sector has been the scene of the fiercest fighting since the Bolivian offensive got under way April 17.

Penaranda's big push forced the outnumbered Paraguayans to fall back, resisting stubbornly in numerous hand to hand encounters. A seven hour bayonet battle April 18 resulted in complete wiping out of the Bolivian Lanza regiment, Paraguay claimed.

Claims "Enemy in Flight."

Fighting continued heavy until yesterday, when the Paraguayans, strengthened by reserves hurried up, launched their counter attack, the Bolivians, their asserted objective accomplished, retiring.

The Bolivian army high command's announcement of the recapture of Charagua, said the enemy army "is in disorderly flight toward Parapiti," and the war ministry claimed reoccupation of more than half of the approximately 4,200 square miles Paraguay overran in Santa Cruz.

Approximately 30,000 men on each side took part in the seven day battle extending from Villa Montes, Bolivian army base on the Pilcomayo river, to Charagua and the Izozog swamps, advices indicated.

Makes Gallows of Tree; Jumps Into Arms of Cop

FORT ERIE, Ontario, April 23.—(AP)—A youth with a rope over his arm climbed a tree opposite the community hall here today, attached one end of the rope to a limb, noosed the other end around his neck and jumped. He landed in the arms of Constable Lionel Griffin. The youth, Richard Lambert, who gave his residence simply as California, told police he had no home, no job, and no friends, and was sick of tramping about the country.

Fishpole Fencing Bout Causes Death of Boy

Melvin Harder, 12 years old, of Deerfield, died yesterday in the Highland Park hospital, victim of a boyish "duel" staged on April 15 with his buddy, Louis Soefker, 14 years old, of Highland Park. The two boys, armed with long fishing poles, held a fencing match and Louis' fishing pole pierced Melvin's eye, causing a skull fracture.

FILIPINO WOMEN SURPRISE MEN; 300,000 TO VOTE

Maximum of 50,000 Had Been Predicted.

MANILA, April 23.—(AP)—The interest of Philippine women in politics—they will cast their first votes soon—is exactly six times what the men thought it would be. And they had to tell how old they were to prove it.

Reports today at the close of special registration indicated that more than 300,000 have qualified to vote May 14 in the plebiscite on ratification of the constitution for the forthcoming commonwealth. Department of interior officials at Washington had predicted a maximum of 50,000.

Leaders Elated.

The showing elated women leaders who are bearing in mind that after the commonwealth is established the women must muster at least 300,000 votes in a special plebiscite if they are to retain their right of suffrage.

"In view of the fact that no personalities were involved, it was a gratifying demonstration," said Mrs. Josef Llanes Escado, secretary general of the Federation of Women's clubs.

Aguinaldo Registers.

Another Filipino who registered as a voter for the first time since the American régime was established in the islands, is Emilio Aguinaldo, an outstanding prospect for president of the Phillippine commonwealth. The leader of the 1900 rebellion against the United States gave his age as 66.

Aguinaldo was only 32 when he was captured through a ruse in 1901. Thereafter he took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

"I registered in order to vote on the constitution," he explained, but he did not reveal whether he would vote for or against the charter.

Marries Sweetheart Before He Dies in Hospital Bed

Rensselaer, Ind., April 23.—[Special.]—As he lay dying in Jasper county hospital, Frank Gross, 26, of Demotte, today married Mrs. Della Durante, Demotte. Gross, unable to speak, replied to the ritual with signs. He died a short time after the ceremony of pneumonia and complications resulting from an automobile accident last September.

RULES WOMAN IS NOT 'WIDOW' OF CAPITALIST

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Surrogate James A. Delehanty ruled today that Geraldine Louise Ott of Pittsburg, Kas., was not the common law wife of Bertrand L. Taylor, New York capitalist, who died April 6, 1934, in Beverly Hills, Cal., and thus was not entitled to share as his widow in his estate.

GERALDINE OTT.

Taylor's will had provided a bequest of $10,000 for her.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Ott of Pittsburgh, Miss Ott had lived lately in Beverly Hills and Hollywood.

Her mother testified during the hearing that her daughter had participated with Taylor in a common law marriage ceremony at her Kansas home after all of them had returned to America from a European trip.

Taylor's son and daughter fought the claim.

OPPOSE 10 PCT. ALLOTMENT OF PARKS FOR FAIR

Assembly Bills Criticized by Recreation Board.

The Chicago recreation commission yesterday condemned bills pending before the Illinois legislature which would create an exposition authority empowered to open a $20,000,000 permanent fair on the Chicago lake front. The vote on a resolution opposing the bills was 13 to 5. Twenty-three members of the commission were absent.

The chief objection to the bills was due to the general form in which they are drafted to meet legal requirements. Instead of allocating a specific area in Burnham park as a site for the permanent exposition it was necessary to generalize, giving any city of over 200,000 inhabitants [Chicago] the right to allocate a percentage of its park properties to exposition purposes.

Ten Per Cent Allotment Opposed.

The measures specify 10 per cent of such park acreage, and the recreation commission's resolution attacking them, which was presented by Attorney Walter L. Fisher, charged that the allocation of 10 per cent of all Chicago park lands to revenue producing recreational projects would endanger the existing system of free parks for the general public. It was also charged that such projects, from their revenue raising nature, would become too commercialized to offer cultural attractions. The resolution did not specifically attack the recreation project in Burnham park.

Supporting his resolution, Mr. Fisher declared that, although it opposed measures which endangered the fundamentals of the present park system, the way would be left clear for the introduction of other bills less dangerous.

After the adoption of the resolution efforts were made to get the commission to recommend changes in the legislation which would make it acceptable.

Seman Urges Amendments.

Philip I. Seman, chairman of the commission, informed the members that Mayor Kelly, who appointed the commission and originated the fair project, wanted amendments in the Springfield bills which would limit the amount of park lands available for revenue producing recreational projects to 2 per cent and would further remove the exposition authority from political control.

Superior Judge John P. McGoorty then led a fight to place the commission on record as favoring amendments to the bills which would reduce the percentage of allocated areas and lengthen the terms of members of the authority from five to ten years. The proposed amendments also would empower the authority to fill vacancies in its own membership.

When a vote on the proposal to recommend amendments was reached three members of the commission had departed and the McGoorty proposal was defeated by a vote of 8 to 7.

Chairman Seman then sent Mr. Fisher's resolution to Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, who is in Springfield.

CARTER HARRISON AT 75 COMMENDS KENTUCKY TODDY

The Kentucky toddy was named yesterday as a factor in promoting longevity yesterday by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue in the Chicago district. Collector Harrison, who served five terms as mayor of Chicago, celebrated his 75th birthday.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

"My father and grandfather both drank the Kentucky toddy, and I turned to the drink when I was 40 years old," he said. "It is made with an ounce and a half of whisky, two and one-half times as much water, and enough sugar to make it palatable.

"Temperance in everything has had a great deal to do with keeping me alive," Mr. Harrison commented. "You can be just as intemperate with ice water or roast beef as you can with anything else. I have always lived an outdoor life and have been fond of hunting and fishing."

The occasion meant just another day at his desk, Mr. Harrison said, and a little extra bourbon in the daily toddy. Mr. Harrison has made two trips around the world and has hunted in French Indo-China.

Callaghan Elephant 'Herd' Is Enriched by Sextuplets

Sextuplets were added yesterday to the collection of 600 carved elephants of Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the secret service in the Chicago district. T. J. Straus, investment banker of Warm Springs, Cal., sent the sextuplets, which are carved from a single piece of coco wood, with toes, tusks, and eyes inlaid with ivory. Capt. Callaghan, recognized as one of the outstanding carved elephant collectors of the country, has elephants varying in length from one-eighth of an inch to 12 inches. One of the elephants is of solid gold, one of silver, and another of jade.

TWO GASLESS TOWNS WILL BE SERVED BY OPERATORS FROM OHIO

East St. Louis, Ill., April 23.—(AP)—The Illinois Power and Light company today sanctioned a move by Centralia and Mt. Vernon to operate gas plants in the two towns privately until settlement of a strike of utility employés.

A committee of citizens from the two towns, without gas for weeks because of a strike of Illinois Power and Light company workers, met this afternoon with John H. Mitchell, manager of the utility's southern group, and outlined the plan of W. E. Steinwedell, president of the Cleveland, O., Gas Machinery company, to operate the plant until the strike was terminated.

Steinwedell attended the meeting here. A second conference will be held at Centralia tomorrow.

ROBERT E. HOGAN, ONCE CONVICTED, GETS PROBATION

Robert E. Hogan, 51 years old, former assistant state's attorney and once under sentence of a year in jail for conspiracy to defraud, is on probation from the Manteno state hospital for mental cases, to which he was committed last Aug. 30, it was revealed yesterday.

Hogan, with Elmer J. Lawler and Joseph Primakow, was sentenced to jail last July 14 after being found guilty of swindling Mrs. Julia Gottman of Evansville, Ind., out of $5,000 in a stock scheme. Judge Michael Feinberg granted the defense leave to file an insanity petition, and granted a new trial.

On Aug. 30 Acting Judge George D. Long ordered Hogan committed to the hospital in Manteno. Dr. Ralph Hinton, superintendent of the institution, said yesterday that Hogan was paroled Nov. 12 to the Rev. John G. Rengel, 3615 Hoyne avenue, and has since been granted an extension of parole. He is reported to be in Florida.

Mrs. Alma Haugan Gets Divorce Decree, Alimony

Mrs. Alma T. Haugan, 333 Temple court, Glencoe, was granted an uncontested divorce by Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday from Jevne Haugan of Barrington, broker, who was formerly vice president and director of the Foreman-State National bank and vice president of the State Bank of Chicago. Mrs. Haugan, the former Alma Thompson of Evanston, testified that her husband struck her on two occasions. She was awarded $100 a month for the support of three children, the eldest 10 years old. The Haugans were married in June, 1923, and separated last March 19, according to Mrs. Haugan.

GIVE WOMAN $500 FOR INJURIES OF LATE "DRY" ERA

Mrs. Daisy Wood Hoppler, 21 years old, of Joliet, was awarded $500 damages yesterday for injuries suffered after she had a number of drinks in the basement speakeasy of Mrs. Mary Wyscock, also of Joliet, during prohibition. A jury in the federal court of Judge William H. Holly deliberated little more than an hour before returning the verdict.

Mrs. Hoppler had filed suit against Mrs. Wyscock for $50,000 under a law which made the seller of liquor responsible for the subsequent mishaps to the drinker. The case was in the state courts for 18 months before it was decided that the federal court had jurisdiction.

Mrs. Hoppler charged that on Oct. 6, 1929, before she was married, she visited the speakeasy in the company of a friend, Steve Nuredyk. On their way home, she testified, their auto crashed into a light pole and she was seriously injured.

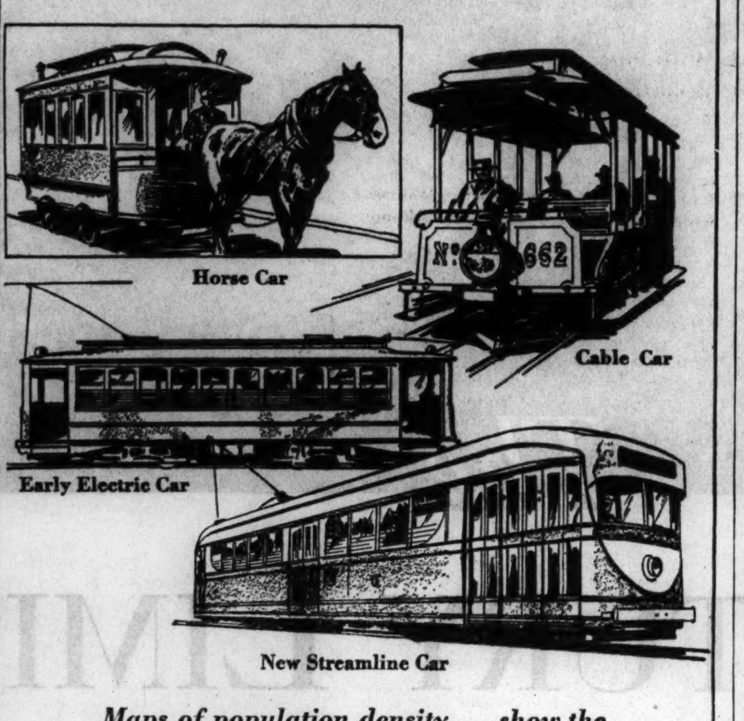
76 Years of Service



Maps of population density . . . show the bulk of population follows the rails.
—ARTHUR EVANS in the Chicago Tribune.

● On April 25, 1859, prominent citizens of Chicago celebrated the opening of the first street car line.

Today—76 years later—the Chicago Surface Lines is the largest street car system in the world. It carries eighty per cent of all those using local transportation in Chicago, and ninety-eight per cent of the entire population reside within three blocks of one or more of its routes.

No other single factor during the past three-quarters of a century has contributed so much to the development and growth of Chicago. As Surface Lines service has been extended into new territory, cabbage patches have become business centers, and open prairies have become thriving industrial and beautiful residential districts. Population has followed transportation pioneering.

This pioneering has cost money. New lines seldom pay until long after they have been installed. In fact, some Surface Lines routes in operation for years are not yet paying their way.

But the builders and operators of the Chicago Surface Lines always have recognized their obligation to provide facilities to serve the entire city. While competing services have tapped only the more congested areas, the Chicago Surface Lines has taken the lean with the fat. Its service is comprehensive.

The scores of prosperous communities which make up Chicago were developed by Surface Lines transportation, and Surface Lines routes are the arteries through which flows the stream of traffic that sustains them.

Suits Emerge as the Season's No. 1 Fashion

Easter Parade Reveals Their Popularity.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Post impressions of the Easter parade: Real flowers pinned on practically every shoulder, with violets everywhere. Gay red carnations next and quantities of all white in third place. Carnations staged a successful comeback with suits. And suits the outstanding choice of most promenaders. Not the severe classic suits tailored like masculine affairs, but intricate combinations of dress and longish coat with the dressmaker suits soft and appealingly feminine. Navy blue and black with dazzling accents of white. All kinds of white hats and accessories. Slim coats without fur, slim silhouettes with fuller skirtlines around the hem. Fitted clothes that make every one who wears them seem years younger.

Color combinations were particularly noticeable, all kinds of blue combined with lighter and darker shades. Plenty of taffeta trimmings and some of the smartest navy blue ensembles combined with oxblood red and chamois yellow as well as dusty pink and powder blue. Most of the gloves had wide gantlet cuffs; most of the handbags were compact and flat and in lethers to match the suits. The most feminine headgear was flattered with veils, short, with some of the new down-the-back variety. And flowers tucked or placed on nearly every hat that braved the Sunday breezes. Brims are back with a vengeance, flattering brims that all the men cheer for, shallow crowns and tucked across crowns were the favorites.

Golden yellow was tremendously effective in spring street tailors and flaring forty inch swagger coats. Also mustard greens and some interesting almond and leaf green tones. The big fashion fact that has settled for all the coming shopping weeks was that suits of all kinds without fur will be almost a Chicago spring uniform if the Easter boulevard parade can be used as a brilliant example.

"A Night in Avignon," Loomis Opera, Heard in Arts Club Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The American Opera society, constantly seeking to wage a valiant blow for the cause of American music and American composers, added to its list of worthy subjects yesterday afternoon at the Arts club. This was a concert performance of "A Night in Avignon," by Clarence Loomis.

It was presented by an Indianapolis organization. The soloists were Arthur Wilkinson, Robbye Cook Ridge, Virgil Phemister, Charles Kennett, Marian K. Thomas, and William Moon. There was a chorus and a chamber orchestra, with the composer at the piano, and the performance under the direction of Max T. Krone.

Mr. Loomis will be remembered as the composer of "Yolanda of Cyprus," a work presented in 1929 by Vladimir Rosing's American Opera company at the Majestic theater. This is an earlier work of his, though not unheard until yesterday, narrating an incident in the life of Francesco Petrarca and Laura, and based upon a play of the same name by Cale Young Rice.

Even in an early work Mr. Loomis displays the fact that he is well versed in the art of writing smooth, agreeable melody that generally keeps on the lyric side of the picture, but can on occasion become colorful and dramatic. The first scene of the opera, is not only a happy piece of writing but good theater.

The opera was preceded by a song program, choral and solo, also from the pen of Mr. Loomis, in which he served as accompanist. The program as well as the opera were warmly received by the audience, and rightfully so, for the music showed talent.

TWO letters from strangers, one of which fortuitously answered the query of the other, arrived in yesterday's mail. A woman wrote that she already had read the story of the Indian sapphire that Miss McLeod, white haired gentlewoman who divides her time among three continents, wears about her neck—printed last week in this space. She had read it in a book called "The Lighted Lamp." Was it a case of coincidence or was Miss McLeod the woman referred to, she inquired.

Letters— Query— Commentary.

Miss McLeod, now being on her way east, thence to her home at Stratford-on-Avon, I wondered how I could answer her question. Then I opened another letter.

"Did you know that Dr. C. Hanford Henderson used Miss McLeod as a heroine for his novel 'The Lighted Lamp,' published some twenty years ago, and that the story of the sapphire is in that book?" the letter read. "Your description of her character and outlook was so very similar to the picture Dr. Henderson gave of her that I would have recognized her without the story. COMMENTARY on the times. A certain young woman, making plans for her wedding, told her fiancé that, out of sentiment, she intended to wear her mother's wedding gown. The young man thought he could couple sentiment with economy and wear the suit his father had worn when he was married. However, his father vetoed the plan. He informed his son that he was wearing it himself and had no intention of going to bed that day.

Swedish Club Opens Annual Art Exhibition

Many Canvases Make It an Interesting Show.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The seventeenth annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Swedish-American artists is on view in the Swedish Club of Chicago, 1258 North La Salle street. It is an interesting show, coming well up to the standard set by the organization's previous exhibits.

Gustaf Dalstrom has rarely done a better piece of painting than you will find in "Church and Railroad," an almost thrilling achievement not at all in character with the triteness of its title. For the first time since we began a number of years ago to follow his work, Mr. Dalstrom in "The Bridge" employs the atmosphere, technique and color design that belong to Frances Foy, his wife. "The Bridge" is pure Foy and comes curiously into focus after the singular purity and characteristic painting of "Church and Railroad."

Carl Olsen gives us a stunning still life in "Odds and Ends." Here is magnificent painting, rich, vivid, sure. It stands out as possibly the most brilliant canvas in the gallery. "Lot Valley" by Carl T. Linden is a fascinating study in color. It is a landscape with trees, houses, hills, and fields blending into a perfect whole.

"Portrait of E. J. P." by Mary C. Peterson is an intriguing painting of a man. Miss Peterson's technique has loosened, and her feeling for color remained as intelligent as always, with the result of making her work even more likable than formerly. Irving C. Christenson has a vivid portrait, "Gypsy Girl," vivacious and sparkling, and an adorable group of grandmother and infant, "Goo."

"Twilight, Sweden" by Gerda Ahlm is richly decorative; "Wintry Winds" by Thomas Hall is effective; "Storm on the Atlantic" by C. Hallberg and "Winter" by Signe Palmblad hold interest. Frederick Remahl is decidedly cute in "Tree and Doll." Spolander offers a stunning marine, "After Rain Showers," and a pitcuresque composition in "Moonlight Night." Carl W. Wallin has a lovely bit of symbolism beautifully executed in "Dust" and a charming portrait, "By the Window." Hugo Westerberg gives us a pair of intriguing etchings, "On the Ice" and "Patrol in Snow."

Maud La Charme, in the Allerton House gallery, offers a colorful exhibit of some twenty paintings, all in the French tradition and deriving to a great extent from Cezanne and Renoir.

Joseph Lane, in the Marshall Field gallery, opened Monday a one man show of flower paintings. These are large and stunning and essentially "different." His exhibit is so gorgeous none should miss it.

THE SLEEPING CHILD

By Alice Grant Rosman.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Fell scents romance when she sees Miles Buchanan meet Eleanor Chevening, returning from London, at the Fendon railway station. Both belong to old Fendon families. Miles has been forced through adversity to shut up most of the Priory, his inherited home. The girls of the Chevening family of Fendon Edge are pursuing careers, Pauline having had a play produced in London and now working on a period piece with Miss Ffolett, who is running a repertory season in a coast town. Eleanor is studying medicine. Jenny, the youngest, runs a smart hat shop with another girl in Knightsbridge, and gets engaged and disengaged now and then. Audrey, an orphaned second cousin, with a talent for design, has for fifteen years been a daughter of the house. Pauline uses Audrey's skill for her theater. The Chevenings have a small flat in London for the use of any of the family going to and fro.

INSTALMENT III.
MEMORIES OF THE PAST.

Mrs. Chevening, the one leisured member of a busy family, had spent her usual idle morning. Having interviewed the cook, composed a disagreement between two of the other servants, and answered three telephone calls from members of the Women's guild, each of whom wanted her to uphold a different course, she had been cornered by her husband to hear a résumé of the latest doings of the league of nations, with sidelights on minority treaties, disarmament, Russia, Germany and the United States of America.

George Chevening was one of those men who behave with regard to the morning paper as though a female world had not yet learned to read, distrusting perhaps its proper interest in matters of real moment or more probably needing an audience. His wife's fine eyes and intelligent brow did not undeceive him, for they had been part of the flashing beauty which had won him long ago, now all that remained of it in her worn face under graying hair. It was not in him to look below the surface, and perhaps she gave him no aid.

"You see what it is, Anne. These fellows . . ." and in due course Anne said, "Yes, I suppose so," or "No, you're probably right," all, in fact, that was necessary.

At the end of the recital he began searching for his pipe which he had left in the pocket of his coat and, as usual, some one had unjustifiably removed, he said. It was useless to tell him that he must have put it elsewhere. Anne eventually went upstairs and discovered the missing pipe after a long search in the pocket of his dressing gown, but she did not tell him so and prolong the interview.

George exclaimed, "There!" with an accusing smile, and went to interview

"The brocade will be perfect for the queen in the third act."

one of the men about cutting down a tree which was dead and becoming dangerous.

Then the telephone rang again, and it was Jenny in town wanting a tennis frock sent off to her.

"At once, Petsy, won't you, because I'm going down to Rochampton with Harold tomorrow," said the youngest Miss Chevening, as one taking part in a national event, and rang off, saying she was in a rush as usual.

Anne, a little bewildered by Harold, who seemed to be a new addition to Jenny's train, spent half an hour looking through drawers and wardrobes before running the tennis frock to earth in the laundry basket. When she had packed and dispatched a lad on his bicycle to post it at Fendon, she was able to draw breath, find her garden gloves, scissors and basket and go out to cut flowers for the house. The long stemmed amber dahlias, like stars against the dark shrubbery behind them, were blooming in profusion, and she thinned them out with the careful hand which had made old Walters, the gardener, her grudging ally. Anne liked this moment, the scent of the earth, the cool touch of leaves brushing her face, the blessed remoteness from human contacts. But going indoors at last with her basket of blooms, she was bustled away, "Just for a moment, mother" to the attic by Pauline, talking of "properties." They were fancy dresses and so on stored away there, and the moment drifted into an hour while Pauline sorted and planned, talking enthusiastically of Emily Ffolett and the marvels she performed, practically without money or backing, and what a find these things would be.

"She's a personality. You'll see when you meet her. Marvelous! You forget her funny clothes," said Pauline, suddenly smiling into space at the remembrance of her friend. "I'll take all these, they are nearly certain to to come in useful, and you'll get them sponged and pressed for me, won't you? Kate could do it, I daresay. And of course the brocade will be quite perfect for the queen in the third act, once it's remade to the period and sewn with pearls. It would be safer, I think, if you were to unpick it, mother, then Kate could press the pieces under your eye. You don't mind, do you, darling, as I'm in such a rush?"

Mrs. Chevening accepted the brocade, said mechanically that she didn't mind, and was at last allowed to escape to her neglected flowers. She could not visualize Miss Ffolett, who was marvelous and wore funny clothes; all Pauline's interests were strange to her, but they were the girl's life, her own free choice. While the unsettled times had won George Chevening's consent that his daughters should follow their inclinations and adopt careers, Anne's approval had no connection with the times, but with the inalienable rights of every human creature.

The hour in the attic had tried her, but she did not grudge Pauline the dresses for her theater, even the brocade, though as she went downstairs with it over her arm she thought with forlorn impatience: "What fools we are to keep such things," aware of the irony that it should be this dress of all others for which Pauline asked her ministrations. It was one of her own, but she did not want to look at it and was glad that it was to be taken away.

In the slip where she had left the flowers she found no sign of them, but the table covered with a medley of sketches and drawing paper, and a girl standing at the open window, gazing out.

"Audrey!"

"No, I'm not mooning, Aunt Anne," said Audrey Chevening as to an unspoken implication. She had the lovely pale skin which so often accompanies a certain shade of red hair, neither auburn nor fiery, and a pair of dark eyes which smiled swiftly and set her face alight. Her speech was quick, too, and rather abrupt. "I was seeing visions and thinking great thoughts—farthingales and stomachers and all that. O! Paula's been looting. What a lovely thing!"

She had approached the brocade frock, but Mrs. Chevening laid it on a chair behind her, saying brusquely:

"But where are my flowers? Don't tell me you have thrown them away?"

"Yes, of course—into the drawing room before they died on me."

Mentally and physically the girl had retreated, but light heartedly it seemed, and disclaiming the service with a careless smile.

"O, they are done, then?" exclaimed Mrs. Chevening with relief. "I hadn't expected to be so long upstairs. Thank you, dear, but I'm sorry you had to interrupt your work."

"I didn't. I always like to do two things at once—or even three."

Audrey had moved back to her sketches, but at the moment there came the sound of a car in the drive outside—a welcome interruption—and she turned to the window.

"Why, it's Nell, the old ruffian."

With every appearance of pleasure Audrey jumped out and ran down the lawn to meet the newcomer.

Anne Chevening watched the flying figure and then turned to the drawings which had overflowed on to the floor and picked them up as though somehow that was a relief to her.

She went out to welcome Eleanor, and at the hall door met the dog Bogey, who had dismounted as a matter of course, as one accustomed to the hospitality of this house. Miles whistled to him and Bogey cocked an inquiring and rather reproachful ear.

"Leave him alone, Miles. You must stay for lunch now you are here," called Mrs. Chevening. "It was nice of you to give Eleanor a lift."

"O, no, it wasn't," corrected his late guest maliciously. "He did it for self-protection, the coward—from Miss Fell. Hiding behind a woman's skirts."

"Quite true. I haven't earned my lunch. No, really, Mrs. Chevening, thanks. I must be off. I promised to see Burton at half-past one."

Audrey, who had gone to have a word with the dog, now returned, Bogey at her heels, and Miles called him into the car again peremptorily. The setter took the front seat beside him in a virtuous manner and Audrey laughed.

Alas, for Miss Fell's romance; it was this picture which Miles Buchanan took away with him: young Audrey in her yellow dress, and quite suddenly for Miles the center of the world.

Good Morning!

"I didn't know that brides WERE curious any more," Mrs. Seeger ruminated as we wended our way to the Garrick theater . . . .

Well, in even this up and coming age, there are still things to wonder about—when Erle Stanley Gardner writes a detective story. In "The Case of the Curious Bride," adapted from one of his smart yarns, the heroine has plenty to be curious about. For instance:

Is she wife, widow, or bigamist?

WHY is there a wooden Indian in the coffin?

Who murdered the murderee? Why? Why——

But—for the rest of the why's and whuffahs of this tale, betake you to the Garrick theater, where—after a slow start—"The Case of the Curious Bride" unreels with quite laudable speed and suspense. . . .

Warren William is smooth as Perry Mason, criminal lawyer, whose skill at amateur detecting has made him a figure of note among both the hounds and the hares. Margaret Lindsay is properly jittery as the curious one. Allen Jenkins provides mirth aplenty as Perry's Man Friday and Olin Howland, looking disturbingly like Will Hayes, provides a somewhat unusual interpretation of a laughing coroner. Other rôles are handled with an eye to effect. Direction's good in the main.

"LIVING ON VELVET."

Produced by First National.
Directed by Frank Borzage.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

When a picture has Kay Francis, George Brent, and Warren William in its cast it has three excellent reasons for being. One reports, regretfully, that the three are the ONLY reasons why one should see "Living on Velvet."

The plot is a lopsided triangle one. Lopsided because that sterling character known as "Gibraltar" Pritcham refuses to be an obstacle in the path of his intended fiancée's romance with his scapegrace best friend, Terry Parker. WHOM she marries. . . .

Mr. Parker's attitude toward life is the reason for the title. As sole survivor of a plane wreck he has become obsessed with the quaint idea that he must thumb his nose at the air—giving the heavens every chance he can to do well the job of taking his life—at which they had failed. Living on borrowed time—velvet—he feels he is. And nothing matters till—he meets the gal of his pal. Then, for awhile nothing matters—MUCH——. But—in due course of time—

Sounds pretty blah? IS pretty blah.

BY MARY MEADE.

Spring eggs inspire open minded cooks (and cooking editors). They tempt one into having things like poached eggs on browned mushrooms for dinner, and into the pleasant land of angel food cakes, of scrambled eggs, soufflés, and omelets, of golden meringues and creamy custards. Witness a few of the same:

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH CHEESE AND ASPARAGUS TIPS.

While the fresh asparagus tips are merrily cooking, scramble the eggs in the top of a double boiler. Allow two for each person to be served, break them into a bowl, and whip them up with a little milk or cream before turning them into the double boiler, in which some melted butter is waiting for them. Stir the eggs lightly while cooking, to keep the little "scrambles" soft and fluffy. When done, pile the eggs in the center of a hot platter, arrange the asparagus around them, and sprinkle grated cheese over the top.

Eggs Northern.

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup flaked crabmeat
4 eggs, separated

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk, and salt. Add the crabmeat and spread the hot mixture on slices of buttered toast. Place the covered slices on a baking sheet. Atop each pile a spoonful of stiffly beaten egg white, to which a pinch of salt has been added, make a hollow in the center of it, and slip in the unbroken yolk. Bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set—about 10 minutes. Serve with a dash of paprika and a sprig of fresh parsley for garnish.

Scrambled Eggs with Rice and Cheese Sauce.

1 cup rice, uncooked
1 cup milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons grated cheese
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
6 eggs

Cook the rice in boiling salted water until tender and fluffy. Drain. Meanwhile make a cheese sauce from the milk, salt, cheese, butter, and flour. Scramble the eggs and pile either around or in the center of a mound of hot rice on a hot platter. Cover with the hot cheese sauce.

Baked Eggs and Fresh Spinach.
(Isbanak Tavaa.)

2 quarts fresh, washed spinach
5 eggs
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons butter

Cook the washed spinach for 10 minutes, then chop finely and season to taste. Spread evenly in a flat, buttered baking dish. Beat the eggs and pour them in a layer over the cooked spinach and top with the melted butter. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set, about 10 to 12 minutes.

Scalloped Noodles and Stuffed Eggs.

1 4½ ounce package noodles
6 hard cooked eggs

Drop the noodles into boiling salted water and boil briskly until tender. Drain and rinse. Put the cooked noodles in the bottom of a buttered casserole or individual baking dishes. Cut the eggs in halves, remove the yolks, and mash and season with prepared mustard, salt, pepper, a little vinegar, and a little irradiated evaporated milk if needed for moistening. Stuff the whites with the seasoned, fluffy yolks, and place on top of the noodles. Cover with a sauce made of:

1½ tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk

Top the sauce with grated cheese and brown in a moderate oven.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A Chicago hair stylist is going to do something daring tomorrow at a loop store and you're all invited to sit in. He's going to demonstrate one of his pet theories—that the real coiffure artist can be utterly practical. And since the majority of women feel that the stylists are much too inclined to flights of coiffure fancy this should be something interesting to observe.

He is giving a public "chalk talk" tomorrow, working first with sketches and then with his shears. He will take a woman from the audience [and we happen to know that she won't be a "plant"] as his subject, pointing out what's wrong with her coiffure, from the standpoint of becomingness as well as practicality. Then he'll sketch her as he thinks she should look. Then he'll design her hair style; she'll be borne off to the shampooing and drying department, and when she emerges you'll see a transformation.

And we promise you this much—and he does, too: She won't emerge curled to the eyebrows in a style that's awfully swish but not sensible. Hers will have good common sense as well as style. The artist vows it will be a coiffure you can pull every which way with fingers, comb, or brush, and that it will be so designed it will fall into place unruffled.

This man has a sound idea about hair-dos that will stand hair brushing. He laments the fact that women are scared of good stiff hair brushings because they have an idea they'll take out waves or destroy the coiffure line. His idea is that a properly executed style will not be damaged by the daily hundred strokes.

We're anxious to see how this all works out tomorrow; it sounds like the sort of thing we like our hair stylists to follow. For the average woman the practical aspects of her coiffure can't be overlooked. She has neither the time nor the money to keep all ringleted up all of the time.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Last year to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Hoyne received their family and old friends at a tea at the residence of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Healy of East Walton place, but this year no plans for a party of any sort have been made. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyne returned to their home in Highland Park early this month from their winter place in Camden, S. CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A SACRIFICE BID.

In yesterday's article I showed how Mr. Aggressive bid and made three no trumps with an overtrick. The Aggressives now have 140 points chalked up on their side of the ledger. The Conservatives are fighting desperately with their backs against the wall. Mrs. Aggressive, sitting in the West position, dealt today's hand.

1 N. T.	2 Cl. [1]	2 Di.	3 Cl. [2]
3 Sp. [3]	Pass [4]	4 Sp.	Pass
Pass	5 Cl. [5]	Pass [6]	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

"Strange Interlude" of the bidding:

1. I've got to lay some sort of a basis for a possible sacrifice.
2. If we have to sacrifice, clubs is the spot.
3. Now that you've shown me a two suit hand, our hands seem to fit much more nicely, so I'm giving you a free raise in spades.
4. Far be it from me to force any one into game.
5. I only hope it isn't 700 points.
6. The forcing pass. I'm leaving it up to Mrs. Aggressive to bid five spades, or double.

It so happens that five spades can be made on the hand, because the spade finesse goes, but it's a risky bid. Mr. Aggressive, hard put to it for a lead, finally opened the ace of diamonds. An original trump lead, in combination with trump returns by Mrs. Aggressive, sets the hand four tricks. But with the lead of the ace of diamonds, Mr. Conservative had a fine chance for an end play. Assisted unwillingly by his opponents, he stripped both his hand and dummy's of spades and diamonds. When Mr. Aggressive failed to follow on the second lead of trumps he had a perfect count on the hand. Mr. Aggressive evidently had held originally five spades, five diamonds, a singleton club, and two hearts. If one of those hearts was an honor, Mr. Aggressive could be thrown in and forced to lead either spades or diamonds. Being void of those suits in both hands, Mr. Conservative could then trump in dummy and discard a losing heart from his own hand. For the execution of this play it was necessary that a trump honor be left in dummy so that West, who had the ten of clubs, could not overtrump dummy. Mrs. Aggressive's third trump was left to wilt in her hand until Mr. Conservative carried out his superb play. There is no way Mr. Aggressive can escape. Throwing the king of hearts on the ace merely sets up the jack for Mr. Conservative.

Mr. Aggressive accepted the touch of kismet with fairly good grace. He congratulated Mr. Conservative sourly and professed that he was completely satisfied with the 450 point set. As the Conservatives were perfectly content to give up 450 points to save the rubber, both sides seemed happy.

Mr. Aggressive seized the second pack of cards and gave them a riffle "for good luck." Mr. Conservative remarked jocularly that he hoped the luck would be good for their side because they certainly needed it.

The score to date is all for the Aggressives. Four hundred and ninety points above the line—game in. Perhaps the Conservatives will do better tomorrow.

Fashion Gives Ample Leeway in Hair Style

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This is one year when, from the scalp up, you can wear just about what you want. In hat and hair styles there is one for every head. More than one.

There have been several big hair-dressing conventions lately, divulging the above-mentioned fact about the variety in hair dressing ventures.

A few of the other highlights gleaned from the shows:

Hair is going to be still shorter in the back. Up a little higher to leave a longer expanse of neck free.

Fringes and bangs may be what you'll have. Half pint size or full measure. Worn straight across, if you're a brunette, and slightly oriental type, or just worn halfway across, with tendrils slightly jagged.

Some startling hair partings come to light. On one head, three different slantings, giving an idea of the lengths to which one head of hair may be subjected. Back parts interesting and often just what the back of the head needs to give it shape and meaning.

A new hair tinting, which may be threatening the complete demise of the platinum head. Maybe not. It's called Venetian blonde, a sort of copperish gold.

While it is claimed the new coiffures follow no set rules, there is the arbitrary one of the upward sweep of hair in the back.

A late note from Paris begs for what is called "free" hair to take the place of the "set," scalp-fitting coiffure as feminine antidote for the mannish tailored suit, hat, and shoes.

Too Rigid Time Budget Cramps Parents' Style

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Of course you have to be practical. I know that. Your're busy, and you have a thousand things to do.

At the same time, if you're too practical and businesslike and efficient with your children it doesn't work out well.

For one thing, you won't get nearly as much out of having children.

What children mean in your life depends a great deal upon what kind of person you are yourself. But, other things being equal, if your aim is to live by schedule and be entirely practical with the children you won't get as much out of having them. Especially beware of budgeting your time too closely.

Just recently an article for mothers appeared in a magazine, on planning your day. It was by a woman who had children. As I read it I thought to myself, "this is full of swell ideas," and it was. But as I read on, my mind began to be filled with popping "buts."

But nowhere in that whole plan were there gaps left for all those things that can't be scheduled, but which happened when you have children. Time to "Come out, mommie, and see me make a birthday cake in my sand pile," or to "Please, mommie, read me 'Winnie the Pooh,'" or to linger over a putting to bed or to sit companionably in the sun.

You lose a lot if you're eminently practical with your children.

Our new, fully written leaflet, "Why Children Lie," will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Needlework of Fashionable Ladies Shown

Art Institute Guild Group Displays Art.

Arthur G. Leonard, president of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, is convinced that every cloud has its silver lining. In a gift just received from his daughter, Mrs. C. Groverman Ellis, he has found a pleasant antidote for the severe disappointment he suffered last spring when the favorite hangings in his office were destroyed in the stockyards fire.

The hangings were needlework replicas of clipper ships made by the captains of these ships in the post-Revolutionary period and handed down to Mr. Leonard. From a picture, his daughter has reproduced one of the hangings in shaded wool on a beige linen background and then mounted the needlework in a frame. During the next few months Mrs. Ellis hopes to do three or four similar hangings for her father.

The piece she has completed was shown yesterday at the annual exhibition of the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute, in the drawing room of Mrs. Henry H. Shearson's apartment at 227 East Delaware place. Mrs. Shearson is the guild president.

Many of the members—Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Edmund Andrews, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Robert Gardner, and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland among others—dropped in between 3 and 6 to see the display and have a cup of tea. The others are planning to come today.

The scenes that Mrs. Ralph Norton has worked in petit point after designs in the Queen Anne room at the Art institute, attracted particular comment. So did Mrs. Frank W. Porter's stunning table runner in a French design and the wall hanging in English crewel that is the work of Mrs. John T. Wheeler.

It was explained yesterday that the idea for the seat cover in Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell's Chinese Chippendale chair came from the border on a Mandarin's coat.

Guests found an amazing likeness in the needlepoint portrait that Mrs. Henry Belin Voorhees has done of her grandchild, Constance Anderson, and they marveled at Mrs. Andrews' needlework copy of the oldest Mayan family tree.

Then there is the map of the United States beautifully worked in needlepoint by Mrs. Samuel Behrendt, with a border of the signs of the zodiac.

There are dozens more exquisite pieces all of which go to prove that all of the city's "first" ladies do not "fritter all of their time away on bridge."

Higgins, Mrs. Archibald Hoyne, Laurence Williams, and John Astley-Cock. Mrs. Martin A. Farr was hostess at a luncheon following the program.

Popular Quilt Is Quaint in Design and Easily Pieced

Stripes and Squares.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Among the simplest and easiest-to-piece quilt blocks is the quaint, old-fashioned "Stripes and Squares." At birth the quilt block was christened "Interlocked Blocks." Somewhere along its march through the years the block acquired its second name, under which it has enjoyed its greatest popularity. Gold, blue, rose, and white make an excellent solid color combination. Prints of blue, lavender, yellow, and white make a dainty scheme.

With her book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices—One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

FEDERAL 'FREE FORUMS' UNDER EDUCATORS' FIRE

Catholic Leaders Talk on Public Education.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Catholic educators meeting in national convention here, said last night they had learned that Dr. John W. Studebaker, federal commissioner of education, was developing a plan for "free forums" in all towns and cities of the country for the free discussion of all forms of economic and social theories. Studebaker, they added, wants $15,000,000 of public works easy money to train forum directors and to launch the program.

The free forum topic came up during a discussion of the danger of the extension of government control over education at a session of the National Catholic Education association convention which opened in the Stevens hotel yesterday. This discussion was led by the Rev. Dr. George Johnson of Washington, D. C.

See Danger in Plan.

The delegates saw peril in the Studebaker plan which they said was defended by its proponent chiefly on the ground that communism can best be combatted by bringing it out into the open.

The pattern for this Studebaker idea was the Des Moines, Ia., forum, founded by the commissioner while superintendent of public schools there. It was added that Studebaker has recently published a book on the subject. One leader of the association charged that forum leaders already were being trained for prospective jobs if the Studebaker plan was accepted.

The problem of financial aid for parochial schools from tax sources is to be discussed during sessions of the association. It was pointed out that many bishops of the Catholic church were opposed to parochial schools receiving any aid from tax sources on the grounds that "he who pays the bills calls the tune," and that independence of instruction must be preserved.

Might Accept Aid.

On the other hand, some Catholic leaders contended that parochial schools might receive public aid in compensation for the teaching of certain subjects, such as civics.

The Rev. Dr. Johnson spoke on "the Ohio situation." In that state, he explained, there has been a breakdown of the realty tax structure and that it became necessary to create a central educational fund through a sales tax.

Inasmuch as all Catholics are helping to erect that fund, and at the same time are maintaining their parochial schools, he said that fairness would be served if parochial schools were given a share of the fund. A bill to this effect, Dr. Johnson said, has already passed the state senate, but was lost by six votes in the house. The bill, he added, will again be brought to a vote in a few days.

"We feel that the fight being waged by the bishops of Ohio," said Dr. Johnson, "is in the interests of freedom of religious teaching. The Ohio delegation to this meeting will have much to say on the subject, and it is possible that the association may take some action on the question."

The convention continues today and tomorrow.

The Rev. Francis J. Magner Seriously Ill in Hospital

The Rev. Francis J. Magner, 48 years old, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church in Evanston for the last seven years, is in grave condition in St. Francis hospital in the suburb, it was learned yesterday. The priest was taken to the hospital last Wednesday on orders of his physician, Dr. William E. O'Neil, and was operated on Sunday.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Balloon Plowing

April 23, 1935

A BIG disker being pulled by a tractor was going up and down a 20 acre field when I arrived at the Wheaton experimental farm, so I found I was just in time to take a "buggy ride." The tractor has rubber tires on it—huge balloons that make the machine ride very comfortably. I hopped aboard when the outfit slowed down at the end of the field in order to turn around and then made several trips up and down the field to see how many bumps are eliminated by the soft tires.

It's surprising how much more comfortably the tractor travels when it is equipped with rubber tires. A little later when the boys started up another tractor with metal wheels I had a good chance to compare the two machines and their riding qualities. The tractor that was not rubber mounted just about shook the buttons off my coat before we had traveled from the barnyard to the road.

Carl remarked when we were talking about the two machines and how they operate in the field:

"It's just like riding in a hammock when you roll along on that rubber tired tractor. But the riding qualities are not the only things to be considered. We find that you get considerably more power on the drawbar when the tractor has these big rubber tires. Another thing, the machine burns less gasoline—I would say around 30 per cent less than the amount consumed when you run the machine with the metal wheels. And one of the finest things about the outfit is that you can take it anywhere without cutting up the ground."

Carl pointed to the green pasture through which the machine had to go in order to reach the 20 acre field that was being disked for an oat crop.

"You notice how little impression the rubber tired tractor left on the pasture? If we had driven through here with the other type of wheels on it, it would have dug up the ground—well, you know what those wheels do to the soil."

After my buggy ride on the rubber tired tractor I hiked down through the woods and then swung around by the pond.

In the timber the the first exhibits in the "spring flower show" can now be seen. Although the floor of the woods still is brown with dead leaves—winter's parting gift—the wild flowers are poking their heads through this carpet. Spring beauty is in blossom. The May apples or mandrakes have come up four inches or more. A few warm days and their big umbrella tops will be opened. I noticed many trillium plants well above the ground. The anemones or hepaticas are in blossom—as it were, holding the fort in the spring flower display until help comes from the other wild flowers that are much more spectacular and also more appreciated.

Around the duck pond the most intriguing event is the behavior of the six wild geese that have settled down on this body of water. The question is: Are they six wild geese that never were on the pond before, or are three of them birds that left the pond last fall and brought back their mates? It about this sextet. At any rate, the birds have become very tame, permitting Rawlings to come within a few feet of them when he distributes feed around the pond.

GARDNER FACES INDICTMENT IN DOUBLE MURDER

William Gardner, 56 years old, a paying teller in the First National Bank of Chicago, who shot and killed his son and daughter early Monday in the family home at 447 North Spring avenue, La Grange Park, and wounded another son, is to be indicted on a charge of murder this morning.

The action was taken in order that the case be placed officially in Criminal court jurisdiction, so that Gardner can be examined by an alienist. Attorney Frank L. Paul of the legal department of the bank, asked that Dr. Francis Gerty, head of the psycopathic hospital, be allowed to make the examination. Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty agreed, with the stipulation that Dr. Harry Hoffman, Criminal court alienist, be present at the examination.

It was learned yesterday that Rita Jane Gardner, who with her brother, Donald, 14 years old, was killed by their father, had planned to marry Harvey Miller Jr. of Aurora, athlete at North Central college, Naperville, in June.

Funeral services for the victims of the tragedy will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, La Grange Park. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

SLAIN MINER'S RITES TO DRAW 5,000 TO SPRINGFIELD TODAY

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—More than 5,000 members of the Progressive Miners of America plan to attend here tomorrow the funeral of Edris Mabie, an organizer of that union, killed in Springfield's Easter Sunday labor riot. In that row ten other were wounded.

Meantime, Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Mine Workers of America, was held in a prison cell charged with the murder of Mabie. Edmundson refused to discuss the gun fight and his secret surrender in Taylorville Sunday night.

Edmundson has held his present office with the union less than three months. He was wounded slightly in the neck during Sunday's fighting. Two others held with Edmundson on charges of murder are William Furlow, also slightly wounded, and Fred Thomason.

STEALS GAS; SENTENCED.

Joseph Barnes, 30 years old, 1516 West 14th street, who confessed stealing gas from a main leading into a garage at the rear of his home, was sentenced to 90 days in the House of Correction yesterday by Judge Samuel Heller.

HOSPITAL FOLK AWAIT THE JOY OF LILAC TIME

Share-Blooms Campaign Is Planned Again.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Miss Grace Bradley, superintendent of the tuberculosis ward of the Cook County hospital, told yesterday of the joy which has been brought to hospital patients in former years by the "share your lilacs" campaign sponsored by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild and by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The seventh annual distribution of lilacs this spring is awaiting the blooms, which have been retarded by the long cold spell this month.

"Our patients wait for the lilac days with the greatest anticipation," said Miss Bradley, whose ward is one of twenty-seven stops which will be included in this year's lilac sharing pilgrimage.

"When the lilacs come, we know that summer must be on its way. During the winter, hospital rooms are rather cheerless. Occasionally we receive a few flowers, but that is such a rarity that it is long remembered. But when the lilacs come, filling our four floors with their fragrant purple clusters, we know that our flower season is here again. Then the Plant, Flower and Fruit guild continues to bring flowers all summer long."

Welcome in Children's Wards.

The need for the lilacs was also told at the Women's and Children's hospital.

"You see," explained Dr. E. T. Thompson, superintendent, "we have large charity wards, and the only flowers we get are donated ones. We get lilies at Easter and an occasional bouquet, but at no time do we get as many flowers as we do when the lilacs come. They transform a cheerless ward into a radiant one in a twinkling."

At the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, little auburn haired Mary, who is paralyzed from the waist down, has been watching for news of the lilac shower for weeks, according to Mrs. W. B. Bowers, president of the home.

"Mary can't walk," explained Mrs. Bowers. "She can't leave her wheel chair, but she is our official flower arranger, and at lilac time she is in her element. Only then does she have enough to spread blooms everywhere."

Hospital Executive Pleased.

Dr. Herman Smith, superintendent of Michael Reese hospital, expressed delight when informed that his hospital again would be included in the lilac itinerary.

"We are happy to get flowers at any time, but especially to get lilacs," he said. "They come always as a surprise—a delightful, cheerful, and beautiful surprise."

The usual lilac blooming season for this area is between May 10 and 20.

585 CONVENTIONS SCHEDULED FOR CHICAGO IN 1935

Chicago will have one of its greatest convention years in 1935, William J. Hennessy, head of the Association of Commerce convention bureau, reported to executives of the association and members of the Greater Chicago Hotel association today at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman. Hennessy said that 585 conventions have already been scheduled for this year and that they will bring 506,431 delegates who will spend approximately $15,192,930 on food and lodging alone. He explained that the amount did not include transportation, night club expenditures, or purchases in Chicago stores.

ENTOMOLOGISTS PLAN DRIVE TO HIT CHINCH BUGS

Keokuk, Ia., April 23.—[Special.]—Use of creosoted paper barriers to control chinch bug infestations of farms in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, and Indiana were recommended by federal and state entomologists, who were in conference here today.

The group discussed the various experiments that have been conducted and agreed on ways to most economically expend funds for bug control.

Dr. W. P. Flint represented Illinois; Dr. J. J. Davis, Indiana; Drs. Carl Drake and George Decker, Iowa, and Dr. Leonard Houseman, Missouri.

The Iowa experts also inspected a number of public buildings locally on the lookout for reported termite invasions.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox kept going yesterday in their rôle of 1935's big game hunters. With weapons no more formidable than wooden sticks, they bagged themselves a complete herd of champion Tigers, thereby winning, 7 to 2, in their homecoming before 15,000 fans who hadn't had so much fun since Manager Jim Dykes was a young man. It made the third trimming the Chicagoans have inflicted on the Tigers in four attempts this season.

Not a little of the treatment that reduced the Tigers to the status of fireside tabbies was Sam Jones, the 42 year old youth, but of greater importance in the series of happenings was Ray [Rip] Radcliff, a south side newcomer. Tiny Rip carved a niche for himself by exploding four singles against two of the three pitchers Detroit used. One of Rip's hits drove in two runs when the Sox sewed up the verdict with a big fourth inning. Two of his other safeties were indirectly responsible for two more runs.

Morgan Gets an Assist.

Probably Chester Morgan, a Texas league graduate who operated in left field for the league champions, should be accorded some of the credit for the Sox's success. The youngster dropped a fly ball which in itself is not a rarity. But he committed his blunder when the bases were loaded in the fourth inning which was the first time the Sox had Alvin Crowder, the Tigers' starting pitcher, in a real jam. The error let the first two runs score. Two more followed on Radcliff's hit and another was forced in on a pass. Thereafter Jones proceeded cautiously to assure his second triumph of the year over the champions.

When it became evident that Crowder could be of no further use, except to the Sox, he was yanked. Manager Mickey Cochrane of the champs didn't figure this out until after two fellows had singled in the sixth. Then Vic Sorrell appeared and brought with him enough luck to finish the inning without more damage. He vanished after that and for the last two innings the Sox had to look at a lefty named Clyde Hatter. They scored their final run off Hatter in the eighth.

The Fun Starts.

Until the Sox shook things up with their blast in the fourth they hadn't had much fun on the base lines. Only

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE Sox and Cubs opened their home season before almost identical crowds. . . . The Cubs drew 15,500 for their inaugural with the Cardinals and the Sox yesterday attracted a gathering that was estimated conservatively at 15,000. . . . The temperature yesterday was much more suitable for baseball than a week previous when the Cubs started their campaign, but a threat of rain undoubtedly kept away several thousand.

There can be no question about the courage of the White Sox. . . . Although Mayor Kelly wasn't there to throw out the first ball, they overcame the handicap before the game was half over. . . . There were no ceremonies of any kind attending the opening. . . . President William Harridge of the American league had as his guest Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, who is on his way to Alaska to hunt bear. . . . Mrs. Yawkey will join him in Seattle. . . . Commissioner K. M. Landis was accompanied by his son, Maj. Reed Landis. . . .

John Whitehead, who whipped the Tigers at Detroit last Friday, will pitch for the Sox today. . . . He yielded only six hits the last time out, five of them in the first two innings. . . . Fred Marberry or Schoolboy Rowe will work for Detroit. . . . There weren't enough bleacher seats to accommodate the fans, so the management took care of the overflow in the upper deck of the left field stands. . . . There were at least 4,000 in this section. . . . President Lou Comiskey was host to Chicago and Detroit writers in the press room before the game. . . . There has been considerable confusion about the starting time of games at Chicago parks. . . . All engagements at Comiskey park begin at 3 o'clock except on Saturday when the starting time is 2 o'clock. . . . The schedule at Wrigley field is 3 o'clock except Saturdays and Sundays, when the bell rings at 2. . . .

Irving Vaughan, who has seen many more major league games than any baseball writer in Chicago, says this is the best White Sox team in the last ten years. . . . More power, he explains. . . . The numbers on the scoreboards at Comiskey park need whitewashing. . . . They are barely visible from the grand stand. . . . The Sox go to Cleveland for a series Sunday night and then return to play the four eastern clubs. . . . Fred Carter, south side restaurateur, saw his thirtieth consecutive White Sox opener yesterday. . . . Years ago Mr. Carter was employed in the Sox office by the late Charles A. Comiskey. . . . Chester Morgan, Detroit left fielder, settled the outcome of the game in the fourth inning when he dropped Luke Sewell's line drive with two out, permitting Bonura to score from third on the error. . . . Jones walked, Radcliff and Hayes singled, and Simmons walked before Bonura, up for the second time in the inning, flied to White in center field to end the rally. . . . The pass to Simmons forced in a run. . . . With the count three balls and two strikes Simmons hit five successive fouls before Crowder gave him the fourth ball.

Charlie Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, contributed the most brilliant fielding play of the day when he leaped high to spear Hayes' liner in the sixth and threw to Owen to double Radcliff at third. . . . The drive was like the one Jim Bottomley of the Reds caught in Sunday's game at Wrigley field to start a triple play. . . . Lew Fonseca, who was replaced as manager by Jimmy Dykes nearly a year ago, was one of the most enthusiastic Sox rooters. . . . He predicts they are going places this season. . . .

Before the Pirates and White Sox ended their spring tour Guy Bush and George Earnshaw made a bet they would excel each other in number of games won this season. . . . Neither has turned in a victory thus far. . . . Rogers Hornsby says Luke Sewell's work behind the plate will help make the White Sox a dangerous club. . . . Ray Radcliff, who has been trying for four years to land a berth with the Sox, was the batting star of yesterday's game, collecting four singles in five trips to the plate. . . . Tom Mackey has charge of the press gate at Comiskey park for the tenth straight year. . . . His assistant is John Walsh, who fought in the Golden Gloves tournament a year or two ago as a representative of the Catholic Youth organization. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Master Charlie was made the winter book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby. . . . The Sox and Cubs won. . . . Babe Ruth was on the road to recovery after his operation for a stomach ailment. . . . Nine records were broken in the opening day meet of the Drake relays. . . . The I. A. C. swimming team took the lead in the National A. A. U. tournament at San Francisco.

U. C. L. A. RETURNS TO DEFEND RELAY TITLE AT DRAKE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The mile relay, probably the only standard American relay since it generally is the one included in dual meets and conference competition, will feature the Drake relays Saturday. Recognized as more important because of the number of times it is run in the season, this event wil conclude Saturday's program at Des Moines, Ia.

Last year a brilliant set of quarter milers, anchored by Jimmy Lu Valle, representing the University of California at Los Angeles, established a new meet record of 3 minutes, 15 9-10 seconds, surpassing the mark of 3:16.9 which the University of Iowa set up in 1923. The members of that Iowa quartet—Morrow, Noll, Brookins, and Wilson—were present at Drake university stadium a year ago when the California boys lowered the 11 year old mark by one second.

U. C. L. A. Defends Title.

Running with LuValle last year were Miller, Lott, and Ray Vejar. California will defend its championship and Drake relays record Saturday. Vejar and LuValle will return on the 1935 team. The new lineup, however, leaves the question of supremacy more or less a question.

The University of Texas finished second last year. This team, however, won the first qualifying race with U. C. L. A. second in that heat. Wallender and Edwards again will run for Texas and Austin and Grunelson are the new members. Texas won the mile relay in the Texas relays this spring in the mediocre time of 3:20. Rice Institute actually finished first in the Texas relays, but the team was disqualified when the last runner dropped his baton near the finish line. Rice will compete at Des Moines.

Texas looms as probable winner, barring the California team, since the Longhorns raced to a new meet record at the Kansas relays last Saturday. This mark was 3:16.1 only two-tenths of a second off the present Drake record.

Wolverines Are In.

Other strong teams which have filed entries are: Michigan, Big Ten indoor one mile relay winner, 3:22.6; Iowa, recently timed in 3:21.6 for a new field house record at Iowa City; Notre Dame, Kansas, Drake, second to Michigan at the Butler indoor relays, and Indiana.

Iowa ran second to Texas at the Kansas relays with Grinnell and Kansas in third and fourth positions, respectively.

Last year Indiana won the one mile relay at Pennsylvania's fortieth relay carnival and then captured the Western conference mile relay in 3:15.9, the same time U. C. L. A. established at Drake. This team was broken up by the graduation of Hornbostel and Fuqua. Bicking and Harpold remain and with them Coach E. C. Hayes will pick two newcomers from several excellent prospects.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE: You recently asked what would a guy do when entrusted with a bet which he failed to get down and the horse won. Allow me to report what happened to me in such a case.

At the Kentucky Derby of 1929 a party of us from Decatur attended. Just before the main event a lisping Louisville blonde who had been added to our party asked me to place $2 for her on Clyde Van Dusen. Well, as you will recall, a veritable cloudburst broke and I was unable to make my way to the ticket window.

Of course, Clyde Van Dusen won. I was magnanimous. "It was my fault," says I in a big manner, "here's your winnings" [that was before Radio stock went to nothing].

"O, I wouldn't think of taking your money," replied the lisping blonde, grabbing the $10 bill.

Now the big blow was this. She had told me Clyde paid 4 to 1. I was new to mutuels. I thought that meant 4 to 1 besides the original investment. So I gave her two smackers more than she would have received if I had placed her wager, which really paid $8. So I came back to the cornfields, having learned about horses from her.

John Valentine.

When you pick Joe Louis to beat Primo Carnera in New York in June you underestimate the capabilities of the big Italian. He's a very good fighter and certain to stop Louis rather handily. Baer is his only master among the present crop of heavies.

Believe It Or Not.

I was in California myself for five months last year, although I didn't get into the movies, I saw only one playground. Perhaps that's the reason Californians think baseball is dying, because the younger generation has no place to learn the game. I hardly think baseball will die out in the middle west when every park and school has organized playgrounds, and every prairie and sandlot has a game.

Incidentally, radio broadcasting has won many thousands of new baseball fans, especially among the women.

Elizabeth Faris.

Return.

I've seen
One more April,
Seen tulip leaves unfold,
Heard meadow lark and robin sing
At dawn.

Once more
Elm blossoms wave
And crocus flowers nod
And my heart sings with hope again.
It's spring!

Civic Duty, if Any.

From a sense of civic consciousness we dropped in the other day to pay the second instalment of 1933 taxes, now due, on the little bungalow. The payment was graciously accepted. Then we asked what about the overpayment on 1931 bills which some of us paid without protest to enable the town to get the money promptly, as requested by civic leaders.

O, the enabling legislation for legal refund of such overpayments was still pending at Springfield. "You'll get it sometime," we were told. Yes, but when? Our gentlemen at Springfield must be so busy thinking up new taxes

ITALIANS NAME GOLDEN GLOVERS' FOES TOMORROW

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 23.—Italy's team of eight boxers which will fight the Golden Glove champions of Chicagoland at Chicago Stadium May 22 will be selected Thursday afternoon at the Fascist stadium by the governing committee of the Italian Boxing federation, headed by President Rafael Riccardi, deputy and former secretary for aeronautics.

This announcement was made tonight by Edoardo Mazzia, secretary of the boxing federation, at the conclusion of a week's workouts here in which 14 boxers participated. The team will be named from this squad.

Saruggia Is Heavyweight.

It was indicated the big Lombard heavyweight, Saruggia, who won the Milan tournament, will be selected as the opponent for Lorenzo Pack, Chicago heavyweight champion, or Otis Thomas. Saruggia's manager has been attempting to have the Lombard giant released from the American trip on the grounds that he is going to turn professional immediately, but the boxing federation is insisting that Saruggia preserve his amateur standing until after the Golden Gloves contests.

Saruggia is preferred over Laria because it is believed his power will make him more effective against Pack or Thomas, both terrific punchers. Laria is an excellent boxer, but not much superior to Saruggia in this respect. Saruggia, however, possesses a knockout punch.

Three Others Certain.

Outside of Saruggia there are only three others who can be classed as certainties to be included in Thursday's selections. They are: Gavino Matta, flyweight champion from Sardinia; Roderigo Sergo, bantamweight from Fiume; and Uvaldo Montanari, lightweight champion from Rimini.

UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE GIVEN PITCHER THOMAS

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.] — Alphonse Thomas, former pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, has been given his unconditional release by the Washington Senators. According to Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, every club in the league waived him. Thomas joined the Senators in 1932.

PRINCETON STAR PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN CONTEST

Princeton, N. J., April 23.—(AP)—George Lauritzen, Princeton sophomore star, today pitched a no-hit, no-run game as the Tigers shut out Lehigh university, 9 to 0. Despite six Princeton errors, not a single Lehigh batter got to third base. Lauritzen struck out five men.

Baer Puts On His Act Again for Cleveland

Cleveland, O., April 23.—(AP)—Max Baer, heavyweight champion, grinned and pretended he was in danger several times as he clowned his way through the greater part of a four round exhibition with Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, tonight. In the last round, the champion hit Simms a right to the head that rocked the Cleveland fighter.

Baer smiled frequently as Simms landed solid punches to the head and jaw. The slim crowd booed once when the champion wrestled with Simms.

Paul Pirrone of Cleveland knocked out Benny Levine of Newark, N. J., in 46 seconds of the first round. A short hook to the chin ended the fight.

Billy Treest of Chicago, was knocked out by Henry Palmieri of Cleveland, in the third round.

Hilliard Fann of Cleveland, beat Joe Spiegel of Uniontown, Pa., in six rounds.

156,490 WATCH SEVEN MAJOR LEAGUE OPENERS

Attendance at the eight openings last week was 148,187. Cincinnati opened its home season last Tuesday and was not figured in today's figures.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Joe Medwick, Paul Dean, and other 1934 world series heroes made a success of the Cardinals' home opener today by giving the Chicago Cubs a merry trouncing, 9 to 5. The setback, the second in a week which Paul Dean and the Cards have accorded Larry French and the Cubs, plunged the Chicagoans into the National league cellar, tied with the Phillies and the Braves.

Certain of the Cubs had their moments, even though they caused no one to become hysterical. Of the Chicago total of five runs and seven hits, Frankie Demaree, who replaced the slumping Kiki Cuyler in center field, contributed three runs, two singles, and a ninth inning home run. Gabby Hartnett was the runnerup in the hitting department. He drove in three runs with a single and his No. 3 homer of the year.

Tsk! Tsk! That Medwick!

Medwick, who beat French last Wednesday, 1 to 0, with a homer, held high carnival this afternoon. He drove in the first two runs with a double in the first inning, drove French from the game when he broke a 2 to 2 tie by singling with the bases full in the third, and figured in the Cards' big splurge after landing on a two base error in the fourth. Afield Joe made four one hand circus catches, one of which robbed Klein of what seemed a certain triple and another of which Jurges had labeled a double.

After French had been carried off Pop Joiner came in and finished the job of exploding the theory that the Cards don't fancy lefties. Fabian Kowalik was the third Cub pitcher. Davis, first man to face him with two out in the fourth, singled and there were two harmless singles in the fifth. Only nine batsmen faced Kowalik in the last three innings.

Meet Mr. Medwick.

After the Cubs had been retired in order in the first inning, Medwick resumed his rôle as French's arch enemy by driving in the first two runs of the game. Whitehead walked on five pitches, then Rothrock singled to right, Whitehead taking second on the hit and going to third when Klein fumbled the ball. Martin popped to Herman, but Medwick lined a double to right center, Whitehead and Rothrock scoring. Collins and Davis then flied to Klein.

In the second inning the Cubs had the surprising experience of knocking

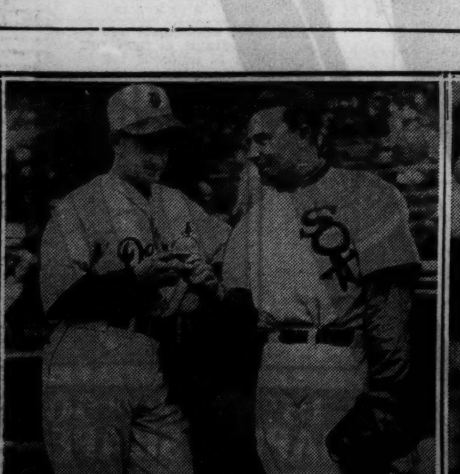
ACES AND QUEENS—ALL IN A DAY IN SPORTS



Managers Mickey Cochrane and Jimmy Dykes exchange challenges before yesterday's opening game at Comiskey park.

Zeke Bonura, White Sox first baseman, who has gained the respect of every pitcher in the league, says he is ready for a big year again.

Al Simmons, one of the greatest outfielders in baseball, and one of half a dozen good reasons why Sox fans expect escape from eighth place, misses a slow ball in the first inning of yesterday's opening game at Comiskey park. He singled on the next pitch.

Joan Ledwell, age 4, of 8942 Blackstone avenue, learns about boxing from Cousin Jimmy Knight, C. Y. O. 70 pound champion.

ROUSTABOUT 1ST BY A LENGTH IN DEBUT FOR 1935

Whitney Horse Shows Speed as 4 Year Old.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 23.—[Special.]—Cornelius V. Whitney's 4 year old colt, Roustabout, in his debut in this class, made a brilliant dash near the end to overtake the field and win the featured Grade B handicap today.

The Whitney colt went ahead in the stretch under splendid riding by Jocky Workman and defeated All Forlorn by a length. Ladfield was third. The victor returned $4.90 to the holders of $2 mutuel tickets, and was clocked at 1:11 3-5 for the six furlongs.

Raymond [Sonny] Workman had three winners to his credit today, widening his margin over Jocky J. Lynch for the leadership among the riders at the current meeting. His winners were Night Sprite in the third event, Roustabout in the next race and Black Falcon in the sixth.

Black Falcon Pays Well.

The victory of Black Falcon yielded the highest mutuel return of the day, the veteran gelding of Mrs. H. D. Cox paying $24.60 for $2. Black Falcon won over Boocap by a length and a quarter with Brains a neck behind the place horse.

J. E. Smallman's Last Time had little difficulty in defeating a field of eight other Maryland-bred 3 year olds in the six furlong opening race. The chestnut daughter of Happy Time was slow at the start but moved ahead steadily after the half-mile mark was passed.

Last Time paid $4.30 for $2, winning by four lengths from Kowtow, which finished in second place, three lengths in front of Boocord.

VICAR WINS

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—The Belair Stud's 4 year old Vicar, making his first start of the year, easily captured the Nassau handicap, grade A at a mile and 70 yards which featured the racing at Jamaica today. This son of Flying Ebony and Valkyr came home five lengths in front of the Brookmeade Stable's Good Goods with Cleaves, coupled as part of an entry with the winner, third in the field of five.

Vicar was not only much the best of his field, but ran the race in the good time of 1:43 and was not extended in the final furlong. The victory met with the general approval of the crowd, which had made the entry favorite at 9 to 5 chiefly, because of Vicar's presence in the race.

A claim of foul was made after the race as the result of a jam that occurred at the first turn, but it was not allowed.

The Merry, a six furlong dash for 3 year old fillies, divided interest with the feature because it brought to the post three eligibles for the Wood Memorial to be run Saturday. This went easily to Morton L. Schwartz's Good Gamble, a daughter of Chance Play. She won by four lengths from the Middleburg Stable's Esposa with the Belair Stud's Vicaress, full sister of Vicar, third.

BADGER CREW IS INVITED TO COAST REGATTA

Madison, Wis., April 23.—[Special.]—Plans were near completion today for the University of Wisconsin crew to participate in a California regatta this spring, Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, athletic director, said.

Official confirmation or cancellation of the regatta is expected late this week by Coach Ralph Hunn. Other schools being contacted for the meet are Washington and California, both annual competitors at Poughkeepsie.

Five other races have been scheduled for this spring. The varsity shell will meet Marietta college, O., here on May 18. The frosh will race St. John's Military academy May 25, and Culver Military academy May 28, both races to be held on Lake Monona. The varsity will enter the Marietta regatta on the Ohio river June 1, and the frosh will row at St. John's on June 8.

Tentative arrangements have been made with Washington's huskies for a race here while they are en route to Poughkeepsie.

ALLISON LEADS FAVORITES INTO THIRD ROUND

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 23.—(AP)—The Mason and Dixon tennis tourney swung through the second round today with Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., and other favorites advancing.

Allison, never extended, eliminated Dick Clementz, Washington and Lee freshman, 6-0, 6-0.

Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., played two matches today, winning both. In the morning he defeated Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-2, and in the afternoon he eliminated J. E. Allen Jr., 6-1, 6-2.

BILLIARD EVENT FOR CHILDREN TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Youth week will be featured by the juniors and seniors of the Boys and Girls' Recreational club Sunday afternoon when they stage their first children's pocket billiard tournament in the playroom of the Stevens hotel.

The young winners will be awarded silver cups by C. S. Peterson, national cue expert. Peterson with Lilly Ruth Hanson, director of the playroom, inaugurated a series of progressive billiard games, the first ever held for children in the history of pocket billiards.

Tanforan Race Track to Close Until Saturday

San Bruno, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—Track conditions today forced officials to call off the Tanforan race meeting until Saturday. John W. Marchbank, owner of the track, made the announcement after several horses stumbled during the first two days of the meet.

KENTUCKY DERBY HOPES

How'm I Going to Pass Up This One?

BY FRENCH LANE

(This is the sixth of a series of articles about the outstanding candidates for the Kentucky Derby.)

I spoke right up to myself this time with a great show of courage.

It surely oughtn't to require a lot of argument to get me to plaster what is left of the Derby bankroll down on Plat Eye.

"Here's one that actually has done things as a 3 year old," I said stoutly, as I endeavored to look as if I were endowed with a particularly large share of wisdom. "Just Saturday he ran with a flock of Derby colts in the Chesapeake stakes. One of them was Commonwealth, the second choice in the Derby betting.

"What did he do but give them all a sound spanking? Hopped right out in front when the barrier went up, gamely withstood a hard drive in the stretch and stayed there until his number dropped into the winner's slot.

Just Like Last Year

"Looks like he's starting out as a 3 year old just as he began his 2 year old campaign a year ago. His early record as a 2 year old was five firsts and a second in his first six starts. His spectacular speed had all the boys and girls along Broadway dizzy. 'What a guy is Plat Eye' they were singing and shouting. One of these victories came in the National Stallion stakes which, in other years, has been won by such great horses as Equipose, Blue Larkspur, Chance Shot, who was the daddy of the Derby favorite Chance Sun, Sweep, Colin, and Sir Martin.

"Among his victims in this string of triumphs were Psychic Bid, St. Bernard, and a lot of others he will meet in the Derby.

"Later on in the season he showed good performances, but wasn't quite-able to beat the leaders in his class. Still, horses that are good in the springtime one year usually are at their best at that same time of year on through their racing careers."

It Was Not And He Did

"Maybe he's just a sprinter," was my next hurdle.

"Sprinter nothing!" I replied to myself. "Was that mile and a sixteenth of the Chesapeake a sprint and did Plat Eye or did he not give Sun Fairplay, Commonwealth, and all his other rivals from 5 to 12 pounds?

"Nobody can tell me that a colt with Plat Eye's blood lines is just a sprinter. His sire, Chicle, comes down through the Hanover, Hamburg line. His dam, Crazy Moon, was a daughter of Broomstick, a grand daughter of Ben Brush, and a great-granddaughter of Bramble.

"Invoice your American thoroughbred blood lines and if you can find a family that has more courage or more staying qualities then I'll give you my watch."

That was the clincher and here I am this morning waiting for the merchant over in the middle of the next block to come down and open up shop. He's going to find business very brisk until I get all my dough down on Plat Eye.

"I might add," said I to myself, "that Plat Eye races for Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's Greentree stable, which doesn't have many bad horses around to eat up the oats and hay that she buys for them."

(The seventh article in this series will appear tomorrow.)

WEST DISTRICT GOLF LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Organization of the West District Golf league was completed last night at the Chicago Athletic association. The member clubs are Hinsdale, Riverside, Oak Park, Glen Oak, Medinah, Westward Ho, Elmhurst, and Brookwood. Fred O. Rippel of Westward Ho was elected chairman, and Larry Rutherford of Medinah, secretary and treasurer.

The team matches will be played under the Nassau system, as in the South District and North Shore leagues. A trophy will be played for and individual prizes given. Opening matches will be played at Westward Ho on May 22. The other dates are June 13 at Oak Park; July 9 at Riverside; July 17 at Hinsdale; July 30 at Brookwood; Aug. 6 at Glen Oak; Aug. 23 at Elmhurst, with a final 36 hole event at Medinah Country club.

Fred Leitzow of Ridgemoor, who helped organize the South and West District league, reported that as several clubs had not been able to get into these leagues another one might be formed.

HORATIUS WAS A SISSY!

Horatius, you'll remember, was the legendary Roman hero who defended the Sublician bridge against the whole Etruscan army. "Step up, boys, and take it on the chins," was good old Horatius' motto, and today in Rome you can find a sturdy group of young men with the same idea.

These young men are the Italian boxing champions who'll invade Chicago to fight the Golden Gloves champions at the Stadium May 22. And they say Horatius was a sissy compared to these modern Roman gladiators.

Ticket orders are now being accepted by mail. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Prices are $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, and $1.10, and every seat is reserved. General admission tickets are also available at 50 cents.

Now Is Time to Get Out and Go Crow Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

If sportsmen who like to shoot a shotgun can get into the country from now on through the month of May they will be able to have much sport hunting crows, because these birds are just beginning to respond to a crow call and decoys.

A crow hunt at this time of the year not only is a sport that challenges the ingenuity of any shooter, but it also is a conservation measure, inasmuch as the excess crow population in Illinois is a serious menace to our song and game birds.

We have been in the woods at least once a week during the past five weeks. On every trip we have taken along our crow call to see if we could get the crows stirred up with it. At the start the birds were not very excited when they heard the old 4-11 alarm call.

Mounted Owl Is Big Help.

Week before last they began to show a little interest in the calls and the sight of a mounted owl. We crawled into a blind on the experimental farm and brought up half a dozen birds by using the caller. But without an owl decoy the crows didn't swing within range to be bothered by their traditional enemy. Using a second blind about three-quarters of a mile away, we did manage to down a couple of crows with some range shots.

With the nesting season at hand the crows now are responding much better to the caller. Last week we set an owl decoy in a small opening in the woods. Then we crawled into a crude blind and began calling, using the wooden caller a great deal. One crow immediately swung over, saw the mounted owl and yelled for help so loudly that before we knew it there were eleven crows milling around over the tree tops.

No Hawks—Better Results.

Just as we were figuring on some real sport, the crows spotted two live hawks about 200 yards from us and then the possibilities for shots were just about nil. The crow population moved over to bully the hawks and make them miserable.

Twenty minutes later we were in another tract of woods with our outfit and no hawks to give us competition. Here we had better luck, because in less than two minutes we had taken the only good shot that was offered and downed a bird. Ten minutes later we dropped another crow.

As we have found in previous years, the best crow hunting starts the latter part of April and continues through May when the birds are nesting. It is then that the birds can be called up most easily.

NORTHWESTERN'S NET TEAM BEATS KALAMAZOO, 4-3

Northwestern university's tennis team turned back Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, 4 matches to 3, in a dual meet held at the University of Chicago varsity courts yesterday. The Kalamazoo team, which defeated Big Ten opponents regularly last year and Monday beat the Maroons in a dual meet, lost yesterday's meet in the final match. A feature of the play was the defeat of George and Russell Ball, Northwestern's star sophomores, by Western State's doubles team, Carl Fischer and Max Gurman, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2. The meet was held at the midway because the Purple courts are being prepared for the national intercollegiate meet.

Harvey: My husband conducts a small animal hospital. The other day a dog was brought in for treatment. When he put the dog on the operating table the mistress offered to stand close to the table to reassure the dog and to help keep it quiet.

Presently the dog flinched and kicked about a bit. "Damit, keep still," said the lady owner. Doctor, who meets all sorts of ladies, worked on without batting an eye. Again the dog moved. "Damit, keep still," again admonished the owner. Something in the tone of her voice impelled the doctor to glance up. "That's the dog's name, Damit," explained the lady.

Vlk Tests His Blows on Phagan for Miller Bout

Eddie Vlk, Cicero welterweight, sparred four rounds with Johnny Phagan yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his ten round fight with Billy Miller of Milwaukee at Cicero stadium Friday. Phagan expects to box Tony Bruno at Midway arena Monday. A change has been made in a four round supporting match at Cicero. GIANTS DEFEAT BRAVES, 6 TO 5, IN 11TH INNING

50,000 New Yorkers See Ruth Go Hitless.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—The New York Giants triumphed over the Boston Braves today, 6 to 5, in 11 innings as Babe Ruth failed to get a hit. The game was attended by more than 50,000.

A single by Mel Ott off Bob Smith scored George Davis with the winning run. Baxter Jordan's homer with Rupert Thompson on base had tied the score in the ninth.

Ruth figured in the scoring column, however, after he was issued a base on balls in the sixth. He came home on Whitney's home run. Ruth played only eight innings grounding out twice to Bill Terry and being thrown out by Mark Koenig in his other trips to the plate.

Dick Bartell and Terry figured in the Giants' 14 hit attack with home runs. Hogan hammered out a homer for the Braves. Score:

Warneke to Face Harrell Today; Seeks 3d Victory

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Lon Warneke will go after his and the Cubs' third victory of the season in the second game of the three game series with the Cardinals tomorrow. He will be opposed by Ray Harrell, who held the Cubs to one run and four hits in the last six innings of the season opener at Wrigley field a week ago.

The Cardinals unfurled the National league pennant with routine ceremonies before the game. There will be more fanfare when the world championship flag is raised a bit later in the season.

The Cubs no longer are an outstanding attraction here. There was a paid attendance of 8,500 at the home opener of the world's champions.

four hits in a row off a Dean. Demaree, Cavarretta, Hartnett, and Jurges made the hits, all of which were singles. This flurry netted two runs and tied the score.

Medwick got his next shot at French in the third. Whitehead opened with a single off Cavarretta's glove. Rothrock bounced the ball to French, who made the mistake of throwing to second after Whitehead had arrived there. Martin beat out a bunt, filling the bases.

He's Black Joe to Larry.

Up came Medwick. This time he singled to left, scoring Whitehead and Rothrock and putting Martin on third. Joe took second on the throw in. French was yanked and Joiner replaced him. Collins flied to Klein, then Davis singled to center, scoring Martin and Medwick. Davis reached second when Demaree juggled the ball. T. Moore and Durocher supplied easy outs.

Demaree opened the fourth with his second single, paused while Cavarretta fouled to Collins, and scored with Hartnett when Gabby knocked that No. 3 homer. Jurges and Joiner were easy.

Dean beat out a slow roller toward third to start the Cards' fourth and moved to third on Whitehead's sacrifice and Rothrock's grounder. Martin drove him home with a single to right. The Cubs seemed to be trembling when Medwick came up. Joe hit a grounder to Herman who fumbled, then picked up the ball and threw it into the dugout, Martin reaching third and Medwick second. Collins singled to center, scoring both runners, and Kowalik replaced Joiner. Davis singled to left, but Kowalik threw out T. Moore.

Demaree Busts One.

In the sixth Dean punished his principal earlier annoyers, Demaree and Hartnett. He fanned them both. The first hit made after the Hartnett homer was the circuit smash with which Demaree led off the ninth.

Radcliff Leads Sox to Victory Over Detroit

two of them survived in three innings. One was Simmons, who singled in the first, after which Bonura flied to right. The other was Radcliff. He singled in the third, also with two out. Hayes concluded the inning with a fly to Goslin.

Simmons' retirement on a fly ball was the first happening in the stormy fourth when five scored. Bonura started the hitting with a single to deep short. Washington fouled to Owen. Appling fouled off $15 worth of balls before singling to right, Bonura taking third. Dykes loafed around the plate until rewarded with a pass which filled the bags.

Radcliff Comes Through.

This was the spot in which Morgan dashed to the rescue of his foes. Sewell lifted a high fly to left, and the Texas league youngster, after doing a momentary juggling act, let the ball fall to the ground. By the time he returned it to the infield Bonura and Appling had scored, Dykes had gone to third and Sewell to second. Jones did his bit by coaxing a walk from Crowder, refilling the bases.

Radcliff's contribution came next. He whacked a single over Gehringer's head to send Dykes and Sewell over the plate and Jones to second. Hayes singled to right, filling the bases. Simmons walked after running up a bill for foul balls hit into the grandstand. The pass forced Jones to score. Then Bonura, whose hit started the rumpus, concluded it with a fly to White.

The Tigers came up with one hit in the fifth, and it was sufficient to produce a run mainly because the Sox paid no attention to the runner. White led off with a double to the foot of the left field line. He went to third while Hayes was throwing out Cochrane and scored while Gehringer was going out the same way. Bonura took a pop foul off Goslin's bat to end the inning.

Held to One Run.

A double play intervened in the sixth to hold the Sox to one run despite three hits, a pass and an error. Jones started it with a single to right. Radcliff singled to center and White threw to third to stop Jones, but the ball went into the Sox dugout. This entitled Jones to go home and Radcliff to third. Sorrell relieved Crowder and Hayes spanked a wicked liner toward right center. Gehringer put on a back handed catch and doubled Radcliff off third. Then Simmons singled and Bonura walked, but Washington popped out.

Jones was subjected to a bit of going over in the seventh, one run resulting. With one out, Clifton batted for Sorrell and singled to right. White flied to Radcliff and Cochrane walked. Gehringer drilled a two bagger into Washington's sector, Clifton scoring and Cochrane halting at third. Relief came on Goslin's grounder to Hayes.

Hatter was given no trouble in the seventh, his first inning of labor, but didn't have the same luck in the eighth. Jones opened with a pass and took third on Radcliff's fourth hit of the afternoon—a single past Greenberg. Jones walked home with the last Sox run on Hayes' fly which Goslin pulled in close to the right field wall. Simmons then walked, but Bonura bounced into a double play.

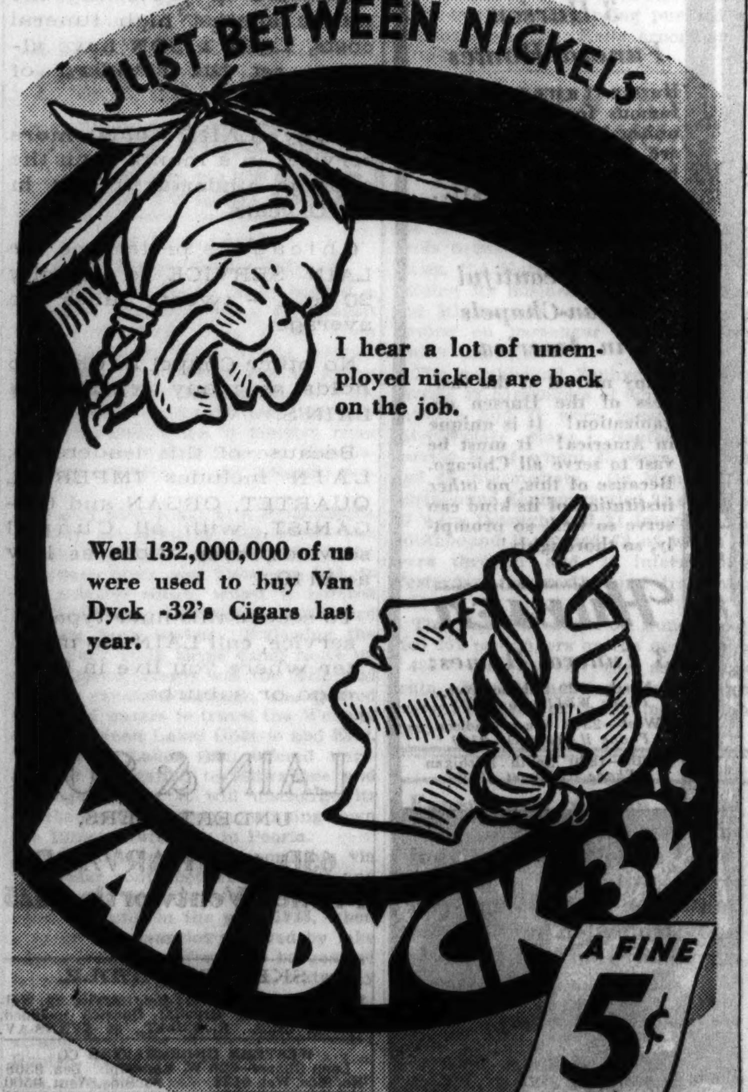
PRODUCT of United States Rubber Company



HOPES TO STOP FIRE HAZARDS OF AIR CRASHES

Scientist Tells of Borax Mixture.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Fire resisting, if not fireproof, airplanes will be the rule instead of the exception through use of a new coating for wings and fuselage, it was predicted today by Dr. Gordon M. Kline of the United States bureau of standards before the paint and varnish division of the American Chemical society. That society is holding its annual convention here with 10,000 scientists in attendance.

Airplane cloth "doped" with a boric acid borax mixture has been found to resist heat to the extent that gasoline poured on it can be burned off without damaging it, Dr. Kline said. While prolonged exposure to heat eventually will ignite the material, sufficient time will elapse to enable persons who might be trapped in planes to escape.

Cites Costly Destruction.

"The destruction of costly aircraft because of the accidental ignition of the flammable covering by the back firing of the motor, the careless toss of a lighted match or cigaret, or the chance settling of a spark from a nearby flue, has become too general an occurrence," Dr. Kline continued.

"It became apparent that the problem of developing a fire resistant doped fabric could not be solved by the addition of nonflammable rosins to the cellulosic dopes, or by the complete substitution of rosins for the cellulose derivatives in the dope. The course of this investigation then was directed toward the production of an airplane fabric doped with cellulose acetate and fireproofed by the addition of fire retarding salts."

Modern "Elixir of Life."

The society's division of organic chemistry was told by Prof. Marston T. Bogert of Columbia university that the secret of eternal youth may be found in a substance known as phenanthrine. It contains not only compounds vital to human life, but deadly poisons as well.

With Eleanor Best Marr, David Davidson, and Torsten Hasselstrom, also of the Columbia faculty, Prof. Bogert outlined the efforts of science to build up powerful bulwarks against disease. "Phenanthrine," Prof. Bogert reported, "contains the sterol group, minute quantities of which are essential for sustaining animal life."

Notre Dame Teacher Honored.

Father Julius A. Nieuwland, professor of organic chemistry at the University of Notre Dame, was the guest of honor at a dinner tonight of the New York section of the society.

The William H. Nichols medal, highest honor of the section, was conferred upon him for preparation of the synthetic compounds, monoacetylene and dyvinylacetylene, "without which synthetic rubber would never have been made."

In connection with the tribute paid Father Nieuwland, Dr. E. R. Bridgwater of the rubber chemicals division of the Du Pont laboratories, reported that limitless quantities of rubber made from coal and oil, is ready for the United States when the need arises.

DOCTOR INVENTS METER TO SHOW LENGTH OF LIFE

Washington, April 23.—[Special.]—An "hour-glass" of life, which literally peers into the eye of a person and tells him how many years of life he still has ahead of him, barring accident or bacterial disease, was reported for the first time here today before the National Academy of Sciences.

The discovery, regarded as highly significant, both in its social and medical implications, made after several years of research at the University of Goettingen, Germany, at the biological laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., and at Columbia university, was described by Dr. Felix Bernstein, formerly of the University of Goettingen and now visiting professor at Columbia.

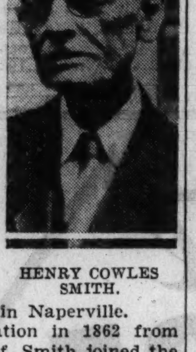
The method and apparatus developed by Dr. Bernstein may be likened to an instrument which combines the functions of a speedometer and a gasoline gauge.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Back to Earth

PROF. H. C. SMITH DIES; 73 YEARS AT NORTH CENTRAL

With College Since Its Foundation.

Henry Cowles Smith, the oldest professor of North Central college, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Travis, in Naperville. Prof. Smith was 96 years old.



HENRY COWLES SMITH.

As professor of music and the classics, he taught continuously at the college from its founding in 1862 until 1922, when he was made emeritus professor of Latin. Since 1870, when the college was moved from Plainfield, Prof. Smith had resided in Naperville.

Upon his graduation in 1862 from Oberlin college, Prof. Smith joined the faculty of the new college, of which his father, the Rev. Augustin A. Smith, was president. His life was closely bound up with the history of the college, and many noted men, such as Dr. James H. Breasted, professor in the oriental institute at the University of Chicago, have studied in his classes.

Hall Named in His Honor.

Recently the Old Chapel of the college was rededicated after being transformed into a little theater, and named Smith hall in honor of the professor. At the time, Dr. R. E. Rall, president of the college, told of the many reasons why this honor had been conferred.

During his years as professor of music, Prof. Smith taught during the week at the organ in the chapel, practised there Saturdays, and played for Sunday services. The funeral of a son, Charles, was held there. A daughter, Mrs. F. F. Hildreth, of Indianapolis, was married there, and Prof. Smith's mother sang there at the age of 70. For 25 years his wife taught a Sunday school class there, too.

Six Descendants Graduates.

During his lifetime of service and devotion to the college, Prof. Smith saw four children and two of his grand children become graduates. Mrs. Travis was a member of the class of 1890, and Mrs. Hildreth of 1888. In 1898 another daughter, Mrs. W. L. Neumann, now of Akron, O., graduated, and a son, Prof. H. A. Smith, graduated in 1896. The latter is now head of the department of sacred music at Boston university.

The graduate grandchildren are Mrs. Gladys Young, now of Peiping, China, in 1919, and Miss Gertrude Hildreth, an author, in 1920.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Evangelical church at Naperville.

M. A. Johnson, 60, Is Dead; Morrisonville Druggist

Taylorville, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—M. A. Johnson, 60, prominent Morrisonville druggist, died this morning at his home there. Death was caused from apoplexy. One son, Donald R. Johnson, resides in Chicago.

Bernard Menke, Veteran Quincy, Ill., Grocer, Dies

Quincy, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—Bernard H. Menke, 85, retail grocer here for 50 years, died today following a stroke of apoplexy. He was born in Germany and came to Quincy 70 years ago.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Northerners, one of Chicago's oldest and best known sponsored programs, is to move to W-G-N from WMAQ next Monday evening. Now in its fifth year, this fine musical hour features the Northerners, a male octet under the direction of Harry S. Walsh; feminine guest soloists; Karl Schulte's String ensemble, and "The Family Banker," who gives advice on household banking problems. The program will be heard over THE TRIBUNE's station every Monday evening from 9:30 to 10 o'clock. Kathryn Witwer, popular young Chicago soprano, will be the guest soloist on the first presentation from W-G-N.

HARRY S. WALSH.

This program has long had an exceptionally enthusiastic following. More than 100,000 persons have seen it presented in the studios. Until W-G-N's new studios are opened, however, there will be no further guest audiences.

Among the guest soloists have been Ruth Lyon, Margery Maxwell, Sara Ann McCabe, Ruth Thompson, Lucille Meusel, Olga Kargau, Helen Hedges, Lucille Long, Irene Pavlowska, Margaret Gent, and Maude Runyan. Mr. Walsh is well known in musical circles as the director of the Hamilton Club Male chorus, a group of 75 professional singers.

Burgess Meredith, who as NBC's "Red Davis" is the hero of a goodly portion of Young America, is the new leading man of Katharine Cornell, regarded by many as the No. 1 actress of the American stage, in the new Van Druten play, "Flowers of the Forest." Meredith lends considerable freshness and sincerity to his part in this somewhat incredible opus, according to the critics. And his press agent is heralding him as "the Hamlet of 1940."

The agency handling those three hour all star broadcasts over CBS last Christmas and New Year's day has reserved the same periods for next year. In fact the time has been set aside since last Jan. 2. . . . The Crusaders will conclude their present series, designed "to wake up America," with an address by Commander Fred G. Clark at 9:30 next Tuesday evening over WBBM-CBS. . . . Helen Dell, sister of the late Dorothy Dell of the movies, is the new songstress with Enric Madriguera's orchestra over WENR-NBS. He discovered her dancing in the Chez Paree chorus.

Vivian Gregory, 14 year old pupil of Hinsdale High school, has won Jan Garber's scholarship in violin with Richard Czerwonky, well known teacher. . . . Paul Whiteman's favorite radio entertainment includes Rudy Valle, Ray Noble, Richard Himber, Al Jolson and Joe Penner. . . . Col. Stoopnagle and Budd have been awarded the Radio Stars magazine medal as the best radio act for 1935. . . . Jack Benny will celebrate his third anniversary on the air on May 5.

PIT IS ENJOINED IN BANKRUPTCY PLEA; TO FIGHT

Rosenbaum Concern Files Under 77-B.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Attorneys for the Chicago Board of Trade are scheduled to go into federal court this morning to ask that an injunction forbidding the board and its clearing house from suspending the trading privileges of the Rosenbaum Grain corporation be vacated. The injunction was issued yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly in connection with the firm's petition seeking reorganization under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act. Judge Holly also appointed Louis T. Sayre, secretary of the company, as temporary trustee.

The Rosenbaum corporation is one of the largest grain elevator operators in the country as well as being one of the leading commission firms on the grain exchange for many years.

Directors Meet Until 1 A. M.

Decision of Board of Trade officials to seek to have the order rescinded followed a five hour special meeting of the directors, which broke up at 1 a. m. today. Directors are to reconvene this morning at 8 o'clock. Their action will depend on the court reception of the plea to vacate the injunction. There was no hint after last night's meeting as to what that action might be.

The Rosenbaum corporation's action marked the first time that a grain firm of such character has sought relief from its debts under the federal bankruptcy act, passed two years ago. Under ordinary bankruptcy proceeding an automatic suspension would follow.

The firm's action had taken the other members of the exchange completely by surprise. Directors of the exchange had held their regular weekly meeting at 2:30 yesterday, after the exchange had closed at 1:15, unaware that attorneys for the grain firm were in federal court. When news of the action became known Robert P. Boylan, president of the exchange, summoned directors for the special meeting last night.

Creditors Study Books.

Banking creditors of the Rosenbaum corporation were going over the books of the concern last night. There appeared to be some chance that the banks might extend the firm financial aid and obviate the necessity of suspension from the exchange. The firm has a large volume of wheat hedged in the futures market against cash grain holdings pledged with the banks as collateral.

It was thought probable last night that the federal court may take action on the exchange petition this morning before opening of the market at 9:30 a. m.

Mr. Boylan stated that a preliminary investigation showed that the Rosenbaum firm was fully margined with the exchange clearing house. The clearing house force remained on duty until midnight, however, checking over the company's accounts. At the Rosenbaum offices a full office force worked until late at night. In view of the federal court's injunction it appeared that the exchange would be powerless to prevent the firm from exercising its trading privileges on the market this morning.

Think Firm Sells Grain.

Selling by the Rosenbaum firm was credited with causing the sharp break in wheat prices yesterday, which resulted in losses of 3 cents a bushel.

In its petition, filed by Attorney Michael Gesas, the firm asserted that it is solvent but unable to meet its maturing debts.. Capitalization of the firm is $5,014,006. The petition listed liabilities of $3,970,000 and assets "of over $6,000,000."

In requesting the court to enjoin the Board of Trade from suspending its membership the firm declared such action might result in a general demoralization of the market and "adversely affect the owners of grain, farmers, producers, shippers, and consumers throughout the world."

Emanuel F. Rosenbaum, president of the company, refused to make any comment on the firm's action. He referred all inquirers to the petition prepared by the company's lawyers. Rosenbaum and Sayre hold two of the firm's eleven memberships on the Board of Trade in their names. Other officials who are members include Richard B. Hilliard, Harry E. Kasdorf, Peter H. King, Morton Mannheimer, Einar Middleton, Edward S. Rosenbaum Sr., Edward S. Rosenbaum Jr., Emannuel F. Rosenbaum Jr., and John V. Wheeler.

List Assets Over Liabilities.

Liabilities of the firm as listed in the petition include $2,300,000 of secured bank notes, $600,000 of unsecured bank notes, $750,000 of unsecured customers' trading accounts, and $320,000 of "other open accounts."

Included in assets are $1,000,000 of accounts receivable, $600,000 due from the Chesapeake Export company, $100,000 in cash, $3,000,000 of grain inventory in warehouses, $3,700,000 representing net value of Chicago Elevator Properties, which includes cash of $25,000 and receivables of $300,000; a net worth of $45,000 in the Turner-Hudnut Grain company, and a net worth of $120,000 in the Chesapeake Export company.

The company has been in business in Chicago since 1901. President Rosenbaum has been a member of the Board of Trade since 1896. During the greater part of its history it has handled between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels of cash grain yearly. During the last year, however, the volume fell to around 15,000,000 bushels. The firm owns or operates elevators in Chicago with a capacity in excess of 15,000,000 bushels, the greatest storage space controled by one firm.

Among its Chicago elevators are Irondale, Northwestern, A and B elevators. The Northwestern in South Chicago is one of the largest elevators in the world, with a capacity of 10,000,000 bushels.

Subsidiaries include Turner-Hudnut Grain company, Kansas City; Chicago Elevator Properties, Chesapeake Export company, Newport News, Va. The company said that the above concerns were not affected by yesterday's court action. The company as well maintains 21 branch offices in various sections of the country. The main office is at 332 South La Salle street.

In 1931 the company effected its capital structure. Under the reorganized set-up the company has 70,000 shares of preferred stock, 50,000 shares of class A stock and 175,000 class B stock. The earlier capitalization consisted of $3,505,000 of preferred stock and 25,000 shares of common.

Sayre's bond as trustee was fixed by Judge Holly at $100,000. He appeared late in the day and had his bond approved. Judge Holly indicated that he would name a co-trustee to serve with Sayre in a few days.

FAMOUS DEALS DOT HISTORY OF ROSENBAUM CO.

EMANUEL F. ROSENBAUM.

Action of the Rosenbaum Grain company yesterday in seeking relief from its debts under the amended bankruptcy act recalls many famous deals in which the concern has participated during its long history in the Chicago grain trade. Although the present firm was organized in 1933, the history of the predecessor company goes back to the civil war days. The original concern the J. Rosenbaum Grain company, was organized in 1861.

One of the most interesting phases of the company concerns its relations with three defunct organizations, the old Armour Grain company, the Grain Marketing association and the brokerage firm of Dean, Onativia & Co. The collapse of the latter concern in 1925 was one of the most spectacular failures of the decade. It was followed later by dissolution of the Grain Marketing association and failure of the Armour concern.

Deal in Stocks Recalled.

Emanuel F. Rosenbaum, head of the Rosenbaum corporation, was a member of the firm of Dean, Onativia & Co., and one of the organizers of the Grain Marketing association. The immediate cause of the failure of the brokerage firm was the depreciation in value of 45,000 shares of Rosenbaum Grain corporation preferred stock which the firm had up as collateral for bank loans.

The brokerage firm had acquired the stock in attempting to aid the Rosenbaum interests in floating a new stock issue. The acquisitions were made in supporting the market. The firm had expected that the Rosenbaum firm would later buy back this stock. When the banks discovered the state of the company's affairs and the inability of the Rosenbaums to make good the impaired capital of the brokerage house the failure followed.

Propose Big Co-operative.

Along with the Armour Grain company interests the Rosenbaums were leaders in the organization of the Grain Marketing association in 1924. The association purported to be a giant coöperative. Stock in the association, a $26,000,000 promotion, was to be sold to farmers throughout the country.

The association had a relatively brief and chequered history. The Armour and the Rosenbaum interests fell out. The Armour interests were charged with fraudulently putting several million bushels of damaged grain into the merger. Protracted arbitration ensued with the result that in 1927 Armour was ordered to pay $3,000,000 in damages to the marketing association.

The Rosenbaum corporation emerged in 1927 with control of the Armour grain properties and practically all the facilities of the marketing association.

Controls Chicago Elevators.

This gave the Rosenbaum company a preëminent position among Chicago elevator companies with control of approximately half of the storage space in Chicago. It was not long, however, before the firm underwent another adjustment. In 1931 the stockholders were asked to surrender their old 8 per cent preferred stock in exchange for new $3 cumulative preferred and common stock. The common stockholders got new common. The last published financial statement of the company listed its funded debt at $1,261,812. The worth of the company's lands and buildings was listed on the books at $4,968,000.

In the last three years the company has been hard hit by the successive short crops of wheat. The huge Northwestern elevator in South Chicago, which the firm has under lease, proved to be something of a white elephant.

REPORT 2% RISE IN FOOD PRICES IN TWO WEEKS

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—A 2 per cent jump in retail food prices during the two weeks ended April 9 was reported today by the labor department.

An increase of 6.8 per cent in fruit and vegetable prices accounted for a good share of this rise. Meats advanced 1.3 per cent; dairy products, 3.0; eggs, 3.6; miscellaneous foods, 0.4, while cereals remained the same.

The same amount of food which cost $1.07 a year ago cost $1.24 the first week of this month. That same amount, however, cost $2.03 in 1920. The low point was two years ago when that same amount of food cost only 90 cents.

Moffett Discusses Quitting FHA Post with President

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—James A. Moffett talked over with President Roosevelt at a luncheon conference today his proposal to resign as Federal Housing administrator, but left that meeting without the resignation being definitly accepted. Moffett was understood to have proposed the assistant administrator, Stuart McDonald, be named his successor.

WHEAT BREAKS BELOW DOLLAR; WEST GETS RAIN

Losses of 2⅞ to 3¼ Cents Incurred.

The dollar a bushel wheat values that have prevailed in the Chicago market for ten days were rubbed out yesterday under a wave of selling that brought the most severe reaction in recent weeks. Closing prices in wheat represented losses of 2⅞ to 3¼ cents a bushel for the day, with the July contract, the principal new crop future, breaking to 98 cents.

News of scattered showers that cleared some sections of the southwest of dust and the forecast of more rains started the market down. As prices fell speculators who had profits to protect rushed to get out of the market. There proved to be little resistance to the decline and it was not until wheat dropped 3 cents and trading ended that the downturn was halted.

Weather Is Dominant Factor.

The reaction to a favorable turn in weather conditions was as decided as was the upturn on unfavorable news a few days ago. The sensational rise in silver prices in Montreal and London, which sent stock prices up in New York, did not carry much weight here, although normally the market is unusually susceptible to inflationary developments.

The Rosenbaum Grain corporation, which filed a bankruptcy petition after the close, was reported to have been a heavy seller of wheat during the day. News of this firm's impending bankruptcy action, however, was not believed to be a factor in the day's market.

The names of Jesse Livermore and Thomas Howell are again the subject of excited gossip around the Board of Trade. Rumor connects both men with the sharp upturn in wheat prices that took place over the last ten days.

Names Bob Up Again.

When the market fell sharply yesterday their names again bobbed up, this time as sellers. Both men are secretive about their market operations. The rumors about them are guesses at best in most instances.

Livermore has an application pending for reinstatement as a member of the grain exchange. There is nothing to prevent him from trading through other brokers.

A message from Springfield, Ill., yesterday said truckers are again scouring that territory for corn and paying 3 to 5 cents a bushel over the prevailing market price when they can find supplies.

Corn and other grains shared the weakness of the wheat market, but not to the same extent. The action of the May corn future was regarded as significant because of fears that a squeeze might develop when delivery time arrives on May 1. Yesterday this future declined 2⅝ cents a bushel and its loss exceeded that of any other future.

"Squeeze" Fears Abate.

The speculative interest in May corn is apparently being liquidated and the prospect of a serious market situation developing appears more remote than it did a few days ago.

Rye and oats futures followed wheat and finished with losses ranging from ¾ to 2 cents a bushel.

Closing prices on July futures, with comparative quotations, were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	$0.98	$1.01¼	$0.99½
Corn	.82⅝	.84⅝	.82⅞
Oats	.42	.43⅜	.43
Rye	.60⅝	.62⅝	.61⅝

Trading was resumed yesterday in the Liverpool market after a four day Easter suspension. Prices showed virtually no change, although in Winnipeg a break of approximately a cent a bushel occurred in wheat.

PEORIA DISTILLERY SHIPPING WHISKY BY WATER TO EAST COAST

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Trafic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

Distillers at Peoria have booked a thousand tons of whisky for transit on the Motorship I. L. I. 101, from Peoria to New York, it was learned yesterday. The vessel, due to arrive at Chicago from the east on April 29, will demonstrate for the first time how water transportation is possible from the very heart of Illinois, to the consuming territory of the Atlantic seaboard.

Loaded with sugar at a Philadelphia refinery on April 20, the vessel has already navigated the waters of the Delaware river and Delaware bay to the Atlantic ocean, which it entered at Cape May, proceeding northward to New York harbor. Following the New York state barge canal route up the Hudson, thence via the Erie and Oswego canals to Oswego, she entered Canadian waters to travel the Welland canal between Lakes Ontario and Erie. The Great Lakes then offered unrestricted navigation to Milwaukee and Chicago, where it will discharge its westbound load before continuing down the Illinois waterway to Peoria.

The feasibility of transportation via the water route between Chicago and Peoria was demonstrated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in the year 1933, when a cargo of newsprint received by lake steamer was transferred to barges and forwarded via the Illinois waterway to the Peoria Star.

The sugar and whisky shipments, arranged by the A. C. Schier Water Routes, Inc., is viewed as an indication of a busy season on the waterway for independent lines.

APPROVAL OF ECCLES AS RESERVE CHIEFTAIN IS EXPECTED TODAY

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Approval of the appointment of Marriner S. Eccles as governor of the federal reserve board was recommended to the senate today by its banking and currency committee without a dissenting vote. Senator Glass [Dem., Va.], who had held up the confirmation thus far, was not present.

Chairman Fletcher predicted the senate would approve the confirmation, probably tomorrow, without any considerable opposition. Eccles took the oath of office Nov. 16, following his appointment Nov. 10. The omnibus banking bill, of which he is the principal author, is pending before both branches. It was favorably reported in practically its original form by the house banking committee and is under consideration by the Glass subcommittee in the senate.

The sub committee was to have heard J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, today, but no quorum appeared and the hearing was put off until tomorrow. James P. Warburg, New York banker and son of a former reserve board member, will be heard on the measure.

Republican opposition to the bill in the house will be concentrated on Title II, to broaden the powers of the federal reserve board over open market operations, discount rates and reserve requirements. Senator Glass has predicted that his subcommittee will strike out Title II before it completes consideration of the bill, but Senator Fletcher is confident that the full committee will restore it, and that the bill will pass the senate as originally drawn.

PHILIP R. CLARKE MADE DIRECTOR OF FAIR STORE

Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, was elected a director of The Fair store yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders.

C. Y. Freeman, secretary of the company, also was added to the board. They will fill vacancies caused by the resignations of P. B. Skinner and W. David Owen.

Several changes also were made among officers at the directors' meeting. F. A. Smith was added as assistant secretary. A. C. Gay, who formerly had that position, takes the new post of assistant treasurer. J. E. Kozoyed, formerly treasurer and assistant secretary, dropped the latter title.

Continuing as directors are Chairman S. S. Kresge, D. F. Kelly, president and general manager; J. Espovich and C. S. Maginnis, vice presidents, and A. Schindel.

The meeting was described by Kelly as a quiet but enthusiastic one in which the 50 stockholders present and those represented by proxy gave full indorsement to the policies being pursued by the management. Kelly acocmpanied Kresge on the store tours.

FULL ZEPHYRS FAIL TO HURT STEAM TRAVEL

Although the new twin Zephyrs of the Burlington are carrying capacity loads between Chicago and the Twin Cities, the North Western's "400" is holding its business between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, early figures on passenger travel on the trains indicate.

The northbound Zephyr on Sunday carried 89 passengers of whom 58 were through and 31 were passengers for intermediate stops. Southbound it carried 87 of whom 45 were through and 42 intermediate. On Monday the northbound Zephyr carried 91 of whom 60 were through and 31 intermediate. Southbound it carried 72 of whom 45 were through and 27 intermediate. Yesterday the northbound train was sold out.

The North Western on Sunday carried 251 passengers on the northbound "400" and 247 on the southbound train. More than 200 passengers were carried on each of the trains on Monday.

Solons Heed Voters' Frown on Utility Bill

Growing opposition from the voters "back home" to legislation which would put a halter on the utility companies is causing many members of congress to adopt a more friendly attitude toward the utilities and may help defeat some of the New Deal plans, according to Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc.

Dr. Magill said, based on his investigations, he feels that reports from Washington that 14 members of the interstate commerce committee are against the bill to abolish utility holding companies, with 11 favoring it, are conservative. He asserted the number opposing the bill is slightly higher.

"There is a strong feeling in congress against the Rayburn-Wheeler bill abolishing holding companies," Dr. Magill said, "and this feeling is growing.

Get Flood of Protests.

"This situation is due particularly to the hundreds of thousands of letters that have been sent to the members of congress. There is no member who has not received hundreds of letters. What is most important is the fact that these are not casual letters but are expressions written, most frequently in long hand, by people who have a real personal interest in the matter. These people have investments in utilities which would be adversely affected by the passage of the bill, so have their friends, and they are expressing themselves in no uncertain terms.

"Congressmen are receiving letters from educational, philanthropic and church organizations. These groups are frightened over what might happen to the investments which furnish them a large measure of their support. Among the recent educational institutions to become interested in our fight to protect the investors in utilities is the board of trustees of the University of Illinois."

Dr. Magill said that the next question is to what extent the President will exert his power to get congress to pass utility control legislation.

Bill Assailed, Defended.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Electric power officials today branded the Rayburn-Wheeler bill, abolishing holding companies, a "sentence of death," but in turn heard a charge that the industry's "frauds on the public" had brought the bill into existence.

T. Justin Moore, vice president of the Virginia Light and Power company, and Louis H. Egan, president of the Union Electric Light and Power company of St. Louis, defended holding companies as essential to provide capital and good management for operating power and gas companies affected by the legislation. They appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee.

J. R. THOMPSON CO. HAS SMALLER LOSS THIS YEAR

The John R. Thompson company, national restaurant system, yesterday reported a net loss of $45,215 for the first quarter of this year, compared with a loss of $114,240 in the first three months of 1934. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share, payable May 15 to stock of record May 6.

Gross sales for the first quarter totaled $2,753,698, against $2,627,216 in the corresponding period of last year. Net loss for the quarter was after depreciation amounting to $144,180, compared with a provision for depreciation of $126,560 in the 1934 period.

GENE AND CHARLIE TALK A MINUTE AND MERGER DEAL RESULTS

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 23.—(AP)—Just a few minutes' conversation between two steel magnates—"Gene" and "Charlie"—was required in 1931 to smooth out a bad tangle that threatened to disrupt the $21,000,000 Bethlehem Steel-McClintic Marshall merger. Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem's president, made this disclosure today in testimony before the tax appeals board hearing Andrew W. Mellon's income tax case.

The transaction—first suggested at a watermelon party in 1930—nearly fell through, Grace related, and he called Charles D. Marshall of the McClintic-Marshall to New York to talk matters over. Grace continued:

"I said, 'Charlie, our people are afraid there might be some hidden liabilities in your concern. We couldn't be called upon to take this on a "pig in a poke" basis you know.'

"And he said, 'Gene, there isn't any such thing in it.'

"I said, 'Well, Charlie, if you'll give me your word, I'll give our people the word to go ahead.'"

The transaction finally was agreed upon Jan. 22, 1931, and consummated Feb. 20. Cross-examining Grace, Frank J. Hogan, Mellon's attorney, stressed in turn his point that the understanding was only "general." Grace said even his approval had to be passed upon by Bethlehem's board. This was done on Jan. 27, 1931, he added.

Grace came from New York as a government witness in its $3,089,000 income tax case against Mellon, who owned a 30 per cent interest in McClintic-Marshall. Approximately $1,800,000 of its additional tax bill for 1931 against Mellon hinges on the McClintic-Marshall transaction.

CHINESE MONEYS SOAR AS SILVER PRICES ADVANCE

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Soaring quotations in Chinese silver currencies along with the rise in commercial silver prices featured trading in the foreign exchange markets today as other leading currencies showed irregular movements. Hongkong dollars gained 1½ cents to close at 54¼ cents and Shanghai dollars rose 67 points to 40.37 cents.

The pound sterling was off ¼ cent at $4.84¾, carrying Scandanavian currencies down 2 points with it. In the gold bloc the trend was mixed, with the French franc ⅛ point higher at 6.59⅛ cents, again above the gold import point of 6.59, and the Dutch guilder up 7 points at 67.55 cents, while Swiss francs were off 1 point at 32.34 cents. Belgas were unchanged at 16.93 cents.

At the closing price of the French franc the dollar was worth $1.0064 against francs, compared with $1.0066 yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was valued at 59.44 cents, against 59.45 yesterday.

The price of bar gold in London declined a penny to 143 shillings 143 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.81. At this level an amount valued at $1,905,067 was purchased in the open market.

The federal reserve bank announced the arrival today of $15,401,500 of gold, all of which came from Holland. There were no exports and net change in the gold stock under earmark here for foreign account.

New Bill Taps Bank Funds for U. S. Spending

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Bankers opposing the enactment of Title II. of the administration's proposed banking bill are fighting a lost cause. It was lost when congress voted recently to spend nearly five billions on make work schemes, thereby making certain that the government will run even more deeply into the red with the attendant necessity for borrowing.

The chief purpose of Title II. is to give the political party in power, through the federal reserve board, the power to force the banks to lend as much money to the political spenders as they require. It applies especially to the federal reserve banks because the capacity of these institutions to lend to the government is limited only by the speed of the printing presses.

Behind a lot of high sounding phrases such as "open market operation," which are just so much mah jongg to the ordinary citizen, Title II. arranges that the banks shall continue to deal out money in loans to the government to finance its extravagances in order to postpone the day of reckoning when taxes must be levied to cover these vast expenditures. In order to assure obedience the politically appointed federal reserve board is to be given the power to hire and fire heads of reserve banks.

Leading bankers throughout the country are naturally against this scheme to loot the banking system of the nation to finance the pork barrel. To date, however, their opposition has been pretty much under cover. Most of them have sold stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation or are in danger of being cracked down upon by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, the controler of the currency, the NRA, or some other government agency.

The American Bankers association has protested feebly, offering suggested amendments which, even if accepted, probably wouldn't prevent the contemplated raid on bank funds.

The trouble is that Title II. merely casts the mantle of legitimacy over a situation that already exists. The diversion of bank funds to channels of political spending began when the federal budget got out of balance. That it would continue was assured when congress voted the other day to spend five billions that it didn't have and that it knew—and the bankers knew—it would either have to borrow from the banks—or print.

The government is already so deep in the banks that the bankers don't dare not go along. A report released yesterday in Washington disclosed that more than one-third of all loans and investments of the banks belonging to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation—and this covers all the big banks and most of the little ones—was absorbed by loans to the federal government. In the big cities the average is higher.

The banks hold so many government bonds that they dare not stop buying new issues as fast as they are offered, because collapse of the market for government bonds would impair their capital. And if the commercial banks should find it impossible to hold up the market the federal reserve banks would have to come to their rescue.

The situation is in many ways similar to that in 1929, when nearly 40 per cent of the banks' credit was absorbed by stock market loans.

No Eccles is needed to regiment the banks in support of the government bond market and no Title II. is necessary to add the force of law to a situation in which the banks cannot do otherwise than keep on buying government bonds.

The chief hope of the bankers in opposing Title II. is that in some way, not now apparent, the situation will clear up and the drain on banks' funds by the government will let up. In that event, if the credit and monetary system has not been altered by such legislation as proposed in the current banking bill, they feel that the credit structure may be gradually brought back into balance.

4 INDEPENDENTS FILE FOR BOARD OF N. Y. EXCHANGE

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—Contesting for places on the governing committee against the regular nominees announced two weeks ago, four members of the stock exchange were disclosed today as independent candidates for election.

Two of these, Robert W. Keelips and Bertrand L. Taylor Jr., are members of the governing committee who were not tendered reëlection. The others are W. Allston Flagg and John F. Murray. Their names were posted on the floor of the exchange today as the result of submission of petitions to the secretary of the exchange, with signatures of at least forty members. No additional candidates for positions as president, treasurer, governing member, or trustee of the gratuity fund were named. Election will be held May 13.

SILVER CLIMBS; U. S. IS EXPECTED TO BOOST PRICE

Market Value Close to Federal 'Peg.'

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Bar silver in the world market sold for 69.875 cents an ounce today, an increase of 2.25 cents, which brought the quotation within 1.235 cents of the pegged treasury figure of 71.11 cents for newly mined domestic metal.

The latest development, anticipated in Wall street, aroused interest in the next treasury move expected to boost the domestic price again out of reach of the world price.

Until recently the treasury paid 64.64 cents an ounce for silver mined in the United States, but when the world price came within a fraction of the treasury price the treasury offered 71.11 cents to American producers. The world price started an immediate rise, which was checked last week after reaching 68.5 cents.

Price Highest In 10 Years.

The jump today was one of the largest in recent months, exceeded only by the 2.75 cent increase April 12, the day after the latest treasury price was announced.

Today's price was the highest in 10 years, and compared with 55 cents at the beginning of the year, and a depression low of 24¼ cents established in 1932.

The rise in New York today was preceded by a sharp advance in London on the resumption of dealings there after the Easter holidays. On the basis of the early rate, or sterling exchange, the London price was equivalent to 70.75 cents, or somewhat above the price fixed later in New York. Silver futures in Montreal ran up sharply, but had reacted somewhat before the New York price was fixed.

Expect U. S. to Raise Price.

The treasury's latest advance in its price to American mines came after the world price had risen close to it, and silver circles expect the treasury will continue to keep that price somewhat above the world price. It was recalled in Wall street silver circles that Senator Pittman of Nevada, one of the leaders in developing the administration's silver program, predicted the world price would be lifted in orderly fashion to $1.29 an ounce, the old statutory coinage price in the United States.

While it took the world price a long time to get up to the 64.64 cent level, the situation in world markets recently became "tight," that is, floating supplies have been largely absorbed by the treasury buying program, so that the price has gone up easily of late. The treasury was mandated to purchase silver here and abroad until monetary metal stocks reached a ratio of 25 per cent silver and 75 per cent gold in the treasury.

Expect Boost at Capital.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Expectation of a quick boost in the treasury's silver price today was added to swirls of speculation over the Roosevelt monetary system.

Silver talk had its genesis in mounting world quotations for the white metal as they edged ever closer to the government's standing offer for newly mined domestic silver. One treasury official said it was a logical deduction from past actions that the price would be boosted shortly, but all Secretary Morgenthau would say was "don't bet any money on what we do." But silver state senators said they had assurances that as the world price rose the government figure would be increased, attracting the former ever higher until a satisfactory level is reached.

Silver Senators Gloat.

Senators from silver producing states were jubilant over the rising price for that metal. Adams of Colorado predicted dollar silver soon because "the demand is in excess of the floating supply." Wheeler of Montana, for the same reason, thought the rise would not stop short of $1.29, the figure which the statute books say is coinage value of the metal.

Behind the situation lay a series of developments stretching over more than a year of monetary history. Early in 1934 the treasury offered the silver miners 64.5 cents an ounce for their product. Market quotations were then about 35 cents.

Upon the authorization of congress the treasury undertook to buy more than a billion ounces both at home and abroad with the objective of increasing its silver holdings to one-third of its monetary gold reserves. In addition it took title to all privately owned monetary silver in the country.

As the result of persistent buying abroad the world price slowly climbed.

Mining, Sugar and Utility Groups Advance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 23.—Strength in mining, sugar and utility shares featured a spotty market on the stock exchange today. Business was conducted at a rather lively clip with turnover amounting to around 1,226,080 shares, considerably more than double the average session up to a week ago.

Silver issues made the best group showing, propelled forward by a jump in the metal price at London and Montreal and some fresh ruminations on the outlook for inflation of one sort or another. Cerro de Pasco reached the best price in five years on a 2½-point rise and American Smelting achieved a new top for the year on a gain of almost as much.

U. S. Smelting Rise $3.

U. S. Smelting was marked up nearly $3 a share on a good run of buying orders and lesser issues of the division rose with the leaders. In the afternoon the gold miners came forward aided by a $2 extra dividend declared by Dome Mines.

Sugars were encouraged by the rising trend in retail levels and the inflationary trend in the price of foodstuffs generally. South Porto Rico rose to a new top and gains of 1 to 2 points or better were made by the common and preferred issues of Great Western, American, and Cuban American.

Automobile and accessory stocks were adversely affected by labor troubles in the industry. Some fast movers of the accessory group such as Houdaille-Hershey, which has been conspiculous recently, suffered somewhat from profit-taking. Both A and B shares of the corporation dropped $1 or more a share today. Murray corporation receded fractionally. Chrysler and General Motors encountered considerable selling at intervals.

Utilities Find More Favor.

The growing patronage of the utility stocks is being influenced by a growing conviction that the utility bill will be modified finally to eliminate the "death penalty" for holding companies. Some corporations of this field are also showing better earnings than they did and this is making the late "orphans" of the list look better to the trading fraternity.

Public Service, American Water Works, North American and Brooklyn Union Gas—which rose 2 points—got the major play in this particular corner of the market today.

Some of the rails were bid up rather impressively, due in part to a belief that the Supreme court will hand down its long awaited pension act decision next Monday and that the ruling will be favorable to the carriers.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—A livelier market for all types of domestic bonds developed today, with the increased interest mainly on the buying side. The turnover aggregated $14,205,000, par value, compared with $11,454,000 on Monday.

A vigorous buying movement in government bonds sent the prices of nine of these issues to record high levels on gains ranging from 1-32d to 14-32ds point. Record highs since issuance were scored by the three issues on 3⅜s, the 3¼s, due 1946; the 3¼s, due 1941; the 3¼s, due 1945; the 3⅛s, due 1949; the 3s, and the Home Owners' Loan corporation 2½s, due 1949. In addition, the 3⅛s, due 1952, duplicated their previous high.

Utility Issues Advance.

Public utility bonds responded to a hopeful interpretation the market placed on something Senator Wheeler said today about the companies making constructive suggestions for substitute legislation. Columbia Gas 5s were again favorites, advancing 1½ points, and Montana Power refunding 5s were a point better. Others improving included obligations of Denver Gas and Electric, Laclede Gas, Metropolitan Edison, North American Edison, and American Water Works.

There was a strong market also for low priced rails. Among rails getting a point or so higher were New York Central refunding 5s, Pere Marquette 5s, New Haven collateral 6s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and Great Northern general 7s.

High Grade Bonds Firmer.

Gilt edged corporate bonds of the noncallable type were fractionally higher on small dealings, but redeemable issues were still restrained by the possibility of refunding operations affecting them.

The foreign department was a trifle irregular. Some of the German private loans advanced while the government obligations sagged.

Illinois Northern Utilities.

Investors' Guide: I have 18 shares of Illinois Northern Utilities junior preferred and have been very much pleased with it, as it has never cut or passed a dividend in the 13 years I have had it. But now the President is carrying on a fight to make trouble for the utilities in general. I do not understand it as I should. Is this company a holding company? Is there danger of its being done away with? I have lost all securities I had except this one and am very anxious. I am over 83 and have no one to advise with on whom I can depend.—Mrs. M. T. L.

Answer: Since Illinois Northern Utilities company is primarily an operating company it apparently has little to fear from the Rayburn-Wheeler bill designed to eliminate holding companies. It is a subsidiary of Commonwealth Edison company, furnishing utility service to 121 communities in the northwest section of Illinois. It reaches a population of about 175,000.

Kilowatt hour sales of electricity in 1934 increased 7.6 per cent over 1933 and dollar volume of sales increased slightly. Increased labor and material costs plus higher taxes, however, cut net earnings below the 1933 level.

Operating revenues in 1934 totaled $3,053,000, against $3,020,000 in 1933. Net income in 1934 was $559,000, which was 5.08 times junior preferred dividend requirements, against net of $591,000, which was 5.67 times such requirements, for 1933. Net income in 1932 was $841,000, against $1,255,000 for 1931.

Current position at the close of 1934 was satisfactory, with current assets more than twice current liabilities. Funded debt, due 1957, was $9,704,000. There are outstanding 46,830 shares of $100 par 6 per cent preferred and 7,817 shares of $7 dividend junior preferred. The junior preferred has second preference as to assets and dividends. Dividends have been paid regularly on both classes of stock.

The preferred is rather high grade. The junior preferred is medium grade.

Chicago Union Terminal.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a rating on the new 4 per cent bonds, series of 1963, just issued by Chicago Union Terminal?—N. A. G.

Answer: This issue of bonds is guaranteed unconditionally as to principal and interest jointly and severally by Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, and Pennsylvania Railroad companies. In addition they constitute a first mortgage, together with other bonds of the same series, on valuable, modern terminal facilities in Chicago.

They are sound. The bonds are callable after July 1, 1940, at 105.

BOND DEALERS SPLIT OVER CODE TRANSFER TO SEC

Investment Bankers Assn. Factions Tell Views.

Sharp differences of opinion between dealers in municipal and corporate bonds which threatened a split in the Investment Bankers' association were disclosed yesterday as a result of a series of meetings now being held at the Morrison hotel by municipal bond dealers of Chicago and other cities.

It was explained that there is a growing agitation among the general membership of the Investment Bankers' association for transfer of the present code authority, which is largely administered by members of the association, to the Securities and Exchange commission. Municipal dealers are opposed to this, desiring to maintain independent control under the NRA through a code authority of their own choosing.

Municipal Dealers Rebel.

The municipal dealers assert their business is entirely different from that of the general corporate investment business and consequently they should not be forced to submit to provisions applying to the latter. They explain that the corporate bond dealers have dominated the code authority and any suggestions the municipal dealers make are usually voted down.

"We want the municipal bond business exempted from enforcement of the fair trade practice code by the SEC," one municipal dealer asserted. "While the present membership may be fair and understanding of our especial problems, we do not know what the future will bring and we do not want to take a chance. We want our own people to administer our affairs."

Banks Oppose SEC Control.

Bank support of the position held by many of the municipal dealers is drawn into the picture due to the fact that the banking act permits banks to deal in municipal obligations. The banks assert that handing over the code authority to the SEC would mean another group of New Deal alphabetical examiners prying into their affairs. They already have examinations by national and state examiners, clearing house associations, reserve boards, NRA, FDIC, etc.

One municipal dealer cited an example of the complaints of his group. He said there has been discussion of a proposal to limit profits to one-fourth of 1 per cent.

"This might be all right in the large cities where blocks of bonds involving millions are sold," he said, "but in the small towns where a dealer has to scratch to dispose of a few thousand dollars of bonds it would be disastrous."

PLANT EXPANSION OF SHEET & TUBE NEARLY FINISHED

Youngstown, O., April 23.—(AP)—Officials of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company reported to stockholders today the near completion of an extensive program of depression-born plant expansion. With a recently finished continuous hot strip mill, capable of producing 600,000 tons of steel a year, already in operation, President Frank Purnell said the company expects to have another new sheet mill, the widest ever built, ready for operation by June. The newest mill will manufacture cold rolled sheet up to 90 inches wide. The present maximum is 72 inches.

Both plants were authorized by Sheet and Tube's director, Purnell said, about two years ago when the nation was still in the depths of business depression.

Two directors of the company, S. Livingston Mather, and George T. Bishop, both of Cleveland, gave up their posts at today's meeting in response to a department of justice suit on file in Cleveland. This suit objected to the fact that they also hold similar offices in other steel companies, on the grounds that this constituted an interlocking of directorates. Stockholders Walter E. Meub and J. C. Argetsinger succeed them. Meub also is vice president in charge of sales, and Argetsinger is general counsel.

Republic Steel corporation reported today that in the first quarter it had a net profit after all charges of $1,834,235, against a net loss in the same period last year of $58,682.

EGGS SOAR TO HIGHEST LEVELS OF SEASON; END SESSION AT TOP

New high levels for the season for egg futures were established yesterday, with volume of trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange the heaviest so far this year. October eggs advanced ⅜ cent per dozen to 25⅝ cents, and closed at the top, while April gained ½ cent and closed at 24¾ cents.

Buying of eggs was based on a flood of bullish statistical news. The weekly report from 35 markets showed 281,000 fewer cases of eggs put in cold storage than last year, while so far this month the inward movement has been 600,000 cases below that of a year ago. Firmness in the cash market, despite the ending of the Lenten season, has attracted much attention.

While spot butter markets were easier futures received fair support and closed ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent per pound higher, the former on November.

Potato futures were unchanged to 2 cents per 100 pounds higher. Sales of egg futures aggregated 319 cars, butter 32 cars, and potatoes 11 cars. Prices follow:

FEDERAL BONDS LARGE FACTOR IN LOANS AND ASSETS OF FDIC BANKS

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Figures that showed government securities absorbing one-quarter of all assets and more than one-third of all loans and investments of federally insured banks today were made public by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. It listed the condition as of Dec. 31 of 14,137 institutions, whose total assets of $46,439,270,000 represented an increase in a six month period of $3,003,482,000.

The corporation's figures were disclosed as President Roosevelt named Phillips Lee Goldsborough, former senator and governor of Maryland, as the Republican member of the FDIC's board of directors. The senate immediately confirmed the appointment. Goldsborough succeeds E. G. Bennett of Utah, who resigned to return to private business. Marriner S. Eccles formerly was associated with Bennett.

The FDIC showed that $11,712,894,000, invested in government securities Dec. 31, was 36 per cent of all loans and investments by the insured banks. Included in the compilation was every commercial bank except 1,058 small state institutions. Loans and discounts fell off $585,524,000 in the six month period ended Dec. 31. The increase in total assets from $43,435,788,000 June 30, 1934, to $46,439,270,000 Dec. 31, was attributed to an increase in deposits which jumped from $35,813,595,000 to $38,996,340,000. Membership in the corporation had grown by 241 institutions during the half year period.

U. S. ASKS MONTH'S DELAY IN GOLD SUIT OF R. A. TAFT

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The government today asked a month's stay in a suit brought in the court of claims by Robert A. Taft, son of the former President and chief justice. He contended that if the government refused to pay him gold on a $50 Liberty bond, it must continue to pay interest until the date of maturity and could not call the bond for redemption in advance.

Such claims cases were the loophole left by the high court's gold decision. While the justice department said today's delay move was only to allow more time to prepare the case, some observers thought congress might be asked to block permanently all suits of this type.

The suit actually involved only $1.07—one interest coupon—but should the court decide in his favor and be upheld by the Supreme court, the government would be foreclosed from making extensive savings in interest payments, by calling gold bonds bearing a high rate and substituting bonds at the prevailing low interest yields.

HABERDASHERY COMPANY LEASES NEW LOOP STORE

BY AL CHASE.

One of the loop's largest men's furnishings stores is announced for the northwest corner of Wabash avenue and Adams street by the Bedford Shirt company. According to L. D. Joselit, president of the concern, a store 40x40 is to be opened between May 10 and 15. The space was leased from the Chicago Real Estate Trust, owner of the twelve story building which fronts 100 feet on Adams and 116 feet on Wabash, and was formerly occupied by the Hartman corporation.

The remainder of the first floor has been leased by the Chicago Furniture Mart, now at 1100 South Wabash avenue, which will move to its new location about May 10 after extensive remodeling. James C. Poling of Aldis & Co. negotiated both leases.

One of the south shore's largest real estate transactions in several months was closed yesterday when William J. Nealon, representing an undisclosed purchaser, bought the southwest corner of East 75th street and Kingston avenue. The property is improved with a two story building containing eight stores and twenty apartments. Revenue stamps on the deed indicated a price of $137,000. The seller was the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee. Stanley C. Chadwick was the broker.

For the nine months ended March 31 net income amounted to $11,594,465, or $1.71 a common share, compared with $11,139,358, or $1.62 a share, in the nine months ended March 31, 1934.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation of Pittsburgh reported today to the securities commission that it has paid $1,250,000 in salary and bonus in the last five years to George Gordon Crawford, its former president. The report said Crawford was paid a salary of $100,000 and a minimum bonus of $150,000 a year under a contract. The last payment was made in Jan., 1935. The contract was not renewed, the company said, and Crawford has severed all relationship with the concern.

The company did not report the salaries of its present top officials, but said that eight officers, not named, received $159,940 and eight employes, also not named, who each received more than $20,000, received a total of $215,422.

COURT ENJOINS ASSET DIVERSION OF LIFE COMPANY

Pacific States Officials Named in Order.

A temporary injunction against the Pacific States Life Insurance company and its officers, employés, agents, and attorneys was issued yesterday by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay, restraining them from diverting or disposing of any property or assets of the Chicago National Life Insurance company, which was reinsured by Pacific States in 1932.

Judge Lindsay also issued an order requiring Pacific States to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take over its Illinois properties. The company was given until next Tuesday to file its answer. Hearing on the injunction also will be held at that time.

Order Property Taken Over.

Pacific States is a Colorado corporation. On orders of a federal district court in Denver last week J. Glenn Donaldson, assistant attorney general of the state, was directed to take over and liquidate the company's assets and properties.

Yesterday's action here also names the four officials indicted last week by the grand jury on charges brought by the Illinois insurance department. They are William N. Vernon, Denver, president of Pacific States; Frank S. Heilemann of Evanston, manager of the company's eastern division headquarters here; E. R. Elliott, general counsel, and John L. Robinson, a company attorney.

Judge Lindsay's orders were based on a long petition filed by Assistant Attorney General William C. Clausen on behalf of Ernest Palmer, state insurance director.

Charge Violation of State Laws.

Among other things the bill charged Pacific States Life and its officers with violation both of state laws and terms of the reinsurance contract by which they took over Chicago National Life. It alleges they failed to keep separate accounts for Chicago National business and also that they did not make required financial reports for it.

Further damage to the Chicago National creditors and policyholders also is charged because of alleged schemes to obtain control of its assets by forming other companies which would take over the properties. The petition specifically says that certain Pacific officials now are organizing a new assessment insurance company to accomplish this purpose. This is one of the grounds upon which a receiver is asked.

The Pacific States officials under indictment also are alleged to have paid themselves large salaries and diverted large sums both from the premium income and properties of Chicago National Life to the detriment of the latter's policyholders.

LIVE STOCK TREND EASIER DESPITE LIGHT RECEIPTS

Live stock markets yesterday developed a weaker undertone despite continued light receipts, although unevenness in the various departments was more pronounced. Better grades of steers showed little change for the day, but some of the poorer classes were as much as 15 to 25 cents lower. The trade carried a nominal top quotation of $15.25 for highly finished weighty steers, but nothing sold above $14.75.

Well finished butcher hogs were steady, but light and unfinished stock ruled weak to 10 cents lower, underweights finishing at the bottom. Selected 210 to 221 pound averages topped the list at $11.50, processing tax included, while the general average stood at $11.30, both prices steady with Monday.

Steady prices were paid for lambs. City butchers selected a few wooled lambs up to $8.60 while packers paid from $8.25 to $8.50.

RELIEF IS RUINING CITY BONDS, SAYS BENEFIT FOUNDER

Woman's Insurance Head Cites Former Worth.

Municipal bonds have become unsound investments for the first time in 40 years as a result of governmental relief, Mrs. Bina West Miller of Port Huron, Mich., founder and supreme president of the Woman's Benefit association, declared yesterday at the Palmer house.

Speaking before 500 delegates to the 43d quadrennial state convention of the association, she spoke of the financial status of the association which, founded in 1892 on a borrowed capital of $150, has handled more than $80,000,000 in fraternal insurance and today has an invested capital of $34,000,000.

Relief Altered Outlook.

"We have always invested solely in municipal bonds," she said, "and never, until the last few years, had we lost a dollar. We considered that a record. Then came public relief and cities issued bonds to meet the emergency. That was all right, but later they issued more bonds, and more, in order to meet the government half way."

The result, she said, is that during the last three years municipal bonds in which the organization's $34,000,000 is invested have been constantly in default or in process of refunding, causing her workers to do "more pioneer work in refunding than any other existing society."

The original issuance of many of these welfare bonds she termed "unnecessary," for the relief picture, she contends, is only about one half as dire as it is painted.

Assails Lack of Thrift.

"I don't believe in taxing the thrifty to care for the shiftless," she said. "I don't mind caring for the old and sick or people unable to care for themselves, but I resent the creation of a class of dependents. This extreme relief burden could have been avoided before it arose by plain, old-fashioned foresight and individual thrift."

Mrs. Miller hastened to add that she was not a reformer, nor did she offer any panacea. "I just have common sense," she declared, "and I don't believe in waste. If I had a community on my hands, I'd get it together and work out ways and means of keeping my disbursements within my income."

SUGAR

NEW YORK, April 23.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.30c per lb. for spots. No sales were reported and although buyers seemed to be showing a little more interest at this level for sugars in nearby positions, there was nothing available below 3.35c, while 3.40c was asked for later shipment.

In a less active market, sugar futures, after showing early advances of 1 to 3 points, reacted under realizing and scattered hedge selling. Final prices were from 1 point lower to 1 point higher in the No. 3 contract, and unchanged to 1 point higher in the No. 1. Sales were 19,400 tons in the No. 3 contract and only 2,900 tons in the No. 1.

In refined prices were unchanged at 5.10c per lb. for fine granulated with a fair withdrawal demand reported. It was said that a heavy business was offered refiners yesterday before the advance became effective, but that refiners were limiting sales to 30 days' requirements only.

Note—Above raw sugar prices exclude processing tax of ½c lb. Refined sugar prices include the tax.

LARD DECLINES 10 CENTS IN SYMPATHY WITH GRAIN

Provision futures made a firm start and a tame finish yesterday, with closing trades showing net losses of 10 cents on lard, while bellies were nominally unchanged to 2½ cents lower. Scattered buying was responsible for the early advance, but trade was not large and the market reacted later in sympathy with grains and cottonseed oil. There was no spreading of consequence between the latter and lard during the day. Cash lard closed at $12.85; loose, $12.77; leaf, $12.87, and bellies at $16.62 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

TEXAS CORP. MAY REFUND BONDS OF 100 MILLIONS

Directors Consider Calling Debentures Oct. 1.

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—The directors of the Texas corporation are giving consideration to the question of refunding the company's bonds, C. B. Ames, chairman of the board, informed the stockholders at their annual meeting today.

"The debentures are callable on Oct. 1 at 101½," said Mr. Ames. "The call notice, if made, would go out in July. Between now and July the directors will be giving the subject careful thought."

Obligations $100,423,000.

At the end of last year the Texas corporation had outstanding $89,933,000 of 5 per cent debentures due in 1944. It also has guaranteed $6,600,000 of 5½ per cent debentures issued by the California Petroleum corporation, a subsidiary, and $3,890,000 of 5 per cent California Petroleum debentures.

In reply to a question by a stockholder with respect to "hot oil," Mr. Ames said:

"Hot oil is under better control now than it ever has been because of recent legislation both in Washington and in Texas. So we are hopeful the hot oil situation is improving and that is one of the factors why we feel more optimistic about operations in 1935."

Calls Gasoline Tax Burdensome.

Mr. Ames emphasized the great number of taxes on the oil industry. He stated that motor vehicles paid about 1 billion 100 million dollars a year in taxes, or three times more taxes than is paid by all the railroads combined. When the motor vehicle tax is diverted to purposes other than highways, Mr. Ames said, it becomes merely a sales tax, "and a sales tax ought not to be applied at 100 per cent on the wholesale value of the commodity when other things are not subjected to a tax at all."

WHEELING & LAKE ERIE MAY REFUND $8,000,000 BONDS

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—The Wheeling and Lake Erie railway, about which a controversy for control between the Van Sweringen and Taplin interest centers, is considering the refunding of $8,000,000 of bonds to obtain a lower rate of interest, it developed today. If consummated, this would be the largest transaction of its kind arranged by a railway in more than a decade.

The securities involved are $4,827,000 refunding series A 4½s per cent bonds and $3,303,000 series B 5 per cent bonds, both due in 1966. A rate of 4 per cent for the refunding issue is under discussion. The series A bonds are callable at 102½ at any interest date after sixty days' notice, and the series B bonds are callable at 103 on the same terms.

Controling interest in the Wheeling is in the hands of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as collateral for loans issued to Van Sweringen and Taplin companies. The Nickel Plate, controled by the Alleghany corporation, top company in the Van Sweringen railway holding structure, owns 53.34 per cent of Wheeling common and preferred stock, all of which is pledged with the government agency for a $15,511,000 loan.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia railway, which, although headed by Frank E. Taplin as president and chairman, is controled by the Pennroad corporation, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania railroad, has pledged much of its minority interest in the Wheeling with the RFC for a loan of $3,771,788.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES MOVE 1 TO 8 POINTS LOWER

Cotton prices fluctuated within narrow limits yesterday and in the main followed the action of stocks and grain, the late recession in the latter being largely responsible for the drop in cotton. At the finish Chicago was off 1 to 7 points and other markets 4 to 8 points.

Longs were steady sellers of the May delivery, with heavy buying of the deferred futures by those who did not care to lose their position in the market. The south was a seller early while foreigners and the trade bought. Spot cotton closed 5 points lower, with New Orleans and Houston 11.90 cents, Galveston 11.85 cents, and New York 11.80 cents per pound. Prices follow:

ASSAIL COTTON PROCESSING TAX IN COURT TEST

Mills Charge Legislation Unconstitutional.

Boston, Mass., April 23.—[Special.]—The right of the government "to take money from the pockets of one group of taxpayers and give it to another group" though processing taxes was challenged in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here today by receivers for the Hoosic Mills in the first major test case on the processing tax on cotton.

Protesting against the payment of $81,000 in taxes, Attorneys Edward R. Hale and Bennett Sanderson declared they would take the case to the United States Supreme court for final adjudication, if necessary. Dividing their attack upon processing taxes into three general arguments, mill attorneys argued:

1. That congress exceeded its general powers and the limitations on its powers in authorizing processing taxes under the AAA.

Charge Lack of Conformity.

2. That tax provisions of the act do not comply with constitutional requirements prescribed with respect to tax laws.

3. That tax provisions of the act constitute a delegation of legislative authority to the executive department in violation of the constitutional requirement for separation of legislative, executive and judicial powers.

Mill attorneys declared that "hundreds of millions of dollars have been collected illegally in processing taxes" because congress exceeded its authority in delegating to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace the right to fix the rate in the processing taxes.

"In this act," said Attorney Sanderson, "congress gives a general outline of what it wants done and leaves it to the secretary of agriculture to carry it out. If this continues no one can foresee to what ridiculous and illegal lengths it will be carried."

He added that textile manufacturers have no assurance that the tax will not be abruptly raised by Secretary Wallace in his efforts for crop control.

Claims Tax Is Valid.

Robert N. Anderson, special assistant to the United States attorney general, cited numerous cases in which processing taxes have been held constitutional and valid. He pointed out that the AAA was created as an emergency measure designed to promote the general welfare and had raised the value of cotton from 30 to 50 per cent.

Government counsel, Robert N. Anderson, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, denied the appellants' assertions, declaring that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was bound by the policy declaration of the act. The delegation to the secretary, he said, of the power to initiate a reduction program was the only means congress had to carry out its plan and it was validly granted.

ARGUE RECEIVER SUIT FOR HUPP MOTOR CO. TODAY

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—(AP)—A motion for appointment of a temporary operating receiver for the Hupp Motor Car company, will be argued in Federal District court Wednesday, Judge Edward J. Moinet announced today.

Attorneys for Archie M. Andrews, chairman of the Hupp board, filed a reply to the motion, which was made by J. Walter Drake, former board chairman and the owner of 15,000 Hupp shares. Drake asked the court to oust Andrews, charging that his activities were detrimental to stockholders' interests. Drake obtained a temporary order some weeks ago restraining Andrews from making effective contracts which Drake contended were beneficial to Andrews but not to stockholders.

Andrews' answer declared there was no need for court action, the stockholders having redress through the company itself; that the company is solvent but that its financial condition will be impaired if the lawsuit is continued, and that Drake filed the suit to induce suppliers to withdraw credit.

WARNS PACKERS FACE RUIN FROM FREIGHT RATES

Meat packers in central and eastern United States will be ruined if present live stock freight rates to eastern markets are continued, W. R. Sinclair, president of the Midwest Association of Meat Packers, said yesterday at an interstate commerce commission hearing.

These opinions also were voiced by W. W. Adams, president of the Grade Foods Products company. He told Examiners Chester E. Stiles and A. S. Parker, representing the commission, that live stock rates from west to east were higher than rates over the same distance in either the west or the south.

Adams suggested new rates of 54 cents per 100 pounds in the east central territory, 59 cents in the west, with a combination rate of 55 cents for shipping to eastern markets.

Baltimore-Ohio Will Cut Chicago-Washington Time

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad announced yesterday that the running time of the Capitol Limited between Chicago and Washington will be reduced 25 minutes on Sunday. The train will also be speeded up westbound. The schedule of the Fort Pitt to Pittsburgh and Washington also will be quickened. The Pennsylvania announced yesterday that it will reduce the service charge on the Broadway Limited from $10 to $7.50 for the Chicago-New York run.

Chicago Calls More Tax Warants for Redemption

City of Chicago corporate tax anticipation warants, levy of 1929, numbers 1,975 to 2,055, were called yesterday for payment tomorrow by R. B. Upham, city controler. Also called were corporates numbers 136A22 to 149A6, levy of 1933, Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, 1933 levy, numbers 290A1 and 295A10, and Firemen's Fund, 1933 levy, numbers 486A5 to 490A3.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

An Institution of National Reputation

Has a number of vacancies, created through promotions. This will mean a permanent connection for the salesman or businessman who can sell a dignified plan to a junior or senior executive. Not interested in curiosity seekers or men looking for something "to try out" temporarily. You must be neat, 30-50, accustomed talking to business men, and have urge not only to make immediate money [which you can do] but to become associated with organization where you can build a permanent future. You will be trained—given cooperation necessary to get immediate production. Surroundings will be pleasant, and you will associate with men making money and thinking success. This entire plan set up by sales-minded executives; and in selling catering and rooms you will be furnished with kind of sales material that produces immediate results. You should begin earning commissions $50 per week. As you become more familiar with field, you should duplicate performances of men making over $100 per week. See Mr. Wolvin, Morrison hotel, Wednesday.

PERSONALITY

We have an opening for a man who can THINK. We prefer one who has had at least enough experience to outgrow "fear of the buyer," but, in the final analysis—the man's personality will be the determining factor.

We are not so much interested in a salesman as we are in a man who can learn our business and then qualify himself to direct others.

Our product is one needed by every car owner. There are other similar products manufactured in the United States, but ours is a POLISH INVENTION and is superior to anything of its kind the world has ever known. It is sold through retail outlets.

Do not investigate unless you feel confident that your services are worth $3,000 per year, or more. Comm.

We will grant you a personal interview if you are able to interest us over the phone. Call State 9697, C. C. 406, for appointment, or if you prefer, address C C 406, Tribune.

OUR PLAN
THE SEASON'S SENSATION.

Spring, our best season, has arrived, providing an opening for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west; previous experience an advantage but not essential. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission weekly in full on a basis of average sales expectancy; also allowing a daily drawing account privilege, if necessary, while getting started; can earn $30 per week and upward consistently. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only; can also use a few saleswomen.

STRAUS & SCHRAM.

It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a studio in a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, or a little top floor flat with a huge 35 ft. living room, or a roof garden, or a place where a large family can live with huge rooms flooded with light which give the feeling of a nice home and also a full view of our illuminated buildings at night. Some with lofty ceilings, all with fireplaces, all interesting; a little charm about them that makes you glad you live there. You are home long before most of your friends, with a full evening before you. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 7 rooms. Also shop space.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location, low fares to California.
